TOBACCO TAX AIMED AT A FEW BIG FIRMS

Senator Hitchcock Presents McReynolds Plan to Control Business Expansion.

WILSON SAID TO AGREE

Framed as a Tariff Amendment, It Taxes Producers Controlling 25 Per Cent. of Output.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—The first move to carry out Attorney General McReynolds's plan to tax the output of big tobacco companies, so as make it unprofitable for them to produce more than a certain amount, was made to-day, when Senator Gilbert Hitchcock of Nebraska presented an amendment to the pending Tariff bill. Snuff production is included in the Nebraska Senator's scheme of limiting heavy production. Mr. Hitchcock proposed the amendment after he had had a conference with the Attorney General, who, also had a conversation with Senator Simmons, the Chairman of the Finance Committee, at the Capitol.

When the Democratic Excise Tax bill was under consideration in the Senate in July, 1912, Mr. Hitchcock presented an amendment to it that was in most respects similar to the amendment he proposed to-day. Some changes from the original amendment, it is understood, were made after Attorney General McReynolds had talked with Senators Simmons and Hitchcock.

The Hitchcock proposal is generally regarded as expressing the Attorney General's views, and while it has not been publicly indorsed, or, as far as known, even privately sanctioned by President Wilson, Senators are inclined to look on it as embodying a purpose with which the Administration sympathizes.

No hesitation was shown by Mr. Hitchcock in asserting that the purpose of the bill was to place such an embargo on the output of big tobacco and snuff companies that they could not compete successfully with their smaller competitors, the so-called "independents." The American Tobacco Company, Liggett & Myers, Lorillard & Co., the American Snuff Company, the G. W. Helme Company, and the Weyman & Bruton Company, the last three being heavy manufacturers of snuff, were named by Mr. Hitchcock as concerns that would be affected adversely by his proposal.

Hitchcock Explains.

The dominant idea in the amendment was explained by Mr. Hitchcock in a brief speech when he presented it in the Senate.

"My amendment," he said, "is not only to raise revenue by a high tax on the great corporations, but it is a regulatory measure which will enable the independent manufacturer to live. Congress has passed a law destroying monopoly and the people had fondly hoped that purpose would be accomplished. But the decree of the Supreme Court of the United States permitted the Tobacco Trust to continue as four associated trusts, with the same stockholders and controlled by the same interests. The question is: Shall this condition be permitted to continue? It is impossible to interfere with the decree entered by the Supreme Court, but it is possible for Congress, with its great power of taxation, to regulate if not to destroy these associated trusts."

Mr. Hitchcock referred to the laws taxing oleomargarine, sulphur matches, and State banknotes.

"My amendment," he went on, "exempts competitive companies, and will fall on the great concerns that are violators of the spirit of the law. If it works in regard to this industry, it may be applied to others."

Mr. Hitchcock referred to his proposed tax as an "additional progressive excise tax." The amendment provides in substance that manufactured tobacco of over 80,000,000 pounds and snuff of over 4,000,000 pounds, produced by any one tobacco company in one year, shall be taxed 1 cent a pound for the first million pounds per quarter, 2 cents a pound for the second million pounds per quarter, and on a similar progressive scale up to 6 cents a pound per quarter. These taxes on tobacco, he explained, would be additional to the 8 cents a pound inland revenue tax, and there were provisions for the additional taxation of cigars and cigarettes.

There are 2,700 tobacco companies in the United States, Mr. Hitchcock said, 478 cigarette firms, and 75 snuff concerns, with only three of these companies, respectively, likely to be restricted in their output by the Hitchcock amendment. Of the 20,000 cigar concerns, only two or three would be affected by the new proposed levy.

Text of Hitchcock Amendment.

Senator Hitchcock's proposed amendment to the Tariff bill reads:

After Section 4 add an additional section to be known as Section 5, as follows:

That manufacturers of tobacco, cigars, cigarettes, and snuff shall, after the 31st day of December, 1913, be subject to pay a special quarterly excise tax, in addition to all other taxes provided by law, which special additional excise tax shall be payable quarterly and be graduated and levied as follows:

A—On all tobacco, whether smoking tobacco, plug tobacco, twist or finecut, manufactured during the quarter over and in excess of 20,000,000 pounds, 1 cent a pound for the first 1,000,000 pounds excess or part thereof; 2 cents a pound for the second 1,000,000 pounds excess or part thereof; 3 cents a pound for the third 1,000,000 pounds excess or part thereof; 4 cents a pound for the fourth 1,000,000 pounds excess or part thereof; 5 cents a pound for the fifth 1,000,000 pounds excess or parts thereof; 6 cents a pound for all above the fifth 1,000,000 pounds excess.

B—On all cigarettes weighing not more than three pounds per 1,000, manufactured during the quarter and in excess of 400,000,000 cigarettes, 25 cents per 1,000 on the first 50,000,000 cigarettes excess or part thereof; 60 cents per 1,000 on the second 50,000,000 cigarettes excess or part thereof; $1 per 1,000 on the third 50,000,000 cigarettes excess or part thereof; $1.50 per 1,000 on the fourth 50,000,000 cigarettes excess or part thereof; $2 per 1,000 on the fifth 50,000,000 cigarettes excess or part thereof; $2.60 per 1,000 on the sixth 50,000,000 cigarettes excess or part thereof; $3.25 per 1,000 on all above the sixth 50,000,000 cigarettes excess.

C—On all cigarettes weighing more than three pounds per 1,000 manufactured during the quarter over and in excess of 1,000,000 cigarettes, $1 per 1,000 on the first 500,000 excess per quarter or part thereof; $2 per 1,000 on the second 500,000 cigarettes excess per quarter or part thereof; $3 per 1,000 on all above the second 500,000 cigarettes excess.

D—On all cigars weighing more than three pounds per 1,000 manufactured during the quarter over and in excess of 400,000,000 cigars, $1 per 1,000 on the first 100,000,000 cigars excess or part thereof; $2 per 1,000 on the second 100,000,000 cigars excess or part thereof; $3 per 1,000 on all above the second 100,000,000 cigars excess.

E—On all cigars weighing not more than three pounds per 1,000 manufactured during the quarter over and in excess of 50,000,000 cigars, 20 cents per 1,000 on the first 10,000,000 excess or part thereof; 45 cents per 1,000 on the second 10,000,000

DE LA BARRA SOON TO QUIT.

Foresees Huerta's Fall, Say Fugitives—French Clash Feared.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAVANA, June 5.—José Santos Chocano, the Peruvian poet, arrived here to-day, having been expelled from Mexico by Gen. Victoriano Huerta, Provisional President, as a "pernicious foreigner." President Huerta charged that Chocano interfered in labor matters in the Mexican Republic.

Chocano refused to discuss politics, but many of his fellow-passengers asserted that the Huerta régime was nearing its end. They said that Francisco re la Barra, realizing that the failure of the régime was approaching, had engaged passage for Europe for next Thursday, explaining that it was his purpose to retire from politics.

Fellow-passengers of the poet also stated that the Mexican House, when it passed the 200-million loan, had no legal quorum, and that they would go to war with France, if necessary, because they did not intend to repay the loan. The passengers said further that it was believed in Mexico that the reason why the United States would not recognize Gen. Huerta's Government was due to the knowledge that there was no quorum of the Mexican Congress when the resignations of President Francisco I. Madero, Jr., and Vice President Suarez were accepted and Gen. Huerta was elected Provisional President.

The poet Chocano purposes to lecture before Cuban societies in this capital relative to the disinterestedness of the United States policy toward Latin America.

Special to The New York Times.

LOS ANGELES, June 5.—A special from Mexico City says the Mexican Cabinet is expected to hand in its resignation to President Huerta to-morrow. Secretary of the Treasury Obregon stated to-night that he would hand his resignation to the President to-morrow and that he expected all other members of the Cabinet to do the same. The clash between the President and his Cabinet and Congress over the proposed French loan brought on the Cabinet crisis.

PRESIDENT ENELL ARRESTED

Head of Kendall Nail and Supply Co. a Prisoner in St. Luke's.

George A. Enell of 353 West Eighty-third Street, President of the Kendall Nail and Supply Company of 949 Broadway, was placed under arrest last night at St. Luke's Hospital, where he was a patient, by Detective Markey of the Mercer Street Station. The arrest was made on a warrant issued by Magistrate House in the Jefferson Market Court yesterday afternoon on complaint of Roy L. Brower, Vice President of the Kendall Nail and Supply Company, who charged that Enell had since June 1 last wilfully and with intent to cheat and defraud him destroyed certain books of account and record of the company.

At St. Luke's Hospital no information regarding the arrest could be obtained. It was said that Enell was a private patient who had been received at the hospital only two days before. It was understood that he had come to the hospital from a downtown hotel, and that he had been in a desperate condition, but it was said at the hospital that he was recovering from that condition, and was now out of danger. The nature of the illness from which he suffered could not be ascertained from the hospital authorities. It was merely said that he had had "an unhappy experience."

It was admitted at the hospital that attempts had been made to have the patient arrested there, and that the authorities had been busy all day warding off the persons who made them. A special nurse was with the patient last night, but it was said that no policeman had been stationed on guard there.

Roy L. Brower was not at his home at 163 Seventeenth Street, Brooklyn, last night, and it was said that he was not expected there. The only other officer of the Kendall Nail and Supply Company listed in the Copartnership Directory is Peter J. Montane, its Treasurer, who lives at 1,072 New York Avenue, Brooklyn. He could not be reached last night.

The Kendall Nail and Supply Company is a Massachusetts corporation, with a capital of $50,000. Enell is married and has a home in Port Washington.

SHOOTS AT HIS WIFE.

Ex-Policeman Fires Four Bullets, Which Miss—Then Fights Arrest.

Edward Murray of 157 East 147th Street, who was dismissed as a patrolman in the Police Department two weeks ago, went home last night in an ugly mood and quarreled with his wife, which quickly culminated in his firing four bullets at her from his revolver. None of them hit her. The police say Murray had been drinking. The woman took refuge in the rooms of a friend. Murray did not follow but locked himself in.

Four detectives from the West 125th Street Station hurried to the scene of the shooting. At first Murray would not open the door, and when finally he did Detective Deishly found a revolver pressing against his abdomen. He retained his presence of mind and a threat caused the ex-policeman to put up his weapon. The other detectives jumped in and a fight followed, during which Detective Phelan was so badly kicked that he had to be treated by Police Surgeon Williams. Murray refused to walk and had to be dragged to the police station, where he was locked up on a charge of felonious assault and violating the Sullivan law. The police say they found a box containing 100 cartridges in the apartment.

WEDS MAN WHO HURT HER.

Miss Lyons Becomes Mrs. Young Just a Year After the Accident.

Just one year ago yesterday Miss Leonora Lyons of 510 West 150th Street, was struck and knocked down by an automobile on the Grand Concourse a short distance from her home. The chauffeur picked her up in his arms and put her in the tonneau of the big touring car which he was driving. Then he hurried to the Lebanon Hospital, where she was detained in the accident ward for two weeks.

Every day the chauffeur, George Young of 1,270 Amsterdam Avenue, called to visit her, and on each visit he carried flowers and candy to her. After her recovery he sought and received permission to visit her at the home of her parents.

Two months ago the couple announced their engagement, and yesterday afternoon at 3:35, just one year to the minute after the accident which had made them acquainted, they were married by the Rev. Dr. Evans at the latter's residence, 836 West Eighty-sixth Street.

WHITMAN WILL RUN FOR THE MAYORALTY

Ready to Accept the Nomination from Any "Organization Properly Constituted."

MYSTIFIES THE POLITICIANS

He Declares Himself to Citizens' Democracy Committee—May Force Fusion and Progressive Action.

District Attorney Charles S. Whitman made public announcement yesterday that he would be willing to run for Mayor at the municipal election of next Fall, provided the nomination was tendered to him by an "organization properly constituted."

As early as last March Mr. Whitman appeared as a receptive candidate either for the Mayoralty or for a renomination for his present office or for a nomination for the Supreme Court. Now he has narrowed his choice to the nomination for Mayor. Mr. Whitman's decision was made public after he had received a visit from a delegation representing the Citizens' Democracy, an organization incorporated for political purposes, but not coming strictly within the definition of an organization "properly constituted," from a political point of view. This delegation offered to make Mr. Whitman their candidate for Mayor. It is understood that the Citizens' Democracy cannot within its own membership command the 4,000 votes which would be required to place the District Attorney's name by petition on the primary ballot.

"I will accept the nomination for Mayor from a properly constituted organization," said District Attorney Whitman when he was asked to discuss the offer made to him by the Citizens' Democracy. "I told the delegation that called on me to-day that I would be glad and graetful to have the indorsement of their organization should I become the nominee for Mayor."

In a formal statement made last night Mr. Whitman said further:

"The District Attorney's office has demonstrated that deplorable conditions have existed and do exist in some of the city departments. I believe they can be remedied, and I think that can be done only by the Mayor and those under him charged with the duty of administration rather than that of the prosecution of crime."

Active Work for Whitman.

If Louis Wolfert, a man who has been prominent in independent movements before, who acted as spokesman for the delegation, makes good his promise, active work to place Mr. Whitman in the field for the nomination for Mayor will be under way in a very few hours. Mr. Wolfert, after the delegation had called on Mr. Whitman, came away satisfied that the District Attorney had authorized his visitors to go ahead with the work of promoting his candidacy. Mr. Wolfert said that the Citizens' Democracy would open headquarters at once in all the five boroughs, with a view of obtaining the required 4,000 signatures to petitions to gain a place for Mr. Whitman on the primary ballot.

"We have not been satisfied altogether," said Mr. Wolfert, "with the manner in which the Fusion Committee has gone about its work of selecting an anti-Tammany candidate for the Mayoralty nomination. We are actuated merely by the desire to place a good, reliable man whose efficiency and integrity are beyond question at the head of the City Government. Mr. Whitman is such a man. We have become fearful lest in the deliberations of the Fusion Committee Mr. Whitman might be passed over for some candidate with fewer qualifications for the Mayoralty."

Mr. Whitman's statement and the action of the Citizens' Democracy gave rise to a good deal of speculation in political circles throughout the city. The probable effect on the Fusion movement was discussed very generally. No one who could speak with authority cared to give the views of the Fusionists.

In some quarters the opinion was expressed that the action of the Citizens' Democracy might have been inspired by the Republican organization, which claims District Attorney Whitman as its own, and naturally would be anxious to have him named for the Mayoralty in a way which would give his nomination a non-partisan aspect. It was suggested that the action of the Citizens' Democracy might be the means of forcing the Fusion Committee, as well as of the Progressive Party organization, in this city to fall in line for Mr. Whitman. Mr. Whitman has addressed a number of Progressive district clubs of late.

Leaders Are Non-Committal.

Political leaders generally were exceedingly reticent when asked to comment on yesterday's development in the Mayoralty situation. Herbert Parsons, who is returning as a power in the affairs of the local Republican organization, when asked what he thought of District Attorney Whitman's announcement, said: "I have not read it; I don't care to comment until I do."

Samuel S. Koenig, Chairman of the New York County Republican Committee, said: "I have nothing to say."

Controller Prendergast said: "I have nothing to say."

Joseph M. Price, Chairman of the Nominating Committee of the Citizens' Municipal Committee, said: "I have no comment to make."

Henry Moskowitz, a prominent Bull Mooser and member of the Nominating Committee of the Fusion movement, said: "I am unwilling to make any statement until I know more about it."

Mayor Gaynor said: "Nothing to say."

The delegation from the Citizens' Democracy was made up of fifteen members, including, besides Mr. Wolfert, Jacob G. Lazarus, Henry M. Harris, ex-Assemblyman Thomas F. Long of the Seventh District, Thomas F. Thornton, Frank Donnelly, Isaac Newman, Moses Morris, and Arthur J. Noble.

The Citizens' Democracy says it has a large membership made up of independent Democrats who never have been drawn into any alliance with William R. Hearst. The organization has maintained a headquarters at the Union Square Hotel.

SKIRT WRECKS AEROPLANE.

Catches Lever, Causing Death of Woman Passenger and Pilot.

BUC, France, June 5.—The French airman, Auguste Bernard, and a passenger, Mme. Rose Amicel, were killed to-day under unusual circumstances while making a flight at the aerodrome here.

When the aeroplane was at a considerable altitude Mme. Amicel's skirt became entangled in the lever connections. Instantly the pilot lost control and the machine plunged to the earth and was shattered.

CHAMPION SPELLER IS FRANK B. WILLIS

President at Washington Bee in Which Ohio Congressman Wins Against 27.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Frank B. Willis of Ada, Ohio, a former school teacher and college professor, who is now a Republican member of Congress, claims the championship belt as the "best speller in the United States."

In the presence of the President of the United States, members of the Cabinet, and nearly a thousand others, Mr. Willis to-night stood out against all comers in the orthographical contest given in connection with the annual ladies' entertainment by the National Press Club at the New Willard Hotel. Now the Ohio member is ready to challenge the world in a spelling combat.

The entertainment took the form of an old-fashioned "spelling bee." David F. Houston, the Secretary of Agriculture, was the pronouncer. Fourteen Washington newspaper correspondents or editors were the challengers. The challenged were an equal number of members of the Congress, including five United States Senators and nine Representatives.

The spelling bee buzzed back and forth between newspaper men and statesmen, until it narrowed to three contestants. These were Ira E. Bennett, editor of The Washington Post, and two members of the Congress. One of the survivors was Miles Poindexter, Progressive Party Senator from Washington State. Mr. Willis was the other.

Bennett eased along gayly until Dr. Houston flung at him the word "Bdellium."

"D-e-l-i-u-m," spelt back Bennett.

"Wrong. You're out," ruled the pronouncer. Poindexter and Willis ran along neck and neck for a dozen words.

"Hydrocephalous" rang out the stern voice of Secretary Houston to Senator Poindexter.

"H-y-d-r-o-c-e-p-h-e-l-o-u-s" was the way the third party Senator tried to spell it.

"You missed by a letter," ruled the Secretary of Agriculture, "and I award the palm to Congressman Willis of Ohio, who must defend his right to the title against all comers."

At first each contestant had two trials at one word. Each scored a bull's eye on his word, except Representative Foster of Illinois, who was asked to spell "Satan" and responded with "S-a-t-e-n." The first to trip in the real contest, when the one-chance-at-a-word rounds were reached, was Senator Ashurst of Arizona.

"Spell Acacia," said Dr. Houston. The Arizona Senator, tall and erect, looked dreamily at the ceiling a moment and then responded with "A-c-c-a-k-i-a." Flustered over the laughter his attempt had inspired, he retreated from the stand. The order in which the other contestants failed and the words that ruined their hopes were:

Representative Norris of Nebraska—Cantaloup.
J. Fred Essary, Baltimore Sun—Exsiccate.
Robert M. Ginter, Pittsburgh Gazette-Times—Mnemonics.
A. E. Heiss, New Orleans Times-Democrat—Fuchsia.

JOCKEY DIES AFTER A FALL.

Lynch's Skull Fractured in a Steeplechase at Locust Valley.

James F. Lynch, a jockey employed by J. E. Widener of Philadelphia, died at the Nassau County Hospital in Mineola last night from injuries suffered in a fall in a steeplechase on the track of the Piping Rock Racing Association at Locust Valley, L. I., yesterday afternoon.

Lynch was riding Exemplar, one of Mr. Widener's horses, in a race known as the Cooperstown Plate, the next to the last race on the card, when the accident occurred. On the last jump Exemplar was seen to catch his forefeet in the brush and go down. Faultless and Shannon River, two horses which were close behind Exemplar, stumbled over him, and it was said that one of them stepped on Lynch before he could free himself from his stirrups.

The other jockeys who fell, Allen and Chandler, scrambled to their feet unhurt, but Lynch was unconscious when he was picked up and carried in the track ambulance to the hospital. Lynch on Wednesday rode Mrs. Payne Whitney's Delirium, which won the fifth race at Belmont Park on that day.

CONVICT 38 PICKETS IN PATERSON STRIKE

Men Found Guilty of Unlawful Assembly for Blocking the Streets Near Silk Mills.

Special to The New York Times.

PATERSON, N. J., June 5.—After being out for less than an hour this afternoon, the jury in the trial of forty-one strikers, arrested on April 25 charged with unlawful assembly while doing picket duty around the Harding Mill, in Straight Street, found thirty-eight of the accused persons guilty and acquitted three others. Judge Abram Klenert told the jury in his charge that the legal right of the strikers to picket the mills was not the issue at stake, as the defense attempted to make out.

"If, as the prosecution contends, these men defied the authority of the constituted police authorities in refusing to open a public street to the free use of the public, and if, as the prosecution contends," he said, "they were there for idle and unlawful purposes, then your duty is plain."

In his charge the Judge pointed out that three of those under indictment had proved that they were in the vicinity by chance and that they were not strikers and had no interest in the strike. They should be acquitted, he said. The penalty for unlawful assembly is one to three years in State prison or $500 fine or both. The convicted men will be sentenced later.

A meeting of the Central Strike Committee, which embraces the three branches of the silk industry, was held in Helvetia Hall this afternoon. After a discussion which lasted for more than two hours, it was decided to appoint a committee of fifteen members, including five from each of the broadsilk ribbon and dyeing branches of the silk workers to seek a meeting with a committee from the Manufacturers' Association.

While the trial of Harry Price of 29 Lane Street was in progress before Recorder Carroll to-day, Hannah Silverman, an 18-year-old girl, who was sentenced to three months in the county jail for unlawful assembly and who was at liberty under an appeal, hissed the testimony of a policeman who arrested Price. Recorder Carroll summoned the girl to the bar and sentenced her to twenty days in the county jail for contempt of court. Price was convicted of attacking Miss Mary Hall and her sister, Mrs. Emma Banghart, in Tyler Street last night. He was sentenced to three months in the county jail.

While riding to their homes in Haledon after their day's work in the plant of the Oriental Silk Dye Works at Riverside this afternoon, three dyers had a narrow escape from painful injury when an Italian, who was riding in the seat ahead of them in an open trolley car, arose while the car was in motion and threw two handfuls of red pepper at the men in the seat behind him. His aim was bad and the conductor of the car received some of the pepper in his mouth. The Italian then jumped from the car and disappeared in the woods.

JAILED FOR INCITING LABOR.

Coldwell Made Inflammatory Speeches in Hopedale Strike.

WORCESTER, Mass., June 5.—Joseph M. Coldwell, who was in charge of the strike at the plant of the Draper Company at Hopedale, was found guilty to-day of uttering menaces and threatening speeches, and was sentenced to three months in the House of Correction.

Coldwell was the candidate for Treasurer on the Socialist State ticket in 1911.

Assuming direction of the forces of the Industrial Workers of the World, when the foundrymen employed by the Draper Company struck, he made frequent speeches to which the authorities objected, and was finally arrested and convicted in the District Court at Milford. He appealed, and his case came before a jury in the Superior Court here.

Some time ago Coldwell withdrew from the leadership of the Hopedale strike, owing, it was said, to differences with other Industrial Workers' leaders.

KILLS THREE, HURTS THREE.

Man Angered by Wife's Absence Then Attempts Suicide.

CANTON, Ohio, June 5.—Enraged he said because he had come home and found his wife absent, Robert Roach, 29 years old, went to the home of her parents to-night and shot and killed his mother-in-law, sister-in-law, and his baby, 16 months old. He also shot another sister-in-law. When his arrest was attempted, he shot a member of the Canton police force in the leg and bit another man in the hand.

The dead are: Mrs. Thisby Schatzman, 61; Ruth Schatzman, 19, and Foris Roach, 16 months. The wounded are: Viola Schatzman, 17, who is in a hospital, expected to die; W. W. Fielding, desk Sergeant of the police force, and "Happy" Meyers, a drayman.

After the shooting Roach took refuge in an upstairs room and tried to asphyxiate himself. He was captured and revived and confessed to the shooting. He was arrested by Patrolmen Riffle and Smiley, who went to the aid of Fielding and Meyers.

MUST LEAVE THE BRONX.

Manhattan Office Holders Can't Stay There and Hold Jobs.

William F. Snyder, in charge of the Election Bureau of the County Clerk's office, announced yesterday that Aug. 4 would be the last day the 700 or more office holders in New York County who live in the Bronx could continue their residence there and stay in office.

On that date the Bronx becomes a separate county, and residents of it will not be qualified to be office holders in New York County.

As a precedent for this it was pointed out that Supreme Court Justice Humphreys of Queens County dismissed a court crier because he lived in Nassau County. This case was carried to the Appellate Division, and Justice Gaynor there decided that the dismissal of the official was proper, as he was not entitled to live in one county and draw a salary from another county.

NOYES QUITS BENCH; SALARY TOO SMALL

Judge of Second Federal District Sends His Resignation to the President.

TO OPEN LAW OFFICE HERE

Jurist Finds Income Insufficient to Support His Family and Educate His Children.

Judge Walter C. Noyes of the United States District Court for the Second Federal Judicial District, has resigned. It was announced in Washington yesterday that President Wilson had received Judge Noyes's resignation and had accepted it, and the report was confirmed by Judge Noyes at his home in Lyme, Conn., last night.

In his letter to the President Judge Noyes said he had found the salary inadequate for the support of his family and the education of his children. The salary is $7,000 a year. Judge Noyes has a wife and three daughters.

Judge Noyes has been on the bench for eighteen years, first as a Connecticut State Judge and then as United States Circuit Judge. It was a matter of common knowledge among his associates that he was deeply attached to his work in the Circuit Court, and that he regretted the necessity which forced him to quit it for a field where he could command a larger income.

Judge Noyes will open a law office in this city during the Summer. He is an authority on railroad and corporation law, and will take up that line of practice. He is the author of "Intercorporate Relations" and "American Railroad Rates."

President Wilson has not yet named a successor to Judge Noyes.

The Circuit Court for the Second Judicial District is presided over by Mr. Justice Hughes of the United States Supreme Court. It embraces the Federal judicial districts of Vermont, Connecticut, Northern New York, Southern New York, Eastern New York, and Western New York. The official residence of Judge Noyes is New London, Conn. His actual homes are at Lyme, Conn., and 31 East Sixty-third Street, New York City.

Judge Noyes is 47 years old. He was admitted to the bar in 1886 and was Judge of the Court of Common Pleas for New London County, Conn., for twelve years. In 1907 President Roosevelt appointed him to the United States Circuit Court.

As a member of the Circuit Court Judge Noyes participated in the proceedings against the Standard Oil Company and the American Tobacco Company. He gave his approval of the dissolution plan for the Tobacco Trust, the legality of which has been questioned by Attorney General McReynolds.

STRIKE TO DEFEND FLAG.

Latest Hoboken Labor Trouble Based on Insult to Stars and Stripes.

A "patriotic" strike was called in the W. & A. Fletcher marine machine ship, Hoboken, at noon yesterday, when 150 boilermakers walked out as a demonstration of their displeasure at an alleged insult to the American flag by a foreman.

Their indignation was directed against Joseph Fletcher, who is no relation of the members of the firm and is foreman of the tool department. Two months ago he resigned. As he departed he drew an English flag from his pocket and, waving it before the boilermakers, shouted:

"This is the only flag to live under, and I am going to Canada; as for the Stars and Stripes, I'd wipe my feet on them."

This incident was recalled last Monday when Fletcher came back to his former place. A committee of the employes made a protest to President Andrew Fletcher, asserting that they objected to working with a man who had deliberately insulted the flag of their country. Last night the boilermakers held a joint meeting with the machinists in an effort to call a general strike of all the 500 employes.

The members of the firm and Foreman Fletcher declined to discuss the complaint made by the men.

DIES OF RARE JAW DISEASE.

For Six Weeks Dr. Neff Took Nourishment Only Through a Straw.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, June 5.—After suffering for nearly two months from periostitis of the lower jaw, a very rare disease, Dr. John Neff, a prominent physician, died to-day at the age of 81. Death was due to exhaustion. For six weeks the patient could eat nothing except liquids taken through a straw. To-day his heart collapsed suddenly.

The origin of the disease is unknown, and it baffled the physicians. On several occasions the jaw was opened. In each case Dr. Neff, in spite of his advanced age, rallied quickly.

Three years ago Dr. Neff suffered from an infection of his jaw. A piece of the jawbone was removed. His physicians say this attack had nothing to do with the disease that caused his death.

GUNMEN ASK DELAY.

Want Argument on Their Appeals Put Over Till October.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, June 5.—Application is to be made to the Court of Appeals on Monday next to have extended until October the time for the argument on the appeals of the four gunmen who were convicted for their share in the killing of Herman Rosenthal in New York last Fall.

The men are Jacob Seidenshuer, indicted as Whitey Lewis; Frank Cirofici alias Dago Frank; Louis Rosenberg, alias Lefty Louie, and Harry Horowitz, alias Gyp the Blood.

William Van Amee of Newburg has been selected to act for them in the highest court.

The affidavit states that the principal question to be raised on the appeal will not be involved in the appeal to be made by Charles Becker, who is also under sentence of death for instigating the Rosenthal murder. The applicants ask further that the appeal be argued after the Becker appeal is heard, and that the record of the Becker case be produced before the court when the case of the gunmen is argued. Unless the application is granted the gunmen's appeal will be argued before June 20.

CARDINAL LOSES HIS MIND.

Vives y Tuto Thinks He Is Pope and Orders Liberals Exterminated.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

MILAN, June 5.—Cardinal Vives y Tuto, who is one of the famous triumvirate which promoted the Vatican campaign against modernism, has become a raving maniac, and the doctors have no hope of his recovery.

The Cardinal imagines he has succeeded to the Papal throne and has issued orders for the extermination of all Roman Catholic liberal thinkers by the application of mediaeval penalties.

Cardinal Vives y Tuto is a native of Spain, and is 58 years old. He was created a Cardinal on June 19, 1899.

ART THIEVES ROB CHRISTIE'S

Three Valuable Pictures Stolen from London Auction Rooms.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, June 5.—The police are investigating a mysterious robbery from Christie's, where a number of valuable paintings and prints arrived to-day for inclusion in a sale on Monday next.

Between 5 and 6 o'clock this evening three of them were stolen. Two were unframed colored prints, entitled, respectively, "The Pleasures of Education" and "Woman with a Spaniel," each signed "L. Marin." The third picture was a valuable framed colored engraving called "The Cottagers," by P. W. Tompkins.

WESTON REELING OFF MILES

After Jaunt from Goshen to Port Jervis He Rests Half a Day.

Special to The New York Times.

PORT JERVIS, June 5.—Edward Payson Weston, the pedestrian, added thirty miles to his New York-Minneapolis trip, arriving here at 11:18 o'clock this morning. He left Goshen at 3:08 A. M., and made one stop, sleeping an hour at Centreville.

Half of the population of Port Jervis turned out and cheered him as he marched into town escorted by Chief of Police Latham. He took a nap this afternoon, and lectured at a theatre to-night. After the lecture he started for Shohola, twenty miles west of this place. He is in good health and spirits.

POLICE EYE SPLIT SKIRTS.

Indianapolis Women Mustn't Wear Them Without Undergarments.

INDIANAPOLIS, June 5.—Indianapolis women who wear split skirts also must wear undergarments, and the police traffic squad has been directed to enforce an order to that effect issued by Martin J. Hyland, Superintendent of Police.

The order was posted after Supt. Hyland had received the following letter:

> As we know you are the highest authority in the city, we, as the ladies, ask that you prohibit the wearing of split skirts without undergarments. We hope that you will take this seriously. THE LADIES.

WINS LAWSUIT AFTER DEATH

Decision for Late David L. Van Nostrand, Who Sued Cassidy.

David L. Van Nostrand, a former County Clerk and banker of Queens, who died suddenly at his home in Flushing Tuesday morning, was the plaintiff in an action in the Queens County Supreme Court to compel Joseph Cassidy, ex-boss of Queens, and E. R. Chapman, his two former partners in a real estate enterprise, to pay two-thirds of the rental of a suite of offices engaged by the firm in Fifth Avenue and Thirty-fourth Street, Manhattan, and yesterday the suit was decided in his favor by Justice Scudder.

In his suit Van Nostrand had set forth that his partners had shouldered on him the rental of the Fifth Avenue offices totaling $14,000, with $5,000 expenses added.

BEES INFEST A CHURCH.

Montclair Congregation to Employ Acid to Get Rid of Them.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTCLAIR, June 5.—A man wise in the ways of bees has been engaged to evict from between the walls of the First Coongregational Church of this town thousands of Italian honey bees that have made their home there. It is thought that there must be many pounds of honey packed away in crevices of the structure.

The bees were first noticed about the church several years ago. Their numbers increased until their buzzing became annoying. It is said that several members of the congregation have been stung in the course of the service.

Previous attempts to dislodge the bees by smoking them out have proved ineffectual. Now it is said an acid will be poured into the interstices of the walls and it is thought the fumes from this will exterminate the insects.

COAL TRUST DISSOLVES.

Its Seven Subsidiaries to Operate Separately, Company Announces.

Special to The New York Times.

SCRANTON, Penn., June 5.—The Temple Iron Company, known as the Coal Trust, has dissolved in conformity with a decree of the United States Supreme Court, according to an announcement made at its main offices here to-day.

The seven subsidiaries it controlled will continue business separately, the same officers directing the affairs of each. These are A. F. Law, President; A. D. Bingham, Secretary-Treasurer, and F. H. Hemelright, Superintendent, who, with A. C. Twitchell and A. C. Mead, form the Directorate of each company.

ARMOUR IN SECOND PLACE.

Morris Beats Him in Chicago Bank Stock Holdings.

CHICAGO, June 5.—Edward Morris, the meat packer, has replaced J. Ogden Armour as the largest individual owner of Chicago bank stocks, it was learned to-day from the county tax lists. Mr. Armour had held the position for several years. He continues to lead in the actual number of shares, but in the aggregate market value Mr. Morris, with $3,736,000, leads him by almost $150,000.

A third packer—Edward Hilden—holds bank stock amounting to $2,902,450 in market value.

WILSON AT CAPITOL TO CHOOSE ENVOYS

Consults Senators on a Batch of Nominations He Will Soon Present.

SELECTS GERARD FOR SPAIN

McCombs Again Spoken Of for Paris and Morgenthau for Turkey or China.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—For the third time President Wilson went to the Capitol to-day to confer informally with Senators. While many of them came into the President's room simply to pay their respects, the object of his visit, as described afterward by the President, was exclusively to discuss diplomatic nominations with Senators from the States from which the proposed appointments will be made. Sixteen Senators from thirteen States had talks with the President.

At the President's request most of the names were withheld until the countries to which the new diplomats are to be sent intimate whether the appointments would be agreeable.

As a result of the President's conferences with Senators the following diplomatic nominations will probably be sent to the Senate at an early date:

JUSTICE JAMES WATSON GERARD, of the Supreme Court of the State of New York, to be Ambassador to Spain. (A bill is now pending to raise the Spanish mission from the rank of a Legation to an Embassy, and Justice Gerard's nomination may be delayed until this bill becomes a law.)

FREDERIC C. PENFIELD of Germantown, Penn., to be Ambassador to Italy.

THOMAS H. BURCH, of Burlington, N. J., who was Military Aid to President Wilson when he was Governor of New Jersey, to be Minister to Persia.

CHARLES W. McALPIN of New Jersey, Secretary of Princeton University, to be Minister to the Netherlands.

JOSEPH E. WILLARD of Virginia, former Lieutenant Governor of that State, probably Minister to Belgium.

E. J. HALE of North Carolina, formerly Consul at Manchester, England, to be Minister to Costa Rica.

P. A. STOVALL of Savannah, Ga., editor of The Savannah News, to be Minister to Switzerland.

BENTON McMILLIN of Tennessee, former Governor of that State, to be Minister to Peru.

JOHN E. LAMB of Indiana, former Congressman, to be Minister to Cuba, or some Latin-American country.

B. L. JEFFERSON of Colorado to be Minister to a Latin-American country.

ALBERT SCHMEDEMEN of Wisconsin, Secretary of the Democratic State Committee, to be Minister to Norway.

It was said after the President left the Capitol that as a result of his conference with Senator O'Gorman the nomination of William C. McCombs, Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, to be Ambassador to France, and that Henry Morgenthau, who was active in behalf of the Democratic National ticket last year, to be Ambassador to Turkey or Minister to China, might be expected at some time in the near future. Mr. Morgenthau is said not to be a candidate for any office, but his name has frequently been mentioned with those on whom the President wishes to confer diplomatic honors.

Although Mr. McCombs's friends have insisted that he would not accept the French mission, the understanding in official circles here is that he will ultimately go to Paris as Ambassador.

A report that Thomas Nelson Page of Virginia, the novelist, would be appointed to an Ambassadorship could not be confirmed.

The name of a Minnesota man, selected by the President for a diplomatic appointment and agreed to by the Minnesota Senators, was not disclosed. It was said by Minnesota people that the man chosen was either Prof. C. M. Endriff of the State University or C. O. Quist of Minneapolis.

The President came to the Capitol unannounced, accompanied only by his secretary, Joseph B. Tumulty, and Secret Service men. He remained about an hour, and left the building escorted by Sergeant at Arms Higgins.

The Senate Committee on Foreign Relations decided favorably to-day on Senator Bacon's bill raising the legation at Madrid to an Embassy, and creating a separate mission to Paraguay, which heretofore has been grouped with Uruguay in the jurisdiction of one American Minister. Conventions extending several general arbitration treaties were also ordered reported.

NO FIREWORKS ON FOURTH.

Children Will Get Copies of Gettysburg Address and a Button.

The Executive Committee of Mayor Gaynor's Fourth of July Committee met yesterday afternoon and voted unanimously to do away with all fireworks at this year's celebration of Independence Day.

The Chairmen of the various sub-committees voted that $10,000 should be set aside for the use of the Illumination Committee. Other appropriations made included $2,300 to the School Committee. Among the features planned for the children's share of the day's celebration will be the purchase of 100,000 copies of the Gettysburg address, printed in color, which will be distributed among the children, and souvenir buttons, which are to be given to all those who participate in the day's celebration.

The sum of $3,000 is given to the Athletic Committee, of which James E. Sullivan is Chairman. The balance of the money is to be used for the City Hall celebration, and for music. The Chairman of the Music Committee, Prof. Henry T Fleck, has already started preparations for making the musical carnival memorable.

MISS MORGAN SAILS.

Will Summer at Miss Marbury's Villa—Dr. Carrel a Passenger.

The French liner France sailed for Havre yesterday with a number of notables on her first cabin list. Miss Anne T. Morgan sailed to spend the Summer at Miss Marbury's villa near Versailles. Miss Marbury is there now.

The Duchess de Chaulnes, daughter of Theodore Shonts, with her son Manuel and her sister, Miss Margaret Shonts, were also aboard.

Another passenger on the France was Dr. Alexis Carrel of the Rockefeller Institute, who is going to Berlin to study and make experiments relating to infantile paralysis and other disease. He said that surgery was advancing so rapidly that in a short time when one lost a finger from the hand it would be replaced with a new one.

Eugene Ysaye sailed on the France with his wife and son. He said he had a draft for $116,000, being part of the profits of his concert tour through the United States under the management of R. E. Johnston.

HOLD LOBBY EXISTS, BUT OF A NEW KIND

It's the Organized Propaganda, Say Senators, Justifying Wilson's Charges.

AN ALL-EMBRACING INQUIRY

Liquor, Labor, Granges, Alaska All to be Investigated—Wilson Names Dozen in Tariff Lobby.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Chairman Overman is convinced, from the testimony of Senators before the Investigating Committee, that President Wilson's charges as to the existence of a lobby in Washington have been sustained. The lobby that has been disclosed, he said to-day, was different from the old-fashioned lobby in that it worked through an artificially created public sentiment.

"We have developed thoroughly," he said, "the fact that there is powerful and concerted lobbying. It is not the old personal appeal to Senators that the new lobby uses; it is an organized activity to mold public sentiment and bring pressure to bear on Senators from every quarter. It is insidious to the extent that these publicity campaigns are often misleading, and are often based upon misrepresentation."

The sub-committee decided to-night to extend its present inquiry into a sweeping investigation of all organized efforts that have been made to influence action upon legislation of any kind now pending before Congress or under consideration in the recent past.

This action was determined upon at the end of the afternoon session, after several Senators had added to the testimony already given tending to show that well-organized and vigorous work is being done by commercial interests upon the sugar, wool, and other tariff issues. The committee decided to subpoena practically all persons thus far mentioned by Senators as among their "tariff callers," and to learn the exact nature of all organized work that is being directed toward influencing any member of Congress upon any subject.

The efforts of the committee will be centred first upon the sugar fight, next upon wool, and after that a full investigation will be made that will take in the activities of prohibition and liquor "lobbies," the Alaskan railway forces, labor unions, farmers' protective organizations, and practically all other organized bodies that have carried on publicity campaigns, "endless chain" letter writing, or other means of influencing members of the Senate or House.

Dozen Named by Wilson.

The tariff lobby which President Wilson denounced consists, according to the President's information, of about a dozen men. At least, the list which he gave to the majority members of the sub-committee includes only about that number of names. Practically all of the names on the list have been mentioned by one Senator or another in the testimony, and in every case the Senator has explained that the work of the man he named seemed to be conducted along lines of perfect propriety.

Subpoenas were issued for all of the men named in the President's list as soon as the list was received, and the names of such of them as have accepted service have been made public along with the names of other witnesses who will appear. Which of these were named by the President and which were suggested by Senators and others had not been disclosed. But a comparison of the first list of subpoenaed witnesses made public by the committee with the testimony of Senators shows that almost all of them had been mentioned by Senators. As the President's list was made out on the second day of the investigation, it is assumed that the President's list is not far different from a list made up exclusively from the testimony of Senators.

The one man who has been described by a Senator as a lobbyist in the bad sense is Frank C. Lowry of New York, Secretary of the Wholesale Grocers' Association. He was so characterized by Senator Ransdell of Louisiana. Mr. Lowry favors free sugar. He has been subpoenaed to appear before the committee.

Senator Reed, a member of the committee, sent word to President Wilson to-day that he believed the testimony of Senator Ransdell and other witnesses fully established the truth of the President's statement that a powerful lobby existed in Washington, at least upon the sugar tariff issue.

The decision of the committee to-night so broadened the scope of its work that members would not predict when the inquiry might be concluded. The ten-day limit fixed by the Cummins resolution will expire to-morrow night, but Senator Overman will ask the Senate to give him unlimited time for the inquiry.

Thus far only Senators have been examined and the Senate list will be finished to-morrow. The Sergeant-at-Arms of the Senate was directed to-night to issue many additional subpoenas for persons wanted as witnesses. The next phase of the investigation will be taken up Monday with the calling of men identified with the free-sugar and anti-free-sugar campaign.

Members of the Senate have testified almost unanimously that no improper methods were used to influence them and that the men who called upon them were not "lobbyists" in the sense in which that term is generally used. The committee found it impossible to-night, however, to "define a lobbyist" or to fix a limit to its investigation. It was determined therefore to investigate everything that showed any sign of having been an organized or prearranged plan to influence any Congressional action.

Smoot and the Mormon Church.

Questions as to the interest the Mormon Church held in sugar and woolen factories in Utah brought about a lively clash between Senator Smoot and Democratic members of the committee late to-day. Senator Smoot said the Church held a small amount of stock in the Utah-Idaho Sugar Company and in the Knight Woolen Mills Company at Provo, but he resented questions by Senators Reed and Walsh that he thought carried insinuations that he represented the interests of the Mormon Church at Washington.

"Here in Washington I represent all the people of Utah," he said sharply. "I don't represent Mormon or Jew or Gentile, black or white, Methodist or Presbyterian."

That detectives in some cases have been used to shadow members of Congress in the interest of securing certain legislative action, is a point that Senator Cummins will endeavor to establish. He asked Senator Smoot to-day whether the latter knew of any such activity. Senator Smoot said he had "heard of it" but could give the committee no information. Senator Cummins declined to state what further witnesses would be produced or to indicate the nature of the detective work that had been done.

Senator Smoot told the committee he had no sheep in the United States, and that his chief beet sugar interests were in the Knight Sugar Company at Raymond, Alberta, Canada. The company also sells land and raises cattle. He gave his investments in industries that might be affected by the tariff as follows: Union Portland Cement Company, $35,000; gold and silver mines, in which some lead was found, $30,000; Utah-Idaho Sugar Company, $1,232; Knight Sugar Company, (Canada,) $31,500; Knight Woolen Company, Provo, Utah, $2,475; newspaper, Salt Lake City, $30,000.

Senator Williams, whose sub-committee has had charge of the income tax feature of the Tariff bill, expressed the belief that there had been an organized effort by the insurance companies to rally policy-holders against the income tax. Insurance officials probably will be asked to appear later.

Senator Goff, the first witness to-day, said his West Virginia coal property brought him about [illegible] a year in royalties, while his oil properties paid him about $50,000 a year.

"We sell our oil to subsidiaries of the Standard Oil Company; there is no one else to sell to," he said.

Some Outside Witnesses.

Subpoenas were served to-day on George E. Gilliland, Washington; Charles Hamilton, Washington; ex-Congressman Charles B. Landis of Indiana; Robert Crain, Baltimore; Truman G. Palmer, Washington, a leading figure in the fight of the beet sugar interests against free sugar.

R. D. Bowen, who signed a circular produced by Senator Williams advising cotton growers to urge their Senators to support a higher duty on cotton cloths; S. W. Cowan of Texas, who has been active in the fight against free meat; A. W. Kopp, ex-Representative from Wisconsin, and C. H. Brown and Otto Ruhl of Washington.

To the list of outside witnesses were added the names of C. J. Faulkner, ex-Senator from West Virginia; Colin Livingstone, officer of a Washington bank; W. J. Strassburger of Glassmere, Penn., President of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company; Paul J. Christian, an employe of the Louisiana Sugar Growers' offices in Washington, and Arthur B. Hayes of Washington.

Senator Smith of South Carolina, the first witness at the night session, said he pas principally interested in a farm of about 1,500 acres.

"I raise mostly poverty," he added.

"That ought to be on the protected list," suggested Senator Nelson. Senator Smith knew of no lobby.

Overman on the Stand.

Chairman Overman, who left to-night for a three-day visit in North Carolina, was the next witness, and the second member of the committee to give his testimony. He supplemented his statement earlier in the day, decvlaring that the evidence produced at the hearing had convinced him of the presence here of a lobby, but did not go into details, aand named no men he considered lobbyists. He said he owned ten shares in cotton mills, and carried $17,000 life insurance, and that his wife owned a few more shares of cotton mill stock.

The Senator defined a lobby as a "third House of Congress" seeking to influence the other two in legislative matters, sometimes legitimately and sometimes in other ways. He declared that, while he was not certain, there seemed to be some common basis of opposition among the sugar people and those interested in the cotton schedule; that North Carolinans interested in cotton had been told, apparently by those who expected to be affected by free sugar, that sugar on the free list meant ruin to the cotton producers. He said that there should be legislation to control lobbying.

Senator Overman put into the record a circular from an insurance company suggesting to policy holders that they write to their Congressmen and Senators, objecting to the income tax provision. He also produced a letter from a Florida policy holder of this company directed to its President, protesting against the use of the company's money in such a campaign, and the President's reply stating that the Board of Trustees, having considered theprotest, did not agree with it.

Senator Vardaman said he tol dex-Senator Foster of Louisiana and several other men who called to talk with him about the sugar schedule that he would vote for the Underwood bill "unless I got an opportunity to vote for free sugar at once."

"They didn't remain more than ten or fifteen minutes," said the Senator, "and they didn't return."

Senator Works, the last witness of the night session, thought that a lobby was being maintained to mold opinion.

WHAT NEW YORKERS TOLD.

Testimony of Senators Root and O'Gorman at Lobby Inquiry.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Following is the verbatim testimony given before the Senate Lobby Committee yesterday by Senators Root and O'Gorman of New York:

Senator Root was sworn.

The Chairman—You have a list of questions before you numbered from one to eleven. Please read them and answer them in order. You can either read the questions or refer to them by numbers in your reply.

Senator Root—In answer to No. 1, I am not financially interested in the production, manufacture, or sale of any article mentioned in the Tariff bill or any other bill now pending in Congress or which has been considered during my term as Senator, except that I am a stockholder in the Smelters Securities Company, and I have some stock in a company which owns a coal mine in Texas, the Texas and Pacific Coal Company. Also I have a farm up in Central New York, on which are raised various crops that are mentioned in the Tariff bill.

I have never sought to influence any other Senator as to the duties upon the articles which are produced, manufactured, or sold either upon this farm or by these companies in which I am a stockholder. Indeed, so far as I know, none of the companies has manifested any interest in the subject. I have not had any communication from any of them, and I have no reason to suppose they care anything about it. I do not know how the changes in the tariff or any changes in the tariff would affect them.

In answer to question No. 2:

The Chairman—That first question also asks you to state the extent of your interests.

Senator Root—I have stated the nature and I supposed the extent of the interests. My holdings in stock in the National Lead Company are 530 shares, preferred stock; in the Smelter Securities Company, 700 shares; in the Texas and Pacific Coal Company, 220 shares, and the farm is three hundred and odd acres.

The Chairman—And the par value of this stock is $100 a share?

Senator Root—Yes. In answer to the second question, I do not represent and am not connected professionally or otherwise, either directly or indirectly, with any person, firm, corporation, association, or organization which is engaged in the manufacture, sale or production of any article named in the Tariff bill now pending in Congress, except as I have already stated in answer to the first question.

In answer to the third question, I have received probably thousands of letters and petitions, coming mostly from people of my own State, regarding the pending Tariff bill. The only persons who have called on me personally whose names I can recall or whose names my clerk can recall are Mr. Fred J. Lingham, the Vice President of the Federal Milling Company of Lockport, N. Y.; Mr. S. C. Mead, Secretary Merchants' Association of New York. I saw Mr. Robert Walker, who brought a letter from Mr. Otto Bannard of New York, and Mr. Harrison Osborn. I think he is of New York. He represents the lemon importers there; Mr. D. Tuyman of New York. There may have been some others, but if so I don't recall their names.

Mr. Lingham, who is a miller, and, as I have said, an officer of the Federal Milling Company of Lockport, N. Y., came pursuant to an appointment by letter, to represent to me the effect that would be produced upon the milling industry in New York by the provisions as to wheat and flour, taken together, in the bill as it passed the House. He explained the relation of the raw material to the finished product, the amount of wheat that goes to make a barrel of flour, and the effect of having a duty of 10 cents a bushel on wheat and having the flour free, the effect that it would have upon the business of himself and of the others whom he represented. I subsequently explained that to some of my Democratic colleagues, stating the facts which Mr. Lingham had stated to me.

Mr. Tuymman was, I think, if I am not mistaken as to his identity, interested in the manufacture of coal tar colors. He brought me a letter from Mr. Calder, a member of the House of Representatives from Brooklyn, in my own State, and he explained that the provision of Paragraph 24, I think it is, of the Underwood bill, in relation to coal tar colors, would work very injuriously in his business. He wished those colors put upon the free list, and had various reasons that he wanted to present, and he wanted to know how he could best get those reasons before the gentlemen who are making up the bill; and I told him as best I could how he could reach the majority members. There was another gentleman with him, who was associated with him in business, whose name I do not recall.

Harrison Osborne said he represented the importers of lemons. He came to my office.

Senator Reed—All the question was intended to call for was just the general character of the conversations. The general nature of them is all that we have been insisting upon. I thought you would like to know that, because we are keeping you here.

Senator Root—Mr. Osborne wanted to talk to me about lemons. He wanted lemons put on the free list. But I had been all through that, as I had made a careful study of the subject, and tried to prevent the high duty on lemons when the bill was under consideration, and I did not care to get any more information from him.

Mr. Walker and Mr. Mead both wanted some changes made in the administrative provisions of the income tax, in order to simplify them and make them easier for the conduct of the business. They had no complaints, except of the inconvenience and expense which would come from some of these provisions.

I think that covers the whole story of the people who have had personal interviews with me, and that answers, I think, Questions 3 and 4.

In further answer to Question 5, I will say that there was no personal appeal made or anything except the presentation of arguments upon the merits.

In answer to question six, no person has, directly or indirectly, attempted in any manner to influence me improperly or to influence my action improperly on any legislation pending in Congress, especially tariff legislation.

In ansyer to question seven I do not know, and I have no information of the use of any money or thing of value or of any improper means or methods to influence action upon any legislation pending in Congress.

In answer to question eight I do not know, and I have no information of the use of money to maintain a so-called lobby here or elsewhere for the purpose of influencing legislation, except what I have gathered from the testimony I have heard in this room. In connection with my answer, I am asked to state what I mean by the word "lobby" and "lobbying." Do you want me to go into that?

The Chairman—No, we do not care for that. It is academic.

Senator Root—In answer to question nine, I know nothing about any money being used, directly or indirectly, for the publication of newspaper advertisements or comments, or circulars, or other printed matter. I infer, of course, from seeing them that somebody has spent money to get them up.

In answer to question ten, which is "Do you know of any lobby or lobbyists maintained in Washington or elsewhere to influence any legislation now pending before Congress," I do not know of anything which I should call a lobby.

My feeling has always been that the people of New York State are entitled to come to me and tell me how any piece of legislation which is proposed affects their business, and I think it is my duty to listen to them, and I do not think they are subject to be stigmatized as lobbyists when they do it. That is my view, and certainly it is my duty to listen to them, and, if it is my duty to listen to them, there is nothing wrong in their coming. I do not know of any other attempts to produce influence upon legislation.

Question 11—I do not know of any other facts which occur to me as throwing light upon the subject of the investigation.

O'Gorman's Testimony.

Senator O'Gorman was sworn.

The Acting Chairman (Senator Reed)—You have a list of questions before you which the committee has been propounding to each Senator, and that list of questions is now propounded to you. Pleas answer them in order.

Senator O'Gorman—With the exception of questions three, four, and five, I answer "No" to every question propounded.

Answering questions three, four, and five, I have had interviews with 200 or 300 or possibly 400 citizens from time to time regarding various phases of the proposed tariff legislation. I have not a list of those visitors, and I have not charged my memory with the names. They were manufacturers, importers, attorneys, and employes. I know of the existence of no lobby, and I do not regard a manufacturer or an importer or other citizen as a lobbyist, merely because he calls upon a Senator or Representative to express his views regarding pending legislation. My notion of a lobbyist is that he is one who makes a business of inducing or preventing legislation. I have met no such persons during the time that the pending bill has been before the House or before the Senate.

"I think that concludes an answer to all the questions," said Senator O'Gorman finishing his testimony.

DEMANDS FRISCO INQUIRY.

Senator Kenyon Sets It Afoot—C. & E. I. Changes Hands.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Senator Kenyon of Iowa introduced a resolution to-day calling upon the Inter-State Commerce Commission for information regarding the purchase of the Chicago & Eastern Illinois Railroad by the St. Louis & San Francisco Railroad Company and the subsequent receiverships of the two roads. The resolution directs the commission to produce the information or begin an investigation at once.

Mr. Kenyon said he believed there had been a great deal of juggling of prices and thought the facts should be disclosed. His resolution, which went over one day under the rule, probably will be adopted to-morrow.

The resolution specifically mentions as subjects of inquiry the price paid by the Frisco for the stock of the Chicago & Eastern Illinois, the time of the issue of such stock and its amount, any guarantees in regard to the stock, the amount of bonds issued by the Frisco at the time of the purchase, the location of the holders of the bonds, and the amount of such bonds held in this country and abroad.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, June 5.—At a meeting of the newly elected Directors of the Chicago & Eastern Illinois Railroad held here this afternoon it was announced that control of the property had reverted to the H. H. Porter estate, subject, however, to the rule of the receivers.

The stockholders' meeting elected new Directors as follows: George F. Porter, H. H. Porter, H. N. Rose, C. F. Holt, F. A. Hibbert, W. H. Lyford, W. J. Jackson, and Chauncey Keep of Chicago; Henry A. Vernet of London, England, and Alvin W. Krech.

At the Directors' meeting W. J. Jackson was elected President and Alvin W. Krech Vice President.

G. W. Allen is the only Director re-elected, the others being new members.

IN ROLE OF EMPEROR, CHINDA SEES WILSON

Japanese Envoy, Acting as the Ruler's "Other Self," Visits the White House.

TALKS OF THE LAND BILL

Cabinet to Discuss Note To-day—Bryan and Ambassador to Speak in Pittsburgh.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Exercising his prerogative as the "other self" of his sovereign, Viscount Chinda, the Japanese Ambassador, called on President Wilson to-day to discuss the diplomatic situation produced by the California alien land law.

This is a privilege seldom exercised by Ambassadors, and in the particular case of the Japanese envoy indicates the importance which he attaches to the answer of the Japanese Government to Secretary Bryan's note setting forth the position of the United States with regard to the California law. The Ambassador was at the White House for more than an hour, but at the close of the conference no information was forthcoming from either the President or the Ambassador.

At its regular meeting to-morrow the Cabinet will take up and discuss Japan's reply. Secretary Bryan, who otherwise would take an early train for Pittsburgh, where he is to make a speech to-morrow night at the dinner to be given in honor of George W. Guthrie, the new United States Ambassador to Japan, will remain through the Cabinet meeting and take a train at 1:25 o'clock in the afternoon. He will reach the banquet hall between 9 and 10 o'clock at night. Viscount Chinda is to be one of the speakers at the Guthrie banquet, and it is possible that both he and the Secretary of State may refer to the present diplomatic situation.

The reply to the Japanese note, it is reported, will be prepared by Prof. John Bassett Moore, the counsellor of the Department of State, but it is possible that it may not be delivered for several weeks. It is not improbable that the question at issue will be the subject of internatonal discussion until after the September elections in Japan on which the continuance of the present Ministry depends.

BANKERS URGE TAX CHANGES

Investment Association Would Relieve Big Families from Income Levy

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—The Investment Bankers' Association of America, through Robert R. Reed of counsel, has filed a supplemental statement with the sub-committee of the Finance Committee considering the proposed income tax, discussing amendments the Association urges as a result of the hearing which the sub-committee recently granted its counsel.

One of the suggested amendments is intended to provide a method of collecting the tax on income derived from interest on corporate bonds, particularly on coupon bonds payable to the bearer, and to remove any ambiguity in the pending bill.

The second amendment suggested seems to remove an unintentional injustice in the pending bill, and in the present corporation tax, by permitting the deduction, as a business expense, of interest paid in carrying at banks, or on warehouse receipts, valuable collateral, including investment securities, precious gems, imported goods, cotton, grain, &c., the subject of sale in such business.

The third amendment offered seeks to make the exemption proposed by the income tax section of the Underwood bill apply to incomes with some relation to the number of persons dependent upon them, or, as explained in the supplemental brief, "to favor the family and discourage race suicide."

$5,000 JOB FOR P. H. QUINN.

Brooklyn District Leader Made Shipping Commissioner.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Patrick H. Quinn, a Democratic district leader in Kings County, has been appointed Federal Shipping Commissioner for the Port of New York. The appointment was recommended by Senator O'Gorman and Representative John J. Fitzgerald. It will take effect July 1. Secretary Redfield of the Department of Commerce made the appointment, which carries a salary of $5,000.

Patrick H. Quinn is the Democratic leader of the First Assembly District, Brooklyn, and one of the right-hand men of County Leader John H. McCooey. It is understood in Brooklyn that the appointment of Mr. Quinn is due largely to efforts on the part of Representative John J. Fitzgerald of that borough and that it does not involve a recognition of the Kings County Democratic organization by the Administration.

Mr. Quinn is 60 years old and a native of Ireland. In 1899 he was appointed Deputy Street Cleaning Commissioner in Brooklyn. He became chief auditor of the Finance Department in 1906, and in 1910 was elected Sheriff of Kings County. Mr. Quinn was at one time also Deputy Register of Kings County.

MAYOR DISCUSSES MUSIC.

As for Grand Opera, Great Rufus Choate Didn't Understand It.

Mayor Gaynor wrote this letter recently to Mrs. Henrietta Spader of 214 West Ninety-second Street, who wanted the city to provide more concerts of classical music in the parks:

City of New York,
Office of the Mayor.
May 29, 1913.

Dear Madam: I think it would be better for you to first talk with the Park Commissioner about the giving of free concerts of classical music, as my time just now is very much taken up. Also at this time the city has no money to spend for additional music. And then, again, I am not able to see that the city should furnish grand opera music. Only a few people are able to understand it. The great Rufus Choate was not able to understand it with all his refinement and fine nervous system—as fine as a stringed instrument. When he went to the opera he had to say to his niece: "My dear, please interpret to me the libretto, lest I dilate with the wrong emotion."

It is with music as with poetry. Nearly all of us are able to enjoy simple music or a simple poem. But only a few among us are able to enjoy listening to grand opera music or the reading of Milton's "Paradise Lost." Music is the expression or voice of poetry—light music of light poetry and heavy and intricate music of like poetry. When we read again Collins's delightful "Ode to the Passions" we fully realize this. You remember how it begins:

"When Music, heavenly maid, was young,
While yet in early Greece she sung," &c.

Sincerely yours,
W. J. GAYNOR, Mayor.

Mrs. Henrietta Spader, 214 West Ninety-second Street, Manhattan.

At a recent meeting of the Board of Estimate the Mayor said he was opposed to providing money for classical music, although he voted in favor of the resolution of Borough President McAneny to provide band music at the various city piers this Summer.

More Nations for Bryan Peace Plan.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Secretary Bryan to-day announced that Germany, Bolivia, and Argentina had so far approved his proposal for universal peace as to ask for tentative drafts of the treaties. With these additions, the list of nations that have undertaken to consider the proposal favorably reaches thirteen.

BREEN IS ASSAILED IN DYNAMITE TRIAL

Lawyers for Wood and Atteaux Tell Jury State Witness Is a Perjurer.

ALL THE EVIDENCE IS IN

Judge Crosby Holds Night Session for Closing Arguments in Lawrence Strike Case.

BOSTON, June 5.—All of the evidence in the dynamite conspiracy case, in which William M. Wood, President of the American Woolen Company, Frederick E. Atteaux and Dennis J. Collins are on trial charged with "planting" explosives at Lawrence during the textile strike of 1912 is in and the jury will be charged to-morrow.

In their arguments to the jury to-day, and at the night session, the three attorneys, Henry F. Hurlburt for Wood, Daniel C. Coakley for Atteaux and District Attorney Pelletier for the Commonwealth, made an issue of John J. Breen's statement that he "planted" the dynamite and that he received $700 from Atteaux for doing so. Mr. Hurlburt and Mr. Coakley said that Breen's confessions of falsehood made him unworthy of belief, while the District Attorney warmly defended the prosecution's chief witness.

Mr. Hurlburt argued that the evidence against Wood amounted to "practically nothing." He said that all the dealings between Wood and Atteaux during the strike had been legitimate, and that the payments to Atteaux, at Wood's direction, appeared openly on the company's records because there was nothing that needed to be concealed. He charged Breen with deliberate perjury, and said if the jury believed that Breen had lied that ended the case so far as any charges of conspiracy were concerned.

Mr. Coakley argued that Breen had admitted the falsity of many of his own statements. He contended that Breen's object was blackmail, and said that he did not attempt to extort $13,000 from Atteaux until after he found he could not get it from Ernest W. Pittman, the contractor who committed suicide.

District Attorney Pelletier said that up to the time Breen was drawn into the dynamite plot he was one of the most respected citizens of Lawrence. "We admit that he lied to the police," the Prosecutor continued, "but he kept his mouth shut concerning other persons until he was summoned before the Grand Jury of this county."

Judge Crosby said the jury would be instructed to return a verdict on each of the separate counts, but that a general verdict on all counts could not be received because they specified different and distinct offenses.

COURT TO LOOK INTO RUMOR

Justice Hendrick Hears a Defendant Has Influence with Him.

Supreme Court Justice Peter A. Hendrick announced yesterday that he would hold a hearing this morning to investigate rumors that a litigant in a case before him had claimed unusual influence with the court.

According to the story brought to him by Edward J. Farrell it was made to appear that Joseph H. Cully, a defendant in a mortgage foreclosure suit, had boasted that the action would be decided in favor of the defendants because he was a friend of Justice Hendrick. Cully was reported to have asserted that he and his wife had recently dined with Justice Hendrick.

Farrell first told his story to Deputy County Clerk William B. Selden, who reported the matter to Justice Hendrick. The Justice requested Mr. Seldon to get Farrell to put his allegations in affidavit form, which was done. Justice Hendrick said he had never seen Cully, so far as he knew, and was not acquainted with him.

cigars excess or part thereof; 70 cents per 1,000 on the third 10,000,000 cigars excess or part thereof; $1 on all above the third 10,000,000 cigars excess.

F—On all snuff manufactured during the quarter over and in excess of 1,000,000 pounds, 1 cent a pound for the first 1,000,000 pounds or part thereof in excess; 3 cents a pound for the second 1,000,000 pounds or part thereof in excess; 5 cents a pound for the third 1,000,000 pounds or part thereof in excess; 10 cents a pound for all above the third 1,000,000 pounds excess.

Computing the Product.

G—In computing the product of any manufacturer, there shall be included the products, as above specified, made directly by said manufacturer, and by any company controlled by said manufacturer, in whole or in part through stock ownership, contract, lease, or otherwise, and any company having Directors or stockholders in common to the extent of 25 per cent. of the stock, or one-third of the Directors, shall be considered and held to be a part of the same manufacturing organization, and the rate of tax shall be based on their combined output, each company to pay upon its proper proportion thereof.

H—It shall be the duty of every manufacturer of tobacco, cigars, cigarettes, or snuff, on demand of any officer of Internal Revenue, to render such officer a true and correct statement, under oath, of the quantity and amount of all tobacco, cigars, cigarettes, or snuff manufactured by him during the quarter, and this statement shall be made on or before the 10th day of the month following the close of the quarter. It shall also be the duty of every manufacturer, on demand of any officer of Internal Revenue, to render to such officer a true and correct statement, under oath, showing in detail the ownership, management, and organization of the business, who the officers and Directors or Trustees of the same are, what, if any, contract, lease, or other arrangement exists with another manufacturer of tobacco, cigars, cigarettes, or snuff.

I—In case of refusal or neglect to render any such statement as herein provided, or if there is cause to believe such statement to be incorrect or fraudulent, the Collector shall make an examination of persons, books, and papers in the manner provided by law in relation to frauds and evasions of internal revenue laws.

J—The special additional quarterly excise tax on tobacco, cigars, cigarettes, and snuff shall be paid on or before the 10th of April, July, October, and January for the previous calendar quarter, and, in enforcing this act and in the collection of this tax, all existing provisions of law relating to the collection of internal revenue are hereby made applicable, and the Commissioner is hereby authorized to make and enforce proper regulations to carry these provisions into effect.

Handicap for Overgrown Concerns.

In a statement he issued in further explanation of the proposed amendment, Senator Hitchcock said:

"My amendment proposes to add a new section to the Underwood bill, and it is the same amendment that I offered last year to the Excise Tax bill. It levies a special additional excise tax on a sliding or graduated scale upon manufacturers of tobacco, cigars, cigarettes, and snuff. It carries out the suggestion of the Attorney General, and would have the effect not only of raising additional revenue from the overgrown tobacco concerns, but it would so handicap them as to permit successful competition from companies now rapidly being crushed out by the monopoly.

"Companies of ordinary size would not be subject to this tax because it does not apply to a production below 80,000,000 pounds of tobacco, or 4,000,000 pounds of snuff a year, so that of the 2,700 tobacco companies probably only three would be affected, and of the seventy-three snuff companies also only three would be taxed. In the matter of cigarettes the tax would only fall on two or at most three companies out of 478, and of the 20,000 cigar companies only two have a product large enough to be taxed.

"Roughly speaking, this additional or progressive excise tax would not reach a manufacturer until he controlled about 25 per cent. of the total production of the article. Over that amount he would be taxed in a rising scale on tobacco, 1 cent a pound for the first million pounds per quarter, 2 cents a pound for the second million pounds per quarter, and so on up to 6 cents a pound. These graduated taxes would be in addition to the regular 8 cents a pound tax that all manufacturers pay on tobacco and snuff. The same is true of the progressive tax on cigars and cigarettes.

"Last year the total of excise taxes on tobacco, snuff, cigars, and cigarettes was over $70,000,000.

"If this special progressive tax had been levied on last year's business the following trust concerns would have paid this additional tax:

American Tobacco Company	$7,500,000
Liggett & Myers	3,100,000
Lorillard Company	144,000
American Snuff Company	77,000
George W. Helme Company	69,000
Weyman & Bruton Co.	51,000

"There would also have been other companies subject to this tax if it could be shown that they were under the same ownership or control as any of the big companies, and in the case of the Lorillard Company it would be subject to a much higher rate of taxation if it could be shown that it was owned or controlled by the same interests that were back of any other company.

Could Reach $15,000,000 a Year.

"It is probable, therefore, that this tax in the aggregate would reach $15,000,000 a year, which is so large that it would soon force a real dissolution of the Tobacco Trust. If it did not it would yield a handsome revenue to the Treasury, and so handicap the trust that it could not carry out its programme of crushing independent companies. The Government already has the machinery to enforce this tax.

"Tobacco and snuff manufacture in all forms is under complete Government control. The power to tax to the point of destruction is unquestioned. It is summary, simple and irresistible. If it succeeds in this line of manufacture it may succeed in others."

Senator Hitchcock also presented the following tables:

	Production Year 1911.	My Amendment Exempts from Tax.
Tobacco, pounds	424,080,565	80,000,000
Little cigarettes	10,469,321,101	1,600,000,000
Big cigarettes	17,058,718	4,000,000
Cigars	7,048,505,033	1,600,000,000
Little cigars	1,213,832,840	200,000,000
Snuff	28,943,754	4,000,000

These companies would be taxed approximately:

	On Cigarettes.	On Tobacco.	On Little Cigars.	On Snuff.
American Tobacco Co.—	$6,153,089	$1,432,584	......	......
Liggett & Myers—	2,017,079	955,000	$266,086	......
Lorillard Co.—	......	......	144,703	......
American Snuff Co.—	......	......	......	$77,860
G. W. Helme Co.—	......	......	......	69,176

KRAEMER ART SALE BRINGS $1,124,583

$44,995 Realized from Part of Collection Sold on the Last Day.

LOUIS XIV. CLOCK FOR $2,900

Beauvais Tapestry Picturing Dogs and Ducks Sold for $4,680, the Highest Price of the Day.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

PARIS, June 5.—When the final sale was made to-day in the auction of the Eugène Kraemer collection of pictures and furnishings, at the Georges Petit Gallery, the total realized by the sale was brought up to $1,124,583. The last four days, which have been devoted to the disposition of the third section of the collection, brought in $200,585 of this total, and the part paid in by the art dealers to-day was $44,995.

Some of the most spirited bidding of the day was provoked by the appearance under the hammer of three elaborately designed clocks. The first, a timepiece of ornately carved bronze and surmounted by a figure of Cupid, was of the period of Louis XIV. and sold for $2,900. Of the period of Louis XVI. and of still more elaborate design was a clock that went for $1,284. The revolving dial was set upon a sphere resting upon a marble column. On either side were the sculptured figures of Time and History. The third clock, which went for $1,080, was of the Empire period. Its dial was set amid the strings of a lyre, toward which the fingers of a Greek girl strayed. A little girl stood on the other side playing a 'cello. The base of this third clock was richly carved and had been designed to hold a music box.

A candlestick of gilded bronze, fashioned in the time of Louis VI., sold for $1,090.

One dealer bid $3,020 for three straight-backed armchairs, richly upholstered in cloth woven in the days of Louis XIV. The design of the cloth showed the familiar intertwinings of flowers and ribbons and fruits and leaf garlands. The sum of $1,140 was paid for a carved and gilded tabouret, upholstered in tapestry of the Regency period.

A Louis XV. screen of three leaves went for $1,240. Amid all the flowers and fruits that adorned its panels were many birds, with owls and parrots prominent. The Regency produced the elaborate lambrequin tapestries for which a dealer paid $1,601. The spectacle of dogs frightening into panic some swans and ducks was the eighteenth century design for a piece of Beauvais tapestry that brought $4,680, the highest price realized for any object in to-day's sale. An allegorical design adorned the piece of Gobelin tapestry of the eighteenth century that sold to-day for $2,002. A tapestried Louis XIV. panel brought $1,980.

$5,025 FOR FRANKLIN BOOK.

Rare American Work Brings the Highest Price at the Huth Sale.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, June 5.—The top price in to-day's sale of the Huth library at Sotheby's, and the highest thus far paid for any item in this third part of the famous collection, was $5,025, which Mr. Stevens had to give to obtain a copy of the original edition of "A Dissertation on Liberty and Necessity, Pleasure and Pain," by Benjamin Franklin, octavo, "Printed in the Year MDCCXXV." It is believed that only 100 copies of this edition were printed, and it was so carefully suppressed and destroyed by the author that only one other copy is at present known. The origin of the piece is said to have been that while Franklin was working as a compositor on Wollaston's "Religion of Nature" he was struck by the weakness of some of the arguments, and wrote this book in reply to it. This rarity cost Mr. Huth only $80 in 1863. It was offered to the British Museum fifty years ago for a guinea, but was refused on the ground that the price was too high.

The "Lamentations of Amintas for the death of Phillis: Paraphrastically translated out of Latine into Englishe Hexameters by Abraham Fraunce," small quarto, London, 1588, brought $600. It is dedicated to the Countess of Pembroke. The only other copy known of this edition is in the British Museum.

The same author's "Countesse of Pembrokes Yuychurch. Conteining the affectionate life and vnfortunate death of Phillis and Amyrilas: That in a Pastorall: This in a Funeral: both in English Hexameters," small quarto, London, 1591, was knocked down for $400. The title of the book was borrowed from the name of a small village and chapel (Ivy Church) near Wilton. It is dedicated "To the right excellent and most honourable Ladie, the Ladie Marie, Countesse of Pembroke." Bound in with it are Fraunce's "Amintas Dale," 1592, and "The Countesse of Pembroke's Emanuel," 1592.

Thomas Freeman's "Rubbe, and A Great Cast. Epigrams," London, 1614, sold for $600. It is extremely rare. Epigram 92 in the second part of this work is addressed "To Master W. Shakespeare."

"Der Freidanck," small quarto, Strasburg, (1508,) another great rarity, brought $162.50. It is a collection of moral precepts in rhyming couplets.

"Des Croniques de France, Dangleterre," &c., by Sir John Froissart, folio, Paris, undated, went for $300. According to Brunet, it is the second edition printed by Anthoine Verard, but of equal value and rarity with the first.

The same price was paid for Johan Bourchier's English translation of these "Chronicles," folio, London, 1523-25. The colophon has R. Pynson's name as the printer. At the foot of one of the pages is the autograph of Jane, Countess of Southampton.

"The Great Frost, Cold Doings in London except it be at the Lotterie," small quarto, printed in 1608, brought $230. It is from Daniel's collection and apparently the only copy known.

"Fructus Temporum: The Fruit of Time," small folio, printed on vellum, being the first edition of the St. Alban's Chronicle, and the second book printed in the Abbey of St. Alban's about 1483 by the "schoolmaster" there, was knocked down for $1,250. It is believed to be the only known copy on vellum. It is slightly imperfect.

"The Fruit of Redemption," small quarto, printed by Wynkyn de Worde in 1530, sold for $250. On the last page is Wynkyn's Caxton device.

"The Comedye of Acolastus," by Gulielmus Fullonius, translated into English by John Palsgrave, London, 1511, brought $250. It is dedicated to Henry VIII. This copy belonged to Corser and seems to be the only one occurring in Auction Records. Another copy is in the British Museum.

"The Flower of Fame," by Ulpian Fulwell, London, 1575, went for $290. No copy has apparently occurred for sale since the Corser in 1870.

"The Mirrour of Maieste," by H. G., London, 1618, brought $310. Not more than three perfect copies are known.

"An Apologie for Women-Kinde," by I. G., London, 1605, sold for $300. It is dedicated to the Queen.

"A Relation or Iournall of the beginning and proceedings of the English Plantation setled at Plimoth in New England," by R. G., London, 1622, went for $1,750. This work is supposed to have suggested to Henry W. Longfellow the name of his hero, "Miles Standish, the Puritan Captain." This copy cost Mr. Huth only $65 in 1861.

"Gastliche Usslegong des Lebes Jhesu Christi," small folio, no date, no place, an interesting and rare woodcut book on the life and passion of Christ, brought $1,975. It cost Mr. Huth only $120 in 1874.

"Galeni extra ordinem classium libri," Venice, 1541, a fine example of binding executed for Demetrio Canevari, physician to Pope Urban VIII., sold for $1,250. It cost Mr. Huth $260 in 1874.

"The Discoveries of the World," by Antonio Galvano, translated into English by Richard Hakluyt, London, 1601, was knocked down for $255.

"A Description of the New World," by George Gardyner, London, 1651, brought $760.

"The Whole Workes of George Gascoigne, Esquyre," small quarto, London, 1587, sold for $350.

"A Hundreth Sundrie Flowers bounde up in one small Poesie," the same author, London, 1573, first edition, brought $750.

"The Poesies of George Gascoigne, Esquire," London, 1575, went for $400. It is the genuine first edition. Bound in with it is the first edition of "The Steele Glas," 1576, also by Gascoigne.

Another Gascoigne first edition, "The Droome of Doomes Day," London, 1576, sold for $210.

The total for the day was $22,790. The sale will be continued to-morrow.

CHRISTIES' $111,320 SALE.

$8,400 Paid for Cox's "Hayfield," in Nettlefold Collection.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, June 5.—The sale of the collection of modern paintings and drawings of the late Frederick Nettlefold was opened at Christie's to-day. A total of $111,320 was realized at the end of the first day's sale.

"The Hayfield," by David Cox, 1849, from the collection of Charles Morgan, brought the highest price of the day, selling for $8,400. "The Skylark," a picture by the same artist, which had been exhibited at the Royal Jubilee Exhibition at Manchester in 1887, brought the next highest price of the day, $7,245. Cox's picture, "Haytime," was sold for $4,460.

"Changing Pasture," a water color by Cox, formerly in the collections of J. W. Brown and Albert Levy, went for $4,355.

"The Skylark," a water color by the same artist, representing a scene near Anthurst Hill, Cumberland, fetched $2,940. This picture was in the collection of John Leigh Clare in 1868 and that of Albert Levy in 1876.

"The Timber Wagon," by R. P. Bonington, brought $3,255.

J. M. W. Turner's water color, "Dover from Shakespeare's Cliff," was sold for $2,885.

Cox's "Going to the Hayfield," a water color, was sold for $2,625.

"Gillingham," a picture of the British School by W. Müller, painted in 1842, brought $1,730.

"Dudley Castle," painted by Cox in 1848, was sold for $2,675.

"The Nut Gatherers," a water color painted in 1859 by F. Walker, A. R. A., brought $1,575. The same price was realized for Rosa Bonheur's "Milking-Time in the Pyrenees." The picture was painted in 1887.

C. Fielding's "Scarborough," a water color, brought $1,625.

"On the River Mole," a water color, by Birket Foster, representing a scene of cattle watering, was sold for $1,415.

J. M. W. Turner's "Reichenbach," a water color, fetched $1,365.

Paris Police Chief Keeps Post.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

PARIS, June 5.—M. Touney, whose action in preventing a political association from attaching to the Joan of Arc statue an inscription offensive to Catholics seemed likely to cost him his post as Chief of the Paris municipal police, has been exonerated and will continue in office.

DERBY MILITANT MAY GO UNPUNISHED

High Official Doubts if Any Charge Will Be Made Against Her.

DETECTIVE GUARDING HER

King Edward's Portrait Removed from Academy for Fear of Damage by Suffragettes.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, June 5.—The question as to what action, if any, is likely to be taken against Miss Davison, the author of the Derby outrage, is being discussed. A high official says that it is doubtful if any charge is made against her. It is quite likely that the authorities will consider that she has already received adequate punishment. The matter is one for the Director of Public Prosecutions to decide, unless the injured jockey himself prosecutes Miss Davison.

Any of the following charges might be preferred against her: Attempting to commit suicide, causing grievous bodily harm to the jockey, or attempting to cause grievous bodily harm to riders in the race generally.

Votes for Women has articles written apparently under the impression that Miss Davison might have died before the paper was published. It says: "In the presence, as it may very likely prove, of death itself, we feel that the voice of criticism and rebuke will be hushed." It speaks of the "tremendous courage and daring of women and of the wickedness of those in power, who have driven women to desperate courses."

The King was again present at Epsom to-day. The crowd gave him a warm reception by way of marking its sympathy with him over the deplorable happenings of the previous day.

All sorts of rumors are flying about in reference to the Derby. One attributes to C. Bower Ismay, the owner of Craganour, the intention of selling his horses. So far as is ascertainable there is not to be any further inquiry into the Derby running.

Miss Davison is still unconscious late to-night. The doctor who examined her is surprised that her injuries were not more serious. He thinks it will be several weeks before she has thoroughly recovered. A detective is now stationed at the hospital.

Jones, the King's jockey, had a rib fractured by his fall, but was able to leave London to-day for Cambridge, walking from his hotel to the train unaided. His face was badly bruised. Referring to the accident he said:

"Miss Davison seemed to clutch at my horse, and I felt it strike her. Then I was thrown violently from the saddle. I just recollect feeling myself falling through the air; I don't remember touching the ground. I can remember nothing of what happened afterward. This morning, when I awoke, I found myself in bed at the Great Eastern Hotel, feeling very sore and very stiff."

Sir Luke Fildes's portrait of King Edward in Court dress, which Queen Alexandra valued very highly and which was lent to the Royal Academy by his Majesty, has been withdrawn from the exhibition. This action was taken, it is reported, because of the danger of injury to it, made manifest by the recent suffragette scene in the Academy.

Several West End firms whose windows have been broken by suffragettes to-day began an action for damages against Mr. and Mrs. Pethick Lawrence, Mrs. and Miss Christabel Pankhurst, and Mrs. Mabel Tuke on the ground that the defendants conspired to procure members of the Women's Social and Political Union to commit damage. The hearing was adjourned.

PARIS, June 5.—Etienne Pichon, the French Foreign Minister, wrote to-day in reply to Deputy Dr. Chassaing, who had inquired whether Miss Christabel Pankhurst, the militant suffragette, was to be expelled from France:

"No such measure has been asked by the British Government or considered by the French Government."

ENGLISH DERBY SCANDAL.

Public Feeling Is That Jockey Club Punish Reiff for Rough Riding.

LONDON, June 5.—The incident of the disqualification of Craganour, who was first past the winning post in yesterday's sensational Derby, has created a strong feeling in racing circles and among the general public. It is almost unprecedented that such a scandal should attach to one of the big classic races, although similar occurrences are common in the smaller events.

A motion has been put down for discussion at the annual meeting of the Jockey Club on June 16 proposing various changes in the direction of inflicting more severe penalties on jockeys for foul riding, such as characterized yesterday's race.

The public feeling is that the Stewards of the Jockey Club, who met to-day to discuss the matter, should take strong action in regard to Johnnie Reiff's tactics.

The Stewards to-day suspended for the remainder of the Epsom meeting the jockey Huxley, who was responsible for the accident in the race following the Derby yesterday when the horse Felizardo was killed.

WILL PUBLISH SCOTT DATA.

British Museum to Print Natural History Results of Polar Trip.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, June 5.—The Trustees of the British Museum have agreed to undertake the publication of the natural history results of Capt. Scott's antarctic expedition. A similar arrangement was made in regard to the collections brought home by Capt. Scott's former expedition.

The work of publication will be carried out at the Natural History Museum, where, it is understood, on the arrival of the Terra Nova to this country the collections will be sent in the first place.

JUBILEE GIFTS FOR KAISER.

6,000,000 New Coins Ready—Charities to Benefit by Celebration.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

BERLIN, June 5.—Six million jubilee coins, half of them three-mark pieces and the other half two-mark pieces, are ready for distribution, and will be supplied to the public from June 17 onward.

The original intention to represent the Kaiser as helmeted on the coins was abandoned for some reason. His Majesty will appear bareheaded in the uniform of the cuirassiers. Under the Kaiser's figure will be a laurel wreath with the dates 1888-1913.

One of the most interesting of the innumerable gifts which will pour in on the Kaiser during the jubilee week will be a Marshal's baton presented by the officials of the royal military factories at a cost of $25,000.

The imperial courts of justice will present a magnificent illuminated address, which will be prepared by three Leipzig ladies who stand at the head of this art in Germany.

Most of the jubilee gifts will take the form of charitable or educational foundations or institutions for the public welfare. This is in accordance with the Kaiser's own wishes. It is estimated that something like $5,000,000 has already been subscribed to these objects.

"THE SLEEPING MAN" DEAD.

A. F. Mann a Victim of Exposure, English Jury Finds.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, June 5.—An inquest was held to-day at Bakewell, Derbyshire, in the case of A. F. Mann, who was well known as "the sleeping man." He arrived from the United States in April and since then had experienced several sleeping attacks which lasted a week or more. He also had undergone similar experiences in the United States, where he had lived for a long time.

Mann, who was well connected, was found unconscious on the bank of the River Lathkil and died without recovering consciousness. The doctor thought he had been seized by a sleeping attack and had fallen into the water. The jury returned a verdict that death had been caused by cold and exposure.

An inquest was held in London to-day in the case of Sarah Christina Addis, a woman 61 years old, who was a descendant of Gen. Wolfe. She died in poverty. Mrs. Addis had been a milliner, but lately had done no work, and her only income was 8 shillings a week, which she received from a charitable society. Her death was caused by rupture and aneurism.

AMERICAN SUED IN GENEVA.

Must Pay for Furnishings in Room Where Wife Died.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

GENEVA, June 5.—A verdict which is of considerable interest to travelers has just been delivered by the court here.

The wife of F. J. Huntington of Norwich, Conn., died from cancer in a Geneva hotel, and the hotel proprietor, being under the impression that cancer was an infectious disease, had the bedroom suite destroyed and demanded $255 from Mr. Huntington. The claim was contested, and Judge Barde, in awarding a judgment of $155 to the hotel keeper, rebuked him for bringing the case to court. The Judge said the reputation of a Swiss hotel was more important than money, adding that it had not been proved that cancer was infectious and that the hotel keeper should have settled the matter out of court.

KAISER INVOKES SENTIMENT

Asks Mine Owners Not to Work Famous Franco-Prussian Battlefield.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, June 5.—An interesting controversy has broken out between the Kaiser and the famous and wealthy von Stumm family, which is prominent in the German steel, iron, and coal industry, in regard to the mining of iron ore beneath the battlefield of St. Privat in Lorraine.

Thousands of Prussians who lost their lives in that historic engagement lie buried in the district owned by the Stumms, who now desire to work the valuable ore deposits. The Kaiser has personally urged the Stumms to refrain from "desecrating" the soil consecrated by the bones of so many of Germany's heroes, but the mine owners, though sympathizing cordially with the pious sentiments which inspire his Majesty, reply that the mines are vitally necessary to the maintenance of their supply of raw material. The firm points out the fact that it has allowed the property to remain unworked for thirty years, but says that the time has now arrived when it must "tap" it.

The Kaiser's attention was called to the firm's plans while reviewing the garrison at Metz, near St. Privat, this Spring. He observed preliminaries under way for extensive mining operations and decided forthwith to ask the Stumms to desist.

One of the chief owners of the properties is Baron von Stumm, chief of the English section of the German Foreign Office. He is well known in London, where he has been a member of the German Embassy for several years.

MOORS RAID SPANISH POSTS

Kill Soldiers and Farmers in the Neighborhood of Tetuan.

TETUAN, Morocco, June 5.—Raiding parties of Moors suddenly attacked a number of Spanish military posts in this neighborhood to-day.

They killed seven Spanish soldiers at Rincon, two at Dersa, one at Rio Martin, and two in the outskirts of this city. Many lonely farms also were raided, and their occupants presumably killed or carried off by the Moors.

CARBONNEAU WINS IN BRITISH SUIT

Cuban Promoter's Evidence Chief Factor in His Acquittal of Fraud.

ALLEGES PLOT TO RUIN HIM

Kinnear's Action for Damages Backed, He Says, by Financial Rivals.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, June 5.—A hearing lasting six days on the charges of fraudulent conspiracy against Charles Eugène Carbonneau, an American company promoter, was concluded in the high courts to-day. Carbonneau's evidence, read on commission, was chiefly responsible for the jury's returning a verdict in his favor. The Judge nonsuited Henry Kinnear, the American estates manager, who charged Carbonneau with fraud in connection with a Cuban land and plantation company, by which, it was alleged, he had been induced to purchase worthless bonds of the company, and his claim of $10,000 against Carbonnoau failed.

In the evidence read to-day Carbonneau said that he first floated the Mexican and Cuban Estates Company in New York. He registered it under the laws of South Dakota. The company had a nominal capital of $5,000,000. Many New York business men had big interests in it. The deeds of the property were drawn up by Vidal, a New York attorney. After the registration some difficulties arose and ultimately he incorporated a new company called the Cuban Land and Plantation Company. Trust deeds were prepared for the Mexican company identical with those for the Cuban company. All debenture bonds were issued from registered offices in New York.

Carbonneau's evidence proceeded to outline a big scheme which he said had been organized by financiers, who had tried to get control of the company, to wreck the Cuban land concern. Notices, he said, were published in the principal New York daily papers, and Ministers of the Cuban Government received anonymous letters alleging irregularities on the part of Carbonneau. His evidence was to the effect that the present proceedings had really been initiated by this opposition group of financiers, who were trying to ruin him, and that Kinnear was only a pawn in the game.

This was the view that the jury apparently took when it awarded the action to Carbonneau, who is now under arrest in Paris on charges concerning big financial deals. The American authorities are also said to be interested in these Paris charges.

ORLEANS DENIES "FABLES."

Says He Won't Live with His Mother-in-Law; Hence Duchess Sues.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, June 5.—The Paris political bureau of the Duke of Orleans has issued a statement denying certain "outrageous fables" published in connection with the Duchess's alimony suit in Brussels, nad also asserting that the cause of his trouble with the Duchess was that he did not wish to live with his mother-in-law in Austria. The Duchess, the statement says, is in possession of everything belonging to her. Her dowry of $240,000 has never been in the Duke's possession. After the death of her father, the Archduke Joseph, the money was placed in a London bank in the Duchess's name; but she recently withdrew it to Austria. She received nothing under her father's will.

Two years ago she left Wood Norton, the Duke's former English home, and went to live with her mother in Austria. She wishes to reside there permanently, and, without desiring a judicial separation, she is claiming alimony amounting to $16,000 from her husband.

The Duke, the statement continues, does not wish to live at Alcsuch Castle with the Archduchess Clothilde, his mother-in-law, but means to live on his property in Belgium or Sicily. He has not thought fit to accede to the demands, to which abnormal conditions are attached, which have been made by Austrian business men. These Austrians, contrary to the customs of the House of Orleans, therefore brought the matter before the courts.

TURKS ARE OBSTINATE.

May Block Peace Negotiations by Disregarding Greek Claims.

LONDON, June 5.—Unless Turkey modifies her protocol demands, the peace delegates may hold no further meetings here after to-morrow. Briefly, Turkey refuses to satisfy the Greek claim to the re-enactment of the privileges enjoyed before the war by Hellenic subjects residing in Turkish territory. While refusing this, Turkey demands from the allies still greater privileges for Turkish subjects. The gulf between the two yawns so wide that a continuation of the conference at St. James's Palace seems useless.

The Servian delegates will attempt to-morrow to reconcile the claims of Turkey and Greece on a basis of the arrangement made at the time of the Berlin treaty, but there is little hope that this will succeed. If Turkey continues obdurate, it is probable that the delegates will leave London at an early date.

The Ambassadorial Conference to-day discussed the Constitution of Albania on a basis providing for the establishment of a provisional régime, subject to further adjustment and adapted to local conditions, under a High Commissioner nominated by the powers.

The Daily Telegrah's Belgrade correspondent says that the meeting of the Balkan Premiers has been arranged to take place at Salonika on Sunday next.

A touch of grim humor has been added to the Greek-Bulgar dispute by the Bulgarian request that Greece provide ships for the transport of the Bulgar forces from Tchataija to Kavala. To this Greece replied that all her ships were busy ferrying troops between Piraeus and Salonika.

TO HELP FRENCH MOTHERS.

Working Women Will Receive Vacations and Grants of Money.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

PARIS, June 5.—In the debate on the bill to insure State assistance to women workers about to become mothers, the Chamber of Deputies decided that such women, whether employed in industry and commerce or domestic service, cannot be dismissed in the two months preceding or following the birth of children. The State will also make a money allowance to necessitous women during their enforced absence from work.

For the present the bill will benefit some 3,000,000 working women in factories and shops, and it is intended later to extend its provisions to women doing homework. The Senate has taken thirteen years to pass the bill, so the Chamber was anxious to hurry it through without further delay.

While the Chamber was discussing aid to women workers the Finance Committee of the Senate was discussing a bill to aid large families. It is proposed to allow from $12 to $14 a year to heads of families with more than three children in case their resources are insufficient to bring the children up properly.

ACADEMY PRIZE TO ROLLAND

$2,044 Awarded to the Author of "Jean-Christophe."

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

PARIS, June 5.—The French Academy to-day awarded the Grand Prize of Literature of the value of $2,044, one of the most sought literary prizes in the world, to Romain Rolland for his novel "Jean-Christophe," a profound psychological study of the atristic and literary life of Paris in ten volumes.

President Poincaré attended the sitting of the Academy and aided in the deliberations, voting for Rolland, who was successful over Jean Psichari and Clermont.

STOESSEL NEARLY DUMB.

Port Arthur Hero, Paralyzed, Losing Voice—Aid Befriends Him.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

ODESSA, June 5.—It is reported from Moscow that Gen. Stoessel, the defender of Port Arthur, who for some time has been partly paralyzed, has now nearly lost the power of speech.

To add to these physical afflictions his financial position has gone from bad to worse. He lately sold his country mansion and estate, but an officer who served as adjutant to Gen. Stoessel during the siege of Port Arthur offered his former chief shelter and maintenance for the rest of his life.

BERNHARDT GRATEFUL TO US

Last American Tour the Most Triumphant of All, She Says.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

PARIS, Friday, June 6.—In a wireless message sent from the liner Lorraine and published in Le Matin, Sarah Bernhardt, who arrived at Havre last night, said:

"I can say with all pride and gratitude thatthis eighth American tour of mine has been the most triumphant of them all for the French language, for the glory of our authors, and for the signatory of this telegram.

"What I more deeply appreciate than anything else was the assurance I received from the best authorities in America that when I arrived in New York the teachers of the French language doubled in number, that purchases of French books trebled, and that I had won thousands of Americans to French literature."

TEACHERS CAN SPELL, AVERS DR. MAXWELL

Committee's Criticisms Stir the Superintendent of Schools to Angry Retort.

TO EXAMINE THOSE LETTERS

Will Not Let the Incident Pass Unchallenged—Attributes Errors to Poor Penmanship.

William H. Maxwell, City Superintendent of Schools, issued yesterday a spirited reply to the criticism of the spelling of teachers made by the Committee on School Inquiry of the Board of Estimate. Here is what Supt. Maxwell said:

"The publication of these alleged examples of bad English on the part of certain teachers in the public schools is in accord with the general policy pursued by the Inquiry Committee of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment—to emphasize defects in our teaching and administration and to pass over in silence whatever good exists and what ever progress has been made.

"Doubtless there are teachers in the public schools who are careless, though I trust not habitually so, in the writing of letters. Doubtless there are members of the teaching profession, as there are of all other professions, who occasionally transgress arbitrary spelling of English words. On the other hand, I can confidently claim that the great body of teachers and supervising force of the public schools of this city are ladies and gentlemen of culture and scholarship and that they are reasonably careful to set a good example in the writing and speaking of English.

"I do not intend to excuse or palliate carelessness on the part of any teacher. I may point out, however, that some of the mistakes quoted in the papers this morning are much more probably to be attributed to careless penmanship than to careless spelling. For instance, the word 'day' is quoted as having been written 'dy.' The malformation or the imperfect formation of the letter 'a' in all probability accounts for the apparent misspelling. The word 'payroll' is printed 'payrole.' It is surely conceivable that the second 'l,' through being written in smaller text than the first 'l,' was mistaken by a too credulous or too susceptible invesitgator for an 'e.'

"It is my intention, with the Controller's permission, to have these letters investigated by a representative of my office, to determine to what extent mistakes have really been made and to what extent these mistakes were found to have been made by teachers regularly employed in the schools. Of the 20,000 teachers, Principals, and Superintendents I believe the number who make mistakes in spelling through carelessness is small and that the number who make mistakes of this kind through ignorance is much smaller.

"I shall not permit to pass unchallenged the attempt of those investigators to give to the public the idea that exceptional cases of ignorance or carelessness represent the habitual practice of the public school teachers."

KING'S WIDOW A PLAINTIFF.

Baroness Vaughan Has Her Chauffeur Arrested for Blackmail.

PARIS, June 5.—Baroness Vaughan's former chauffeur, Lochet, was arrested to-day on the charge of attempting to blackmail the Baroness, who was the morganatic wife of King Leopold of Belgium. It is alleged that Lochet demanded $120,000 for the manuscript of his memoirs, containing revelations of Baroness Vaughan's life with the Belgian King and her second husband, Emmanuel Duriex, from whom she obtained a divorce last May.

He threatened, according to the Baroness, if this offer was refused, to accept an offer of $50,000 from a newspaper for the manuscript. Baroness Vaughan then placed the case in the hands of the police.

LIBERAL WHIP IN MARCONI.

Committee Gets Evidence That Lord Murray of Elibank Had 3,000 Shares

LONDON, June 5.—The Parliamentary Committee investigating the scandals connected with the wireless contracts between the Marconi Company and the British Government, after several secret sessions met in open session to-day for the examination of a new witness named Salaman on the question of Lord Murray of Elibank's dealings in Marconi shares, and Salaman's testimony showed that Lord Murray of Elibank had purchased in April and May, 1912, about 3,000 American Marconi shares at 3¼.

The Conservative newspapers of London have recently started an agitation to have the Marconi Committee discover Lord Murray of Elibank's connection with the scandals. It is pointed out in the press that he resigned his position as Liberal whip in the House of Commons when the Marconi contract first came up for discussion in Parliament, and that he was raised to the peerage on his resignation. He then went on business to Colombia, where he has since remained, maintaining silence concerning the Marconi troubles.

HEBREWS HONOR SOKOLOW.

Reception to Russian Editor and Zionist, Returning Home.

More than 500 Hebrews crowded Clinton Hall last night and took part in an enthusiastic meeting under the auspices of the Society Achieber in honor of Nahum Sokolow, the Zionist, and editor of the best-known Jewish newspaper in Russia, who has been touring the United States and Canada, and is soon to sail for home.

Abraham Goldberg, editor of Das Volk, was Chairman, and among the speakers who paid tribute to Mr. Sokolow were Rabbi M. Waxman and H. Masliansky, called the "Yiddish Bryan," because of his oratorical powers.

The guest of honor received an ovation as he rose to speak, the audience rising in a body and cheering him. Mr. Sokolow, who spoke for an hour and a half in Hebrew, said that in both the United States and Canada he had found a great revival of interest in Hebraism, and especially in the study of the Hebrew language and literature.

He warned his hearers that it was necessary to continue the Hebrew tradition in literature and to produce modern Hebrew literature if the language was not to deteriorate. By merely speaking the language, without having a modern literature growing up, would cause loss of its virility. True Zionism, he said, must presuppose a living, vital Hebrew literature.

PACIFIC HEARING JUNE 12.

Court to Consider Two Dissolution Plans on That Date.

ST. PAUL, June 5.—The Federal Court to-day set June 12 as the date for hearing the amended plans for the disposition of the Southern Pacific stock in the dissolution of the merger. The hearing will take place before Judges Sanborn, Hook, and Smith in this city. The plans to be submitted to the court are:

First—That the stock of the Southern Pacific Company owned by the Union Pacific Company shall be offered for public subscription at a minimum price, and that only such an amount of said stock as shall be designated by the court, if any, shall be allotted to subscribers who are stockholders of the Union Pacific Railway Company.

Second—That the entire stock shall be transferred to a trustee and that certificates of interest representing the stock shall be issued by the trustee. These certificates of interest shall carry no voting right, but shall be exchangeable for the deposited stock upon filing an affidavit that the applicant does not own any shares of the capital stock of the Union Pacific Company. The certificates are to be offered for subscription to stockholders of the Union Pacific Railroad Company.

The petition prays for the approval of both plans and for a reasonable time for the company to decide under which plan to proceed.

TWO DECISIONS FOR MORSE.

Beats Suit Over Loan and Is Relieved of Contempt Charge.

Charles W. Morse, as defendant in an action brought in the Federal District Court by Henri Lehman as assignee of a claim of C. L. Charley of France, obtained a verdict yesterday in his favor. Charley was interested in the Mercedes automobile and negotiated a loan with the National Bank of North America in 1907 for the Mercedes Import Company, depositing $300,000 bonds and 2,000 shares of the stock of the Consolidated Steamship Lines as security.

He sued Morse for $83,000, of which $75,000 represented the value of the securities and $8,000 a damage claim held by the National Bank of North America.

The motion to punish Charles W. Morse for contempt of court in not appearing for supplementary examination on a judgment in favor of Montrose W. Houck for $28,527, obtained on Dec. 28, 1908, was dismissed yesterday by Supreme Court Justice Giegerich on the application of the original plaintiff, Houck.

The Importance of Sound Insurance

In the event of a fire your policies may be of greater importance than the deed to your property.

They may mean the difference between financial embarrassment, perhaps ruin, and immediate resumption of business under favorable conditions.

Disputed claims are largely due to the failure of the insured to secure proper insurance and fulfill the requirements and conditions of the policies. Much litigation would be avoided if the business was placed through brokers, who, by experience, training and familiarity with insurance law have become experts, and by whom insurance brokerage has been developed into a profession.

Large insurers of mercantile and manufacturing risks recognize this fact and avail themselves of our services, to their profit and benefit.

We are ready to talk to you about your insurance problems when you say the word.

FAMOUS WOMAN PROMOTER IS DEAD

Mrs. J. H. B. Moffett Figured in Mining Circles as a Stock Seller for Several Years.

DID HER OWN PROSPECTING

Was Identified with Lucrative Schemes in Association with R. H. Hopper and Warner Miller.

It became known yesterday that Mrs. Julia H. B. Moffett, who died on May 13 at 69 East 125th Street, was the woman mining promoter whose spectacular career attracted much attention a few years ago.

In 1905 Mrs. Moffett, then thirty-three years old, became known to the New York financial world as a member of the firm of Hopper & Bigelow, brokers. This firm was organized to promote sales of stock in Victoria Chief Copper Mining and Smelting Company, of which Robert H. Hopper was President; Howard Clinton Dickinson, Vice President, and J. H. Bigelow, (Mrs. Moffett,) secretary and treasurer. The firm also promoted sales of the Sierra Consolidated Gold Mining Company's stock. Warner Miller, once prominent in Republican politics and the successor of Roscoe Conkling in the United States Senate, was the President of the latter company, which was incorporated under the laws of West Virginia with a capital stock of $3,000,000 and a bonded indebtedness of $500,000. Associated with him was Col. William Wayne Belvin, at that time at the height of his prosperity as a promoter.

Ex-Senator Miller, Col. Wayne, Col. Hopper, and Mrs. Moffett shared offices at 100 Broadway. Mrs. Moffett interested wealthy men in the copper mining corporation with her stories of how she had prospected personally the various claims and secured them for the corporation which she had organized. She told of living for months in the Caballos Mountains, in Sierra County, New Mexico, clad in trousers and heavy boots, and described in glowing terms the richness of the veins she had "struck" and the quality of the ore. She succeeded in impressing hard-headed and conservative business men with her stories and the sales of stock steadily increased.

Jumped and Then Dropped.

The original investors secured the stock at 35 cents a share, and then, upon the strength of favorable reports from the mines, the promoters hoisted the quotations by leaps and bounds until it reached $2 a share. In January, 1908, the Victoria Chief Copper Mining and Smelting Company began to fall upon hard times. John Gardner and Stephen J. Macy, two miners, who asserted that they had interests in several of the claims which had been pooled together to constitute the holdings of the company, obtained an order from Justice Greenbaum in the Supreme Court to have Col. Hopper and Mrs. Moffett examined before a referee in order that they might obtain information concerning the business transactions of the company upon which to base a suit. When Mrs. Moffett appeared before Justice Newburger in an effort to have the order for a referee's examination set aside, she told an interesting story of her mining experiences.

"I spent two months with these plaintiffs," she testified, "prospecting in New Mexico. They located some claims and I advanced some money to hold them. I myself located other claims which proved to be the only ones worth developing. These latter are the claims which were sold to the Victoria Chief Copper Mining and Smelting Company. I had to swim a swollen river on horseback to get them.

"I was sorry for these men, and so I let them go in with me on my claims. It is none of their business how the promoter's stock was disposed of. The trouble was caused by men who found that we had valuable property down there and are using these men. I am a business woman and I don't want any notoriety. For that reason I have chosen to appear in this corporation as J. H. Bigelow, so that it would seem that I was a man."

The plaintiffs asserted that Col. Hopper and his woman partner were busy selling the stock of the company and had refused to make any accounting as to the number of shares sold.

Another Claimant Appears.

While this case was pending W. L. Johnson, another prospector and miner, began suit in New Mexico against Hopper and Mrs. Moffett. Johnson claimed an undivided third interest in the various properties which had been deeded to the mining company. The defendants demurred to the complaint and the plaintiff failed to avail himself of the privilege to amend it, with the result that the case was thrown out of court. It was then re-commenced in New York State. In the meantime the company had shipped only one carload of ore in its entire operations, which was sent to a smelter at El Paso and realized for the corporation $1,500.

When Mrs. Moffett, as Treasurer, was forced later to make an accounting it was revealed that she and Hopper had received from the sale of the stock the sum of $396,000, all of which had been disbursed except $80,000. The disbursements were explained as follows: For machinery, $160,000; cost of a store built by the company, $10,000; brokers' commissions, $45,000, and the balance for general expenses and legal services.

Suits against the Hopper-Bigelow Company multiplied, and by Feb. 8, 1912, the concern was on its last legs. Then Col. Hopper persuaded a broker to take over the lease of the offices occupied by the company, and since that time nothing had been heard of him or of his woman partner until the latter's death.

Before the dissolution of the Hopper-Bigelow Company the Sierra Consolidated Gold Mining Company, of which ex-Senator Warner Miller was President, and in which Col. Hopper and Mrs. Moffett were also interested, failed, and on Jan. 28, 1908, Miller was forced to make a general assignment for the benefit of his creditors. He is now living quietly in Herkimer. Col. W. Wayne Belvin, who completed the coterie of promoters, also fell upon evil days. He last figured in the public prints when he was found begging at Broadway and Thirty-fourth Street and was arrested for vagrancy. He was in the heydey of his prosperity a member of the Lotos Club and had been associated with Henry Villard in building the Northern Pacific Railroad. At that period of his career he was President of the San Francisco & Eastern Railroad.

McANENY GETS ICE PLANT.

Board of Estimate's Votes for $40,000 for It, Despite Mayor.

By a vote of 12 to 4 the Board of Estimate approved yesterday the resolution proposed by Borough President McAneny to provide $40,000 to enable the city to manufacture ice at two plants for its own consumption and for sale, at cost, at municipal milk stations. The Mayor and Borough President Miller of the Bronx voted against the project. When asked about it later the Mayor said:

"Oh, I do not believe in bringing up these so-called vote-catching resolutions just before an election. That alone is a sufficient reason. I do not propose to join in any such business. Let it come up at the beginning of some administration, not at the end."

Harold W. Cole, representing several ice companies, said that the city might as well go into the business of distributing meat.

"The only thing I have to say about that," replied President McAneny, "is that the city has no facilities available for manufacturing meat, while it has facilities for manufacturing ice." The Borough President said later:

"I see that the Mayor's explanation of his vote upon the municipal ice plant proposal contains an attack upon my motives in that he generously speaks of a 'vote-catching resolution.'

"Any measure that tends to promote either public economy or to improve the public health is likely to be a so-called 'vote-catching' measure. That, however, offers no reason why any member of the board should refrain from advancing such a measure. I certainly do not propose to suspend my own action upon matters of public consequence because the fact that this is the last year of the administration provides an opportunity for insinuation of this kind.

"The proposal to manufacture the city's ice through the use of its own waste power was presented to me in the ordinary course several weeks ago. After a careful investigation by the consulting engineer of the borough I was convinced of its merits and reported favorably upon it, exactly as I should have done upon any other plan for promoting the public health and saving the city's money."

STOLE CLOWN'S JEWELRY.

Viola Stoll Admits Taking Property Belonging to Slivers.

Miss Viola Stoll, who was arrested in St. Louis on the complaint of Frank Oakley, known as "Slivers," a circus clown, was arraigned before Judge Foster in General Sessions yesterday and pleaded guilty of stealing $4,000 worth of jewelry from the complainant.

According to Oakley, the jewelry was stolen from him while the woman was acting as his housekeeper at 520 West 139th Street. He said that he first met Miss Stoll in Utica, where she had been left stranded by a theatrical company, and that he took compassion on her and hired her as his housekeeper. He later went to Baltimore, and while there the defendant and his pewelry disappeared. Miss Stoll will be sentenced to-day.

FIRST 'ANTI-GRAFT' WEDDING

Preacher Rejects Fee for Performing the Ceremony.

CHICAGO, June 5.—The Rev. Almer Pennewell performed the first "anti-graft" marriage yesterday since his recent announcement that he believed fees accepted by ministers for officiating at weddings were nothing less than graft, and that in the future he would make no charge for that service. He also asserted that couples must "present clean bills of health from reputable physicians."

Clifton Walker Hunt of Cleveland and Miss Dorothy Maize of Oak Park were the principals. The father of the bride attempted to force a fee on the clergyman, but was unsuccessful.

"I get a salary for my services, and couples should not feel that they are receiving charity," said the preacher.

East Siders to Entertain McAneny.

Merchants, professional men, and social workers of the east side will give Borough President McAneny a dinner at Clinton Hall on June 12. Arrangements are being made by the East Side Civic Committee, and the dinner will be in recognition of what the Borough President has done for that part of the city. The speakers, in addition to the Borough President, will be Dr. Jacobi, Mr. McAneny's father-in-law; Henry Morgenthau, Raymond V. Ingersoll, Dr. Paul Abelson, Miss Lillian D. Wald, the social worker; Louis Lande, assistant counsel to the Curran Committee, and Louis S. Posner.

NEW NAME IS GIVEN TO AN OLD CRUSADE

Plan to Double Land Tax Made Over So as "to Reduce Tax on Land Improvements."

SEEKS TO END CONGESTION

Only Legislators Pledged to Submit the Idea to a Referendum Will Be Supported for Office.

Eleven enthusiastic advocates of making the tax rate on unimproved real estate in this city twice that on buildings—a proposition which has been overwhelmed in the Legislature for two years running—gathered at the Reform Club in South William Street yesterday afternoon to make a fresh start. John J. Hopper presided at the meeting.

The proposition originally grew out of a report made by a Committee on Congestion appointed by Mayor Gaynor with a view to framing some policy by which the crowding of the tenement districts could be relieved. A majority of this committee, of which Benjamin C. Marsh, one of the prime factors in the present movement, was Secretary, thought they would be able to start a building boom in the suburbs by putting a heavy tax on unimproved land and thus provide homes for a large portion of those who now dwell in congested sections of the city.

As a movement for the masses the scheme made no impression on the lawmakers, so the present movement for the original plan has taken on the guise of a business men's organization. The business before the meeting yesterday was to adopt a name for the organization, by-laws, a declaration of principles, and to elect officers. The first three of these purposes were accomplished, although the eleven had to clear some hurdles before the goal was reached. The last purpose was only partly accomplished. A dozen or so Vice Presidents, representing all the boroughs, were chosen, and Mr. Marsh, perhaps the most energetic worker and believer in the cause, was elected Secretary. The election of a President and a Treasurer went over until the next meeting.

Trouble began when "The Business Men's Association to promote New York's Prosperity and to Relieve and Encourage Industry by Taxing Land Values," was proposed as a name for the organization. Nobody had any kick on its verbosity; but Charles T. Root, a publisher and student of the tax problem, said that the word taxation should have no place in the title.

"Don't have it appear that we are trying to impose any new tax on land," he said. "This would involve unequal taxation, and that is a bad proposition at law. We are merely seeking to recover for the community a value that the community has created. Land has no value in itself. You cannot eat it, and you cannot wear it. It's the people that live on and about it that make it valuable. Cut out that reference to taxing land values. Get rid of the scorpion's tail."

After a long discussion it finally was decided to amend by substituting the words "for the relief of industry by reducing taxes on land improvements."

In the declaration of principles the assertion was made that "the present system of taxing buildings at the same rate as lands retards the commercial and industrial growth of the city." The recent increase in the interests on City bonds was cited as proof of this assertion. The declaration closed by urging all political parties to nominate no candidates for positions on the Board of Estimate or for the Legislature who, besides pledging themselves to efficiency and economy in municipal administration, genuine home rule and continued reform of the Police Department, would no go on record in favor of letting the voters decide through a referendum whether this new plan of taxation should be inaugurated or not.

Duffy's Trial Postponed.

The trial of Police Sergeant Peter J. Duffy, charged with collecting graft from Harlem poolroom proprietors, was postponed yesterday until Monday morning as his attorney, Abraham Levy, will be engaged in a case in another court. There are eight indictments against Duffy, all charging bribery.

INSULTER OF WOMEN JAILED

Fought Policeman Who Heard Him Accost Girl in Washington Square.

Max Hirkowitz, a cigarmaker, of 230 Sixth Street, was sentenced to fifteen days in the Workhouse yesterday by Magistrate House in Jefferson Market Court for insulting a woman and attempting to stab the officer who placed him under arrest.

According to Policeman Lucey of the Mercer Street Police Station, who made the arrest, Hirkowitz was one of a gang of five men who were sitting in Washington Square Park during the noon hour yesterday and making insulting remarks to women and children. He heard Hirkowitz address a girl who was passing through the park, and he placed him under arrest.

Hirkowitz fought to get away from his captor, and slashed viciously at Lucey with a tobacco's cutter's knife. He cut a merit star from the policeman's sleeve and slashed his coat before being subdued and taken to the Mercer Street Police Station. The Magistrtea commended Lucey for making the arrest.

SAYS CURRAN BUILT 'A COBHOUSE OF LIES'

Mayor Pleased at Its "Collapse," but Curran Cautions Him to Wait and See.

THIRD PART OF REPORT DUE

Quorum and Approval of Report Assured for To-day—Buckner's Disproof of Waldo's Denial.

The battle of words between Mayor Gaynor and the "pitiful Aldermen" of the Curran Police Investigating Committee continued yesterday with the usual heat. The Mayor took apparent delight in the failure of the anti-Waldo members of the committee to rush through Section 2 of their report, and expressed the opinion that his enemies on the committee had been overcome. He said they had builded a "cobhouse of sensational lies," which had collapsed.

Chairman Curran and Emory Buckner, the committee's counsel, retorted by producing more letters in support of the charge branded as false by the Mayor and Waldo, that the Police Commissioner had permitted accused police officials to investigate themselves. Mr. Curran also observed that the Mayor would soon discover that the so-called "cobhouse" was far from being in a state of collapse.

The Mayor issued this statement:

> What I have to say about the Curran scandal committee dwindling down to three yesterday? Why, all cobhouses fall down at the first jar, and down comes this cobhouse of sensation, lying, and scandal. Old female and male prostitutes were called by the committee to recall their careers of shame of twenty years or more. In it all only one act of graft by a policeman within four years was shown. The whole object of raking up the derelictions of the last twenty years was in the silly notion that intelligent people of this city would suppose they were of the present and thereby disgrace the grand and good city. But down came their cobhouses on their nasty and silly heads.

Committee Meets Again To-day.

The test of the strength of the "cobhouse" will take place this morning at 10 o'clock, when the Curran Committee meets to consider Section 3 of the final report, which deals with the Detective Bureau and is believed to contain more slaps at Commissioner Waldo and also some at Deputy Police Commissioner Dougherty. If less than five of the nine Aldermen show up at the meeting there will be no quorum. The "pitiful four"—Curran, Folks, Esterbrook, and Hamilton—are sure to be there, and Alderman Shipley, who sided with the Tammany delegation last Monday and who remained away from the Wednesday meeting, also expects to be there. Alderman Downing, who has followed the same course as Shipley, also is expected to attend. Section 3 would pass, it was pointed out, even if Downing and Shipley voted against it.

"I didn't attend the meeting on Wednesday," Alderman Shipley said yesterday, "because I had a previous engagement. I'll positively be there tomorrow morning. I am acting in this matter just as my conscience dictates, and no Tammany man has talked to me or has influenced me in any way. I do think that Alderman Curran and Mr. Buckner are getting a lot of notoriety out of this, however, and I don't propose to help them any. Still, I'd do anything in the world for Henry Curran—almost."

Mr. Buckner was much excited over the efforts made to refute the charge that Commissioner Waldo had permitted his Inspectors to investigate charges made against them by citizens. He read and commented upon this excerpt from Waldo's statement of Wednesday:

> Complaints against members of the department were referred to them for remark after the charges had been confidentially investigated by other persons.

"That is untrue," said Mr. Buckner, "and Mr. Waldo knows it. I can show that Mr. Waldo even went so far as to refer letters of complaint to Inspectors for their information and guidance. I'll prove it by the Police Department files."

Buckner's Disproof of Denials.

Mr. Buckner scurried away, and later returned with copies of a number of letters from citizens. Some of them it was said, had been taken from the Police Headquarters files within the last few days. As produced here, the names of the accused police officials are not mentioned. Mr. Buckner said that the names were in the possession of District Attorney Whitman. The signers, in some cases, are also withheld, at Mr. Buckner's request. Most of the letters, it was pointed out, had been written after the Rosenthal murder. Here is one:

> New York, July 31, 1912.
> Police Commissioner Waldo.
> Dear Sir: I hereby inform you in regard to Mrs. F. Lambert, who is conducting an apartment in — West Forty-third Street * * * as a disorderly house. * * * Inspector —— had her move again, from West Sixty-eighth Street, July 15, 1912. She was paying $75 protection to Inspector ——'s man, a Mr. Maas, in the beer bottling business. This was not the only woman who was paying protection at — and — West Fifty-eighth Street. When he was told that a committee was going to see the Mayor and the Commissioner he sent his man around and told them to move at once and locate some other place in the precinct * * *. Respectfully yours, ——

This letter was referred to the Inspector accused on the day of its receipt for his "information." Mr. Buckner produced a copy of Commissioner Waldo's order to this effect. The order was signed by W. R. Sheehan, Secretary to the Commissioner. Similar orders accompanied the letters later produced by Mr. Buckner.

"This record absolutely refutes Mr. Waldo's claim that the complaint was submitted to the accused Inspector for 'remark,'" said Mr. Buckner. "Nor could there have been an opportunity for 'confidential investigation' after the complaint was received and before it was forwarded to the accused Inspector."

This Treated the Same Way.

The following letter was at once referred to the accused Inspector by direction of Commissioner Waldo, "for investigation and duplicate report," according to Mr. Buckner. It was originally sent to the Mayor, and by him forwarded to Police Headquarters:

> New York, June 17, 1912
>
> Honorable William J. Gaynor: I have repeatedly complained to Commissioner Waldo about two gambling houses going on at — Bowery and — Bowery, under police protection, and the man that is doing the collecting for the Inspector is by name ——, of the Inspector's office. Now, as long as Mr. Waldo does not take action, why not send Mr. Fosdick's man and you can find out for yourself that the police is getting the graft. Yours, J. K. LEE.

Here is another citizen's letter to the Mayor which was referred immediately by Commissioner Waldo's direction to the "Commanding Officer, First Inspection District, for remark":

> New York, Aug. 8, 1911.
> Hon. William J. Gaynor, Mayor City of New York, New York City.
>
> Dear Sir—A dismissed policeman, ———, who now runs a gambling club on East Tenth Street, between Second and Third Avenues, is calling upon gamblers and * * * collecting protection money from these places, saying he is collecting it for Police Inspector ———, and the Captain of the Fifth Street Station House.
>
> Respectfully,
>
> B. W.

This letter, addressed to the Commissioner himself, as well as the return upon it, is said to have been copied from Police Department files since Commissioner Waldo issued his denial:

> Sept. 2, 1912.
>
> Hon. Police Commissioner:
>
> Sir: * * * Cafe ———, cor. ——— Street and Second Avenue, on the first floor. They are using this place as a hand-book on races in the afternoon. This hand-book is Sam Paul's. For that privilege they are paying $75 weekly police protection, which goes to the Inspector of the district. (Nine other addresses of alleged gambling houses are given.) All these places pay $75 monthly police protection. Yours truly,
>
> A STRANGER AT THE PRESENT.

No Time for Confidential Inquiry.

This particular complaint was stamped as received on Sept. 6, and on Sept. 7 it was referred to the accused Inspector for his "information" by direction of Waldo. Here again, Mr. Buckner pointed out, there could have been no time for an independent confidential investigation. The Inspector concerned kept the complaint until Oct. 21 and then returned it to Police Headquarters with this indorsement:

> Oct. 21, 1912.
>
> Respectfully forwarded to the Police Commissioner, (through official channels.) Contents noted and proper police action taken. ——, INSPECTOR.

Here is another copied at the same time:

> Oct. 5, 1912.
>
> Mr. R. Waldo, Police Commissioner, City.
>
> Dear Sir: [After giving thirteen addresses] * * * All said premises are used as disorderly houses and instead of —— being the collector of graft for Inspector — of the —— Inspection District, a notorious saloon keeper on the southwest corner of —— Street and Sixth Avenue. He is the go between these dive keepers and said Inspector. Hoping you will take action in investigating this information which I herewith forward to you, believe me, respectfully yours, JOE KEMPT.

This letter was referred to the accused Inspector for his "information" on Oct. 9. The order, as in every case, was signed by W. R. Sheehan.

The next letter bears no date. It was referred to the Inspector accused on May 7, 1912, for "remark." This Inspector retired a short time ago on a pension of $1,750.

> Hon. Commissioner Waldo, Police Headquarters, New York:
>
> Dear Sir—Isn't it about time you paid some attention to Inspector —— of Brooklyn and his staff? The —— Club, at —— Livingston Street, and ——'s, at ——, both gambling places, run nights and without any interference from him. He has a policeman on his staff named —— who does his collecting for him, not only from the gambling houses, but from the disorderly houses also. There would be fewer disorderly houses if Inspector —— would raid them instead of collecting from them.
>
> Yours respectfully, JOHN AGNESO.

Threat in Inspector's Reply.

Here is the last of the letters, also relating to Brooklyn, produced by Mr. Buckner:

> Brooklyn, July 27, 1911.
>
> Police Commissioner.
> Sir: At Bedford Avenue and —— Street is a poolroom run by a man named Cohen. He is a close personal friend of Inspector ——, who hangs out in there. If you will send some one up to the second floor they will see a roulette wheel there. Inspector ——'s district is full of poolrooms and gambling places. About two weeks ago he sent his man —— around to tip all the places to close up. They stayed closed for two days, and then they got the tip to open again, but to run easy and be careful who they let in. He heard the gambling squad was coming over after them. If you send somebody to see —— you will find that he can fix things for the fellow to open a place. Trusting you will fix this, I am respectfully yours, A. WELLWISHER.

A report was asked for on this letter and the Inspector accused absolved himself from all suspicion. The following excerpt from his reply was given out by Mr. Buckner:

> I am inclined to believe that the writer would name some of the places violating the gambling laws if such was the case, and if there is a "gambling squad" in the department, the writer knows more about conditions than I do. No person either in or out of this department ever made any unlawful bargain for me. * * * I regret that a scamp of the writer's type can assail an officer in this manner and be safe to repeat it by simply not signing name or address.

At Police Headquarters it was admitted yesterday that no record had been kept of the reports on "confidential investigations."

COHALAN INQUIRY ON; JUSTICE STAYS HERE

Connolly Formally Makes His Charges to Counsel of Bar Association.

BRINGS A NEW ACCUSATION

Grievance Committee Considers the Problem—Cohalan's Seven Children Sail Without Him for Ireland.

Faced by a new charge coming from John A. Connolly, Justice Daniel F. Cohalan permitted his children to sail on the Cedric yesterday without him to spend the Summer in Ireland. The Complaint Committee of the Bar Association began yesterday the investigation of the charges against him. When Justice Cohalan was questioned at the White Star pier about the charges, he declined to make any statement. He had gone to the pier to bid good-bye to the children. An officer of the White Star Line last night denied a report that Justice Cohalan ever had taken passage for himself on the Cedric. Two months ago it was said he had engaged passage on the Celtic for May 29. He canceled his reservations for that date because several of his children came down with measles, and, according to the White Star Line officer, he did not engage passage for himself when he made the reservations for passage on the Cedric for his children. It had all along been understood that he intended to sail with the children.

The new charge against Justice Cohalan involves what is technically known as the "falsification" of a legal document, and it is said that under certain conditions it might render those guilty of it subject to an accusation of forgery. It does not, however, follow that such an aspect will be placed on the incident if it is proved in the present case.

When Justice Cohalan returned to Connolly on May 22 the estoppel affidavit which the Justice had insisted in 1911 should accompany the note for $4,000 which Connolly then gave him, Connolly saw that there had been an erasure. The affidavit, which said that there was no defense to the note, concluded with the words, "to the knowledge of the deponent." This was in reality a saving clause, and its erasure would have been of special moment if Justice Cohalan had died before he gave up the note. It would have left Connolly, it is maintained, absolutely without any defense if the note had been presented for payment.

The erasure, it is charged, was initialed "A. B. C.," and according to the published charges these stood for the initials of A. B. Cruikshank. Mr. Cruikshank is at present in the West, so that his version of the facts could not be obtained yesterday. He is, however, expected to be at his office to-day or to-morrow.

According to the story which has appeared in print, when Mr. Cruikshank went to see Mr. Cohalan with the note of Connolly and the affidavit Mr. Cohalan objected to the form. He wanted the qualifying words stricken out, and this, according to the published story, Mr. Cruikshank proceeded to do then and there without, it is alleged, consulting Connolly about it. Connolly has said that he was quite unaware of the change until the note and affidavit were returned a few weeks ago.

All information regarding Justice Cohalan's movements was refused at his home, 23 East Ninety-fourth Street, yesterday morning, but shortly before the hour of the sailing of the Cedric he set off with his seven children, Margaret, Aileen, Conn, Kathleen, Patrick, Florence, and Dermot Cohalan, for the pier. They were accompanied by the sister-in-law of the Justice, Miss Margaret O'Leary. Asked as to his intentions the Justice said:

"I am simply going to see my children off. I refuse to say anything further."

When he reached the steamship Justice Cohalan took the children to their staterooms and stayed until it was time to cast off. He seemed nervous, and declined to talk to the reporters on any subject whatever. The only time that he cheered up was when the photographers asked if they might take a picture of the family group. He assented readily, and after all the children had been corralled he posed with them for several shots.

Meanwhile Connolly went, according to appointment, yesterday to the offices of Einar Chrystie, counsel of the Bar Association, and went over with him his charges and the documents which he contends prove them. For two hours he was under examination at the building of the association, and he will be summoned again before Mr. Chrystie for further questioning.

In the afternoon the Grievance Committee of the association met and Mr. Chrystie laid before them the results of his inquiries. For three hours the committee then considered the charges which have been published against Justice Cohalan, and especially the new aspect put on the case by the fresh accusation published yesterday morning. It is considered by many lawyers that this has placed the case in a different plane, as it now can hardly continue to be treated as though it were only an "Irish row." The irregularity revealed is so great that it almost makes an investigation necessary.

It is probable that in the next few days Connolly will be called to testify before the Grievance Committee and that as soon as Mr. Cruikshank is back in the city he will be asked to lay what he knows before it to assist in its investigations. It is also not at all unlikely that an invitation will be addressed to Justice Cohalan to come before the committee and make such representations as he may consider of importance and helpful to himself.

RICH MAN MARRIES NURSE.

Romance Began When She Attended Him in a Hospital.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Society learned to-day that Edward G. Portner, young, wealthy, and prominent in club and business circles, had married last night Miss Anna F. Moncure, a hospital nurse who had attended him in a recent illness. The Portners are on their way to the Northern resorts.

The romance began several months ago when Mr. Portner was a patient in a hospital and Miss Moncure was assigned to care for him. The bride is the daughter of the Rev. George Moncure, an Episcopal clergyman of Virginia. Mr. Portner is President of the Capital Construction Company and interested jointly with his brothers in an extensive estate left by his father.

GIMBELS

We Can Truthfully Say That Every One of the 500

MEN'S SUITS at $25

In This Splendid Early-Summer Offering

Is Worth $35 to $45 By GIMBEL Standards

MALCOLM STRAUSS ©'13.

¶ The Suits are the product of tailors who make our best Suits for men. The styles are GIMBEL styles, which the makers have liked so well that they adopted them as their standards in other cities. The linings, trimmings, tailoring and finish conform to our requirements in every respect. There are no haphazardly picked "jobs" that we would not put in our regular stock.

¶ In fact, no surer test of the GIMBEL quality of all these Suits is possible, than that we have added to our purchase from these makers about 200 of the same Suits from our Summer, 1913, stock.

¶ We are proud of the GIMBEL business in Suits selling at $35 and upwards. This sale is particularly interesting to those men who usually pay $35 or more for Gimbel Suits, and can now get them for at least $10 less.

SPECIFICATIONS

All 1913 Clothes, in every respect, and desirable in every detail.

Sack and several styles of Norfolk Suits.

A great variety of plain and fancy fabrics, including black and blue. Plenty of the favored pin stripes, in blue, gray and black; also black-and-white checks. Summer weights; quarter, half or full-lined with silk or alpaca.

All sizes, from 33 to 48, including stouts. All now at $25 a suit.

P. S.—During yesterday's selling, one man bougnt THREE of these Suits; another bought TWO at $25 and one of our regular $32 Pin-striped, Quarter Silk-lined, Flannel Suits; quite a number bought two Suits each. And some of these men had been "shopping!" Fourth Floor

95c Is Little Enough for These Men's $1.50 to $2.50 Summer Shirts

¶ There isn't a single reason for their selling a third or more under-price, except the makers' eagerness to clean up stocks.

¶ For the Shirts are all fresh as daisies; in clear, cool patterns and colorings—printed stripes and neat figures on self-striped or figured grounds of fine white madras, or in woven striped madras, with white and colored grounds. And their true value is evident at a glance.

¶ Plain bosom, stiff cuffs, all sizes from 14 to 17, and plenty of choice in each size, at 95c each. Main Floor

PULLMAN PRISON CAR FOR ALIEN CRIMINALS

Seattle Rushes Ten of Them East and Deports Them Under the Mann Act.

FED FROM THE DINING CAR

Washington Willingly Pays Expense of De Luxe Transportation to be Rid of Undesirables.

The City of Seattle, or rather the State of Washington, it was learned yesterday, has just succeeded in getting rid of a lot of undesirable aliens, mostly of the kind that Bishop Brent, in an interview in THE TIMES yesterday, characterized as a menace to American civilization. Last week police officials out there rounded up a lot of persons who had been engaged in habitually breaking the law, particularly with regard to the white slave traffic; chartered a Pullman car, and in charge of a large detachment of guards sent them on to New York, to be shipped back to their homes on the other side.

Most of these undesirables are Italians and Greeks. They were taken up in different parts of the State, most of them on charges of petty larceny or minor assault. All arrived here two days ago in good condition, and were taken to Ellis Island. Most of them were dispatched to Europe direct, but one was sent to Philadelphia to be deported, and still another to Montreal. All were sent back under the Mann act.

John Cudihee, Deputy Sheriff, and brother of Sheriff Edward Cudihee of Seattle, one of those in charge of this de luxe deportation, was found at the Imperial yesterday. He has the reputation of having captured more bad men in the mining camps of the West than almost any other peace officer. He had just come down yesterday from a visit to his old friend, Billy Muldoon, now William Muldoon, Esq., who is famous for taking hold of statesmen, lawmakers, lawbreakers, and others who are run down and licking them into shape again. Mr. Cudihee thirty years ago was a bosom friend of Mr. Muldoon, and they used to wrestle together. Mr. Cudihee was reminded yesterday of a bout the two had on one occasion which lasted four hours, when he, finding he could not overpower the famous trainer, withdrew from the contest. Also in his younger days Mr. Cudihee enjoyed the acquaintance of Mr. Thomas Sharkey of considerable reputation in pugilistic and Fourteenth Street circles.

Ten Prisoners De Luxe.

It was many years ago that Mr. Cudihee started for the West. At 21 he found himself in Leadville, Col., where he soon embraced the career of peace officer, which he has followed most of the time ever since. He was the first policeman in Leadville to wear a uniform. Thence he drifted about to different mining camps in the Northwest and Southwest, and in 1897 took part in the gold rush to Alaska. There he was appointed Deputy Chief United States Marshal, and for several years he used to gather up crooks and convoy them down to San Quentin Prison, California.

There were ten prisoners in the batch that Mr. Cudihee brought East the other day, and hardly any transcontinental passenger has ever traveled the same route with more speed or greater comfort. The Pullman car Cordova had been transformed into a jail, whose comforts and conveniences would make even some of the members of the Alimony Society in Ludlow Street envious. The windows had been covered with chilled steel wire. There were iron screens at the doors, which were kept locked.

The assisted emigrants had all the comforts of home and much more during the journey, for they had good Pullman beds to sleep in and the best of food served from the dining car, which was just next theirs, and, while under surveillance, they had the run of their vehicles. Sam H. Ames of the Department of Labor was chief guard, and the others, besides Mr. Cudihee, were J. A. Watkins, Sam Hamer, W. P. Whitten, and L. H. Ingalls. Mrs. Watkins and Mrs. Hamer came along to act as matrons, and after they had got rid of their charges they all had a merry celebration at the Imperial Hotel, where all the guards and the matrons remained one night.

The passengers to whom the State of Washington gave this delightful trip across the continent were D. Bastorius and George Nicoloav, Greeks; Luigi Santiana and Giovanni Monteroso, Italians; John Robertson and Joshua Butterfield, Scotchmen; Magnus Hakonuore, a Norwegian; Marie Mila, a Greek; Tonka Baylo, an Austrian, and Mary Mitchell, an Englishwoman.

The Misses Mila and Baylo were both young and pretty. Mary Mitchell is 69 years old. She had come over several months ago to visit relatives in Seattle. Later she had evinced too strong a disposition toward convivial habits, and after the police had picked her up several times on the streets of Seattle in an intoxicated condition, it was decided there was danger of her becoming a public charge. That there is lots of life in the old lady yet was shown when she reached Ellis Island. When she was given over to the local immigration officials, she picked up her skirts and danced a jig.

State Does'nt Mind the Expense.

Of the other prisoners, Hakonuore, the Norwegian, a young and handsome chap, had married one woman, so said Mr. Cudihee, and was acting as "protector" for two others. Most of the lot had served time in the various jails of Washington for minor offenses. With the exception of Mary Mitchell the deported ones had been in the State of Washington about four years.

The jail car was brought East on one of the fastest expresses. At every station where it stopped it was an object of great curiousity. The prisoners were not allowed outside, and while Mr. Cudihee was the only one of the guards who brought any weapons with him, he kept his pistols in his suit case.

"Out our way, said Mr. Cudihee, "we have just about come to the conclusion that it is a pretty good thing to take advantage of the Mann act when we can, and the State of Washington does not mind the expense when it comes to ridding us of a lot of habitual criminals like these we have just brought East. While I am convinced that people in the East do not exactly understand the Japanese situation, I guess, at the same time, from my knowledge of the criminals we have to deal with out there—and I might say that in proportion to its population, Seattle has just as many and just as bad criminals as New York—a lot of these people we get from Southeastern Europe ought never to be allowd to come into the country."

Mr. Cudihee incidentally is boosting the "Potlatch," which, if you do not know it, is some sort of a celebration they are going to have in Seattle on the 16th of July. They seem to be always having some sort of celebrations out that way and different kinds of boosters of expositions seem to be coming in every day. For instance, at the Breslin yesterday a man came in and put his name on the register and then drew out a rubber stamp and solemnly made an impression opposite his name. The clerk looked at it and read "San-l-Fr-9-an-1 i5-sco."

"And he really thinks," said the clerk later, with disgust, "that this is helping to advertise the San Francisco fair."

Buckler May Head Johns Hopkins.

BALTIMORE, June 5.—Dr. William H. Buckler is being seriously considered for the Presidency of Johns Hopkins University, and it is said that a formal tender of the position will be made to him shortly. The place has been vacant since the resignation of Dr. Ira Remsen more than a year ago. Dr. Buckler is a member of the Board of Trustees, and is at present engaged in archaeological work in Asia Minor. He is President of the American Archaeological Association. Henry White, former Ambassador to France, is his half-brother.

MAYOR FAILS TO APPEAR.

Was Not at a Luncheon or Review of Sunday School Children.

Brooklyn's army of Sunday School children had their annual parade and festival yesterday. With flags and banners flying and bands playing, more than 175,000 girls and boys marched. Yesterday was the eighty-fourth anniversary of the Brooklyn Sunday School Union, an organization of Protestant Sunday Schools of the borough.

Children of 450 Sunday Schools gathered before the parade in twenty-four divisions. Each division had its own reviewing officers. Herbert B. Brush was Chief Marshal. He, with many of his assistants and all the reviewing officers, were the guests of William Berri at a luncheon given at the Union League Club before the parade started. Mayor Gaynor, who was to have been the chief reviewing officer, was invited, but he failed to appear, or send word why he could not come. The guests waited for him as long as they could before it was time for the reviewing officers to leave for their respective divisions. Among the guests who were at the dinner were: John Wanamaker, Borough Presidents McAneny, Steers, Connolly, and Cromwell; Controller Prendergast, the Rev. S. Parkes Cadman, Gen. and Mrs. Horatio C. King, E. R. Carhart, Timothy L. Woodruff, District Attorney James C. Cropsey, Public Works Commissioner Lewis H. Pounds, Naval Officer F. J. H. Kracke, Congressmen Calder and Fitzgerald, County Judges Dike and Fawcett, Postmaster Voorhies, Gardner D. Matthews, Herbert L. Bridgman, Commandant Albert Gleaves of the New York Navy Yard, Col. S. E. Allen of Fort Hamilton, Col. John V. White of Fort Totten, Major Gen. T. H. Barry, Major Gen. Henry Hartman of the Boys' Brigade of America, Deputy Police Commissioner Dillon, and Bishop Luther B. Wilson.

The largest division of the parade was that reviewed at Prospect Park. The Mayor was to have been the reviewing officer here, and on account of his failure to appear Mr. Wanamaker took his place. This spectacle was the most attractive of the parade. It was estimated that 20,000 children with their teachers formed the annual May walk this year on the East Meadow, between the Union and Third Street entrances of the park.

STILL AFTER 'END SEAT HOG'

Gaynor Says His Plan Would Halve the Annoyance.

Gilbert M. Tucker of 304 State Street, Albany, in a letter which Mayor Gaynor received yesterday, said that the Mayor's proposed plan to do away with the "end-seat hog" in street cars by Aldermanic ordinances would be ineffective in that the "hog" would create the same trouble, if he were forced to move along. When he desired to get off the car he would have to pass in front of everybody else, the writer said.

"It is true that in getting off those on the inner seats would have to pass in front of those further out," wrote Mayor Gaynor in reply. "That is something that cannot be remedied. But we can do away with the same trouble in getting into the car. Because we cannot do away with the trouble caused by getting out is no reason why we should not regulate the getting in. In that way we reduce the annoyance one-half."

To-day and To-morrow, Gala Days of Great Economies for Men

Timely, seasonable needfuls in Summer apparel for men and young men, in styles of such variety as to meet the approval of all, and at savings unapproached by either department or specialty store in this city. If you hazarded a guess you would probably fall very far short of the actual number of men we are serving these days—critical men whose appreciation we have earned. Join the throng.

MEN'S $20.00, $25.00 & $27.50 SUITS, $14.75

An example of the values to be found every day in Macy's much improved and enlarged Department of Men's Clothes, on the Fifth Floor, Broadway.

We have just received another big lot of very unusually smart and well-tailored Suits to sell at $14.75 for Friday and Saturday. We list them below.

Conservative business men, no less than the younger men who favor more pronounced styles, will find at Macy's precisely what they like.

$20.00 to $25.00 PENCIL STRIPED FLANNELS $14.75

$20.00 to $25.00 STAPLE GREY WORSTEDS IN PLAIN SHADES $14.75

$20.00 SHADOW-STRIPED BLUE, GREY, & GREY MIXED WORSTEDS $14.75

Two reasons will suggest prompt action to you in this remarkable sale of Suits at $14.75. First, in such unusual values as this, the quantities are necessarily limited. Secondly, this is the height of the season, when good Summer Suits are selling as rapidly as we can get them into the Store.

Men's $45.00 Fancy Worsted Suits, $38.50

In model, cut, finish and fabric these Suits are the equal of the finest custom tailored Suits obtainable. All sizes.

MEN'S $5.50 & $6.00 SHOES, $3.96

The Men's and Boys' Shoe Department is now in far larger and more commodious quarters on the Main Floor Balcony, 35th St., Rear—connecting immediately with the Men's Shop on the Main Floor, Broadway, at 35th St.

The Low Shoes are cut upon an unusually smart last, distinguished by the latest English receding toe, low broad heel, and close-trimmed welt. They are of rich dark tan "Russia" calf.

The high Shoes, cut upon a close trimmed receding-toe last, are of black domino calf.

The smart invisible eyelets, characteristic as a rule only of the finest custom Shoes, add to the trim effect. The low uppers and heel cling closely around the instep, ensuring unusual comfort and absence of friction.

Men's $10.00 High or Low Shoes, $7.94

The high Shoes in russet, and the low in russet and black. Cut on the very newest and smartest straight lasts, and better than most custom Shoes.

MEN'S 50c SILK SOCKS, 24c

Made by an extremely critical manufacturer, who calls them "throw-outs." As a matter of fact it is almost impossible to find any blemish in them—certainly none that can impair the wearing qualities of the Socks.

The material is pure silk, in all the most popular colors (gray, tan, black, blue, and helio.) The elastic tops and the double sole, high spliced heel, and double toes are of lisle. Every pair must give satistaction—we stand back of them.

Equal to or better than any "time" guaranteed Hose and made expressly for R. H. Macy & Co. Bring them back and receive a new pair without question or delay if dissatisfied. Made of lisle in black, tan, grey and navy. Main Floor, Centre.

MEN'S 50c UNDERWEAR, (Garment) 33c

A value typical of Macy's Men's Shop, on the Main Floor, at Broadway and 35th St.—now occupying double its former floor space, and improved proportionately.

These are Lisle Mesh Shirts and Drawers of strictly first quality, generously cut and well finished. They promise exceptional coolness for the hot weather, because they are absorbent and allow the air to reach the skin freely.

The Shirts are short-sleeved and have satin fronts and pearl buttons. The Drawers are knee-length and have sateen waist-band and suspender straps. All sizes.

Main Floor, 35th St.

ATHLETIC UNION SUITS at 79c.

Macy's price was 98c.

Made of madras and nainsook, with handsome sateen stripes.

Absolutely first quality, but offered at this special price in order to acquaint you with Macy's Men's Shop.

Designed for comfort, as is shown by the comfortable elastic waist-bands and shoulder-pieces. Main Floor, 35th St.

Men's $6.00 Union Suits, $4.49

Unusually well cut and easy fitting. Made of the finest silk-and-lisle.

MEN'S $1.00 BELTS AT 53c

Main Floor, 35th St., Broadway.

These are really excellent quality, both as to finish and leather. They are black, tan and gray, in all sizes.

You will instantly see wherein these Belts differ from those advertised around town so freely as "$1.00 Belts for 65c."

We have checked up on these "elsewhere" Belts and found them worth about 50c.

Macy's are actual $1.00 Belts for 53c.

MEN'S "JAP" SILK UNDERWEAR Main Floor, 35th St.

Per Garment $1.24

Macy's price was $1.89

Made of fine, soft, yet durable, "Jap" silk, in blue, tan, and fancy stripes. Well cut and neatly finished.

Athletic style Shirts and Knee-length Drawers, of first quality. Designed to insure freedom of movement and cool comfort in the hot weather. All sizes.

MEN'S $1.50, $2.00 and $3.00 FINE SUMMER SHIRTS

Soft Shirts—7,200 of them—made in coat style with soft double "French" cuffs. All sizes from 13½ to 18, and sleeve lengths 33, 34, 35 and 36.

Made of soft mercerized silky weaves, in crepe weaves, in pongee cloth with "Russian" cords, and in satin and candy stripe effects.

Pleated and plain Shirts—Made on the Macy specifications, and therefore perfect in fit. All sizes from 14 to 18 and sleeve lengths 35 and 36.

"TO-MEASURE" SHIRTS

(Main Floor Balcony, 35th St.) in the most novel effects and the finest fabrics, up to those of purest "tub" silk at $7.49.

FOR A WORLD-WIDE FINGER-PRINT PLAN

Dr. Vucetich, Who Perfected Modern System of Identification, Would Extend Its Use.

NOT ONLY FOR CRIMINALS

Every Person's Marks Should Be Recorded in His Own Country, Argentine Official Asserts.

Every large city should have a great central department of identification, not merely for criminals but for every one of its inhabitants, in the opinion of Dr. Juan Vucetich, Chief of the Bureaus of Identification of the Province of Buenos Aires and of the Argentine War Department, who arrived at the Waldorf yesterday.

Dr. Vucetich is the originator of the first complete system of finger print identification, and he asserts that it is his system, with modifications, which is in use throughout the world to-day. He says that even Bertillon, who applied anthropometry to criminal identification, has adopted his system in spite of the fact that Bertillon two years after Dr. Vucetich had successfully inaugurated his own system in the City of La Plata, Argentina, said that a system of finger print identification was impracticable.

Dr. Vucetich said yesterday that if Mayor Gaynor or Commissioner Waldo had at any time ordered any of the records or identifications at Police Headquarters destroyed, they had made a mistake. He asserted that the American idea in regard to the system of identification was all wrong. We regard it as stamping us as criminals to have a complete identification of ourselves in existence, he said.

He pointed out yesterday that the description of every citizen of Buenos Aires was recorded on the Government records, and that in the office of the Minister of War and the Minister of the Interior there were on file 2,000,000 identifications, which were used not necessarily for criminal but for military and political purposes.

Dr. Vucetich has just come across the continent from San Francisco after a visit to India, China, and Japan. From police officials of California cities he brings a lot of enthusiastic testimonials. He is leaving to-day for Washington to attend the International Congress of Chiefs of Police to be held in that city on June 10.

System Devised 25 Years Ago.

"I invented my system of identification twenty-five years ago," said Dr. Vucetich yesterday. "At that time I was Chief of the Bureau of Identification in La Plata, Argentina. It had been recommended to me that I study the various systems of identification in use, and adopt the best. I discovered there was no system in existence but what was deficient. There arose instances to which none would respond. What interested me most was Bertillon's anthropometric system. I found it was not sufficient. At that time a magazine, the French Revue Scientifique, fell into my hands. That was on the 2d of May, 1891. It contained an article on 'Papillary Lines in the Hands,' in which the author went on to show that these varied in different persons. The article referred to some studies Mr. Galton of London had made, which I believe went to prove that the differences were due to heredity. Galton drew his conclusions from the use of only the finger and the thumb. I got the idea of applying the test to all the fingers of the hand.

"I had many criminals at my disposition. I started in using printer's ink to get my impressions. Here," added Dr. Vucetich, producing a big card, "is the first finger print identification made in the world. You see it is dated 'Sept. 1, 1891.' The first man so identified was a prisoner in La Plata named Francisco Carchulo. I kept up my experimenting until, in 1897, I was able to announce that I had perfected my system. Previous to that time, however, my finger prints had thousands of times proved their efficiency."

One of the first important cases I remember was that of an innocent man who was saved from hanging in 1892. The husband of a woman in La Plata had left her. In revenge she killed her two children and wounded herself upon the neck, and accused her husband of the murder and assault. However, our police agents found upon investigation bloody finger prints on a window frame in the room where the tragedy had been committed. That piece of wood was sent over to me, together with the finger prints of the man and the woman. On comparing them I found by my system that the bloody finger prints on the window frame had been made by the woman. She confessed her crime, telling that she had wounded herself with the intention of suicide, and with the further object of causing the man to be accused as a murderer of herself and her children.

"As early as 1903 I was in communication with Lombroso, the celebrated Italian criminologist, and he made reference to my system in some of his papers. The Argentine Government was the first to adopt my system, and its example was almost immediately followed by the other South American countries. Since then almost every country in the world has adopted it in some form or other, though England uses a system of different classification, based upon my own but fathered by its Chief of Metropolitan Police, Henry. I have styled the classifications in my system A, I, E, and V.' Bertillon, using the same classifications, has styled them 'E, I, O, and U.' Harvey Pacha, in Egypt, has done similarly, and my system is in use in Russia under a still different listing of the classes.

"I think it is only just to myself to say that I have given my invention to humanity. I have never accepted anything for it beyond the pay I have drawn from my Government, and I never will. While I have received certain scientific distinctions, which I value highly, I have never accepted any decorations. I don't believe in them. This watch charm," taking up a heavy gold medal, bearing the seals of Argentina, Chile, Uruguay, and Brazil, "which was presented to me at the International Convention of Police in 1905, is one of the most substantial tokens I have received.

"Yet after all that has been accomplished in criminal identification by the finger-print system, in my opinion criminal matters are of secondary importance in identification. In the Argentine my system has been adopted in civil, military, political, and judicial employments. In fact, they have gone so far as to make a law that not only shall all employes be so identified, but any student who undergoes an examination for the law must know the system well. In domestic matters, in the banks, in the Post Offices, they have to work with the police in this matter, and this has been a law since 1906.

"I am surprised and somewhat disappointed to find here that identifications seems to be regarded altogether from the point of view of the criminal; that is to say, an ordinary man appears to think it a disgrace to be on record on an identification card. If your people could realize what an assistance this has been to us in Buenos Aires in other than criminal matters, you would clamor for it. I understand that your morgues are sometimes filled with unidentified dead, and that not infrequently bodies brought there are never identified, but are buried in a Potter's Field. Perhaps more than one of those mysterious disappearances, which I understand are frequently chronicled in your newspapers, might be explained if you had on hand the means of identification we possess in Buenos Aires.

Valuable for Accident Cases.

"Often a man is run over by a railroad train or is blown to pieces by an explosion, or is mangled into such a form that ordinary means of identification are lost. Now in Buenos Aires we have identified numerous cases of this kind [illegible] our finger [illegible], for everybody in Argentina is compelled by our registry department to be put on record. In my opinion, it is a fundamental thing that everybody should carry with him a finger print record. It is the only means sometimes of distinguishing an honest man from a criminal. Perhaps some one has killed another and stolen his passport. He could pose as that other person, unless identified by finger prints. A man might be arrested on a charge of which he is perfectly innocent. It would be a small matter for him to free himself were he in possesion of a finger print card. I am of the opinion that false arrests under such a system would be few."

Dr. Vucetich showed a book containing photographs of men who had been so disfigured that recognition of their faces or figures was impossible, and said that each had been identified by the finger print system.

"There ought to be a central bureau of identification in New York," he went on, "not a police institution, but a political and civil bureau. I am going to talk on that subject before the Congress of Police in Washington. One main reason why I have been traveling just now is that in 1916 there is going to be celebrated at Buenos Aires the first century of Argentine independence. I am going to write a history of the identification systems of the world, compiled from the studies made while I have been visiting different countries. I am here also partly to promote the International Congress of Identification in Buenos Aires for the celebration. I am interested also in an attempt to arouse interest in an intercontinental central identification bureau, with offices in New York, London, or Paris, and Buenos Aires. My idea is that with all your records and identifications being kept in New York, those of Europe being centred in London or Paris, and those of South America in Buenos Aires, it will be possible to keep track of almost every criminal in the world. Though I would not have this bureau devoted exclusively to police purposes, these three central offices would interchange records.

"Suppose in Italy a criminal should embark for some western destination. The local identification office would notify the central European office, and that would send word by cable to New York and Buenos Aires, and the criminal could be taken up on arrival at any port upon this side."

Dr. Vucetich will go to Cuba after the congress at Washington, his system having been adopted in the island republic. Afterward he will return to New York for a visit before going to Europe.

KILLED BY 8-STORY FALL.

Coroner's Physician Satisfied That Dr. Storck Committed Suicide.

Overwork on an invention of a new method of constructing dental bridges is the reason assigned by Dr. Timothy Lehane, Coroner's physician, for the suicide, as he describes it, of Dr. Stephen O. Storck, a dentist, of the Coronet apartments, 57 West Fifty-eighth Street. Early yesterday morning Dr. Storck fell or leaped from a window in his dining room to the courtyard, eight stories below.

According to Dr. Lehane, interviews yesterday with several relatives of Dr. Storck disclosed that the dentist had been doing some hard studying in connection with the development of his invention, and, although he had been warned by physicians that he was injuring his health, he continued his work. For the past year, according to his friends, his health had been failing. Dr. Lehane was convinced from yesterday's investigation that Dr. Storck had a tendency to melancholia, and said there was no doubt in his mind that it was a case of suicide.

Mrs. Storck, who was in the next room when her husband plunged to his death, was not examined yesterday, as she was prostrated. Half an hour before Dr. Storck fell he was playing bridge with his wife and Mr. and Mrs. Everet S. Fink of 120 West Eighty-sixth Street. After the guests had gone Dr. Storck went into the dining room and a few second later two maids employed in the apartment heard him cry out as he plunged from the window. Dr. Frout, who came from Flower Hospital, said that the dentist had been killed instantly.

HUYLER ESTATE WINS.

Court Dismisses Suit to Recover on Paris Modes Account.

Supreme Court Justice Amend, before whom the Wynkoop-Hallenbeck-Crawford Company's suit to recover $26,757.11 from the John S. Huyler estate was tried, dismissed the complaint in the action yesterday. The complainant was the printer of Paris Modes, a journal published by Thomas J. Gaines, Jr., a nephew of Huyler, and it was alleged that Huyler had guaranteed the account by allowing it to be known that he was assisting Gaines in the publishing business.

Justice Amend held that a man might assist his nephew in business without laying himself liable for debts contracted, and that without specific evidence showing that Huyler sought credit on behalf of his nephew his estate could not be charged with the printing bill.

TOURISTS ON THE CEDRIC.

J. P. Morgan at Pier Says Vacations Are for Idle, Not for Him.

The White Star liner Cedric sailed yesterday for Liverpool with her cabins well filled with American tourists on their way to spend the Summer abroad. There were 700 passengers in the third class, bound chiefly for Ireland.

The crush of friends who had come to see the passengers away was so great at the gangway that it was difficult for J. P. Morgan to force his way through when he came to say good-bye to Mrs. J. Kearney Warren, an old friend of the family, who is 85 years old and goes to Europe every year. Mrs. Warren is very active, in spite of her years.

Mr. Morgan was asked by the reporters if he was going away, and he replied:

"Long vacations are for idle people. I am not in in that class, unfortunately. I relaly don't know when I shall be able to get away."

Hazel Dawn, the American comic opera singer, sailed on the Cedric with her sister, Eleanor Dawn, to spend the Summer in England and Italy, where they have a sister studying music.

The Rev. Dr. John Henry Jowett, pastor of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church, sailed on the Cedric, with his wife and daughter, to spend the Summer at their old hime in Birmingham.

PRICE COLLIER'S

Fearless Criticism and Trenchant Characterization Give Vital Interest to His New Book

Germany and the Germans

From an American Point of View

All Price Collier's writings have a quality perhaps unique—just as the biographer or novelist presents the character of a person, so he presents the character of a people. This and his justice of view and wit and vigor in expression have given him an international reputation as a commentator upon the life and customs of a country; his "England and the English" and his "West in the East" are known all over the world. But it seems likely that this new book will stir more interest than either of the others—every page is made eventful to the reader by some pointed comment or bold criticism.

No Saccharin in Clicquot Club

A lb. of Saccharin, worth 60c, sweetens the same amount of Ginger Ale as a barrel of Sugar, worth $16.

The rich, heavy syrup used in Clicquot Club Ginger Ale is made of pure granulated sugar refined especially for us. Cheap ginger ale is usually sweetened with saccharin (unless forbidden by State laws), tastes accordingly, and has no more body than the water of which it is chiefly composed.

Clicquot Club Syrup is made of pure sugar and imported ginger root of the finest quality.

FINE RACING AT NEW PIPING ROCK

Society Folk Turn Out for the Opening Day's Contests on Long Island.

Piping Rock yesterday furnished the setting for the opening of the three days' meeting which promises to create a new epoch in the sport, in that it turned out to be of as high a class as is nearly possible from the standpoint of competition and attendance.

Society lent its aid in no uncertain manner, to the end that hundreds of the best-known people of New York and vicinity, as well as those in the various hunting sets on Long Island, helped to make the occasion memorable. The women in the assemblage aided in making the scene one of the most picturesque, probably, ever seen on a race course in this country, the many-colored costumes of the fair sex being admirably set off in the background of turf, the lawns being perfect.

Among those who had the pleasure of seeing their colors carried to the front in the respective events on the flat and over the jumps were Frederick Johnson, H. K. Knapp, R. T. Wilson, Harry Payne Whitney, Jesse Williamson, Jr., and Mrs. Payne Whitney.

Many men who had never before been identified with the sport sent entrants to the post yesterday for the first time. Probably the chief of the newcomers was C. K. G. Billings, who has been a factor in many phases of competition and who was represented by Virile, a son of Stalwart, on which his silks were shown in the colors of Old Gold and Blue.

The fields in the various events were led to the starting post by Thomas Hitchcock, a well-known sportsman and a member of the first polo team which represented America against England in 1886. Two staretrs, James Milton, who wields the flag for The Jockey Club, and Frank J. Bryan sent the horses on their respective journeys, the work of dispatching the fields in the Piping Rock Subscription of two divisions at a half mile devolving on the former, because of the fact that they were two-year-olds, with a score of starters in each race.

These were unquestionably the feature events of the day, the entrants being the horses which were distributed at the allotment held Nov. 24, last year, with the conditions warranting the first three in each division being started for final honors next Monday. Incidentally, the prizes were the most valuable of the series, the added purse in each case being $2,500. As the result of both "heats" it was noticeable that of the six placed horses five were fillies.

The respective winners, H. K. Knapp's Belle Terre and Harry Payne Whitney's Some Kid, were both bred by O. H. Chanault of Lexington, Ky.

Eighteen went to the post in the first division of this event, and all were sent away in fairly good alignment. Belle Terre, which was a pronounced favorite with those speculatively inclined, soon found her position, and, ably handled by Jockey Glass, assumed the lead coming into the stretch, being closely pressed by Mrs. Payne Whitney's Nancy Orme. The pair had a battle royal to the wire, finishing as named, with Belle Terre an open length to the good, while the Whitney filly beat W. B. Coe's Piping Hot, which came from a long way back, for the place.

In the second lot in the Elimination test H. P. Whitney's Some Kid was the elected choice, his recent race at Belmont Park having fitted him for yesterday's contest. Aurora, Apt To Be, and Some Kid had the race between them from the raising of the barrier, but when they straightened out for the run home Troxler came away with the Whitney nomination and placed the event to the former polo Captain's credit by a length and a half, with Aurora second and Virginia Lass third.

Six officers of the United States Army had mounts in the last race, for the Broad Hollow Plate, over the mile and a half route on the flat. Lieut. G. S. Patton, Jr., as the result of a false break and in an attempt to pull his horse up at the middle of the top turn, had the misfortune to be thrown heavily. He got up again when his horse was captured, apparently none the worse for his tumble, but cut no figure in the real running. Absconder, with Tommy Wright up, won by a half dozen lengths from Peter G. Gerry's Eadbald, with Clement N. Williams's Willing in third place. The summary:

FIRST RACE.—The Chamblet Plate; handicap for Galloways; five furlongs. Won by Frederick Johnson's b. h. Reybourn, Star Shoot-Last Resort, (H. Tucker,) 168, even and 1 to 2; E. J. Hogan's The Thief, (L. Davis,) 146, 10 to 1, 4 to 1, and 2 to 1, second; A. Ludlow Kramer's Culvert, (J. Tucker,) 168, 3 to 1 and even, third. Lord Leighton, Jack Code, Kinderhook, Live Wire, Paw, and Peeping Tom also ran. Won by four length; three lengths between second and third. Time not taken.

SECOND RACE.—The Orange County Plate; steeplechase; selling; about two miles. Won by T. J. Donohue's ch. g. Jesuit, (E. Heider,) 154, 2 to 5 and out; J. E. Davis's Golden, (M. Murphy,) 139, 6 to 1 and out, second; J. E. Widener's El Bart, (J. Lynch,) 142, 5 to 2 and out, ran out. Won by thirty lengths. Time, 3:58 1-5.

THIRD RACE.—The Piping Rock Subscription Race; elimination trial; for two-year-olds; about four furlongs. First division. Won by Oneck Stable's b. f. Belle Terre, Russell-Belle of Mayfield, (J. Glass,) 110, 8 to 5, 8 to 5, and 1 to 4; Greentree Stable's Nancy Orme, (R. Troxler,) 119, 5 to 1, 2 to 1, and even, second; W. R. Coe's Piping Hot, (H. Wolfe,) 119, 8 to 1, 3 to 1, and 8 to 5, third. Lily Orme, Walking Fox, Drawn, Election Bet, Rosa, Babisa, Oktibbeva, Andes, Miss Roslyn, Dead Loss, Delegate, Golden Prime, Lady Eocipe, and Cagliostro also ran. Won by two lengths; three between second and third. Time—0:51 4-5.

FOURTH RACE.—The Piping Rock Handicap; for three-year-olds and upward; one mile and a furlong. Won by R. T. Wilson's ch. g. Amalfi, (H. Wolfe,) 99, 4 to 1 and even; Capt. E. B. Cassatt's Spring Board, (T. Davis,) 102, 6 to 1, 8 to 5, and 7 to 10, second; August Belmont's Mission, (T. McTaggart,) 107, 2 to 1 and 8 to 5, third. G. M. Miller, Star Bottle, and Virile also ran. Won by a nose; three lengths between second and third. Time—1:54 1-5.

FIFTH RACE.—The Piping Rock Subscription Race; elimination trial; second division; for 2-year-olds; about four furlongs. Won by H. P. Whitney's ch. f. Some Kid, (Troxler,) 119, 2 to 1 and 4 to 5; John B. Nennis's Aurora, (Benschoten,) 119, 8 to 1, 3 to 1, and 8 to 5, second; J. E. Aldred's Virginia Lass, (Butwell,) 119, 10 to 1, 4 to 1, and 2 to 1, third. Arrington, Broomsedge, Armament, The Goat, Apt-to-Be, Bergomot, Sanders, Lavitesse, Freefield, Carmell, Transparency, and Bombay also ran. Won by one and one-half lengths; a head between second and third. Time, 0:52 3-5.

SIXTH RACE.—The Cooperstown Plate; handicap steeplechase; for 4-year-olds and upward; about two miles. Won by Greentree Stable's br. g. Winkle, (T. O'Brien,) 142, 8 to 1, 6 to 1, and 8 to 5; J. E. Davis's Himation, (Henderson,) 144, 2 to 1 and 4 to 5, second; Charles Pfizer's Rock Abbey, (E. Heider,) 138, 12 to 1, 5 to 1, and 5 to 2, third. Bill Andrews, Guatemotzin, and Timber also finished. Shannon River, Exemplar, and Faultless fell. Won by half a length, six lengths between second and third. Time, 3:57 4-5.

SEVENTH RACE.—The Broad Hollow Plate; one mile and a half. Won by Jesse Williamson 2d's br. g. Absconder, (T. Wright,) 158, 4 to 5 and out; Peter G. Gerry's Eadbold, (J. Highland Chief, Goldwick, Fred Essin, Handrunning, Inquisitor, and Gilbert also ran. Gold Dust pulled up. Won by six lengths, two lengths between second and third. Time, 2:44 3-5.

GERMANS BEAT FRENCHMEN.

Elimination Contest for Dwight F. Davis Tennis Cup.

WIESBADEN, Germany, June 5.—The German team beat the French team in the elimination contest for the Dwight F. Davis International tennis trophy, which has been in progress here for three days. The German team was composed of H. Kleinschroth, F. W. Rahe, and Otto Kreuzer, while the French team comprised Max Decugis, M. Germot, and Andre H. Gobert.

Surprise in Amacakassin Tennis.

The defeat of Miss Clare Cassell and S. H. Voshell by Miss Marie Wagner and A. Oshendorf in straight sets was the feature of the Amacakassin Country Club tennis tournament at Yonkers yesterday. The result was one of the surprises of the tournament. In the semi-final round of the men's singles I. Hartman defeated R. L. Baggs, 6—0, 6—4. This brings Hartman and F. C. Baggs in the challenge round for the Championship Cup, which will be played Tuesday, when it is expected the other events will be brought to a conclusion.

DAVIS CUP MATCHES TO-DAY

America and Australia to Play in Singles on West Side Courts.

At 2 o'clock this afternoon on the West Side Tennis Club courts three of America's leading racquet wielders will engage an equal number of Australia's foremost tennis experts in an attempt to regain the Davis Cup, emblematic of the tennis championship of the world. During the three days of the tournament five matches will be played, four in singles and one in doubles. The nation winning the majority of the matches will earn the right to play Germany, which defeated France yesterday.

In the matches to-day McLoughlin and Rice will play at 2 P. M., and Williams and Doust will occupy the courts as soon as the first match is completed. The doubles will be played to-morrow.

More interest in this, the twelfth competition for the Davis Cup, is being taken than ever before. Besides the English, the Americans and Austarlians, there are this year teams representing Germany, Holland, France, Belgium, Canada, and South Africa in the test matches. England holds the trophy.

In the matches to-day the English rules will be followed. Capt. Doust of the Australians says that as the cup is held by the British Isles the rules of that country must be observed. The foot fault rule and the rest limited to only three minutes after the third set, instead of seven minutes as in American rules, will be observed. In other respects the rules will be the same as those in this country.

Mayor Gaynor will probably officially start the match between McLoughlin and Rice by handing the former the ball to serve. The Mayor said yesterday he hoped to be on hand.

PLAINFIELD HORSE SHOW.

Miss Kearney's Dixie Scores Victory Over Miss Atterbury's Patricia.

Special to The New York Times.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., June 5.—Perfect weather conditions marked the opening of the tenth annual horse show of the Plainfield Riding and Driving Club here to-day. The programme, comprising classes for ponies, saddle horses, harness and combination horses, and hunters and jumpers, held the close attention of the devotees of the show.

Miss Cynthia Kearney scored a notable victory with her entry, Dixie, over Miss H. D. Atterbury's Patricia, the award being a popular one. Edward B. McLean of Washington, who is here with a large number of entries, won a blue in the novice harness class with Pall Mall. It became known to-day that Mr. McLean had purchased three hunters, Highball, Mint Julep, and Cocktail, from Bayley Brothers of Virginia, the price being $10,000. These horses were in the hunters' classes but failed to get any honors.

William Ziegler, Jr., one of the new exhibitors, won a blue ribbon in Class 8, pairs of harness horses, with the Pilot and Sir Rossiter. In this class Emil Seelig's pair, Golden Rod and St. Clair, got the gate for lameness.

George G. Rohlig won two blues, one in Class 38 for saddle horses, with Poetry, and his well-known champion, Avoca, got the other blue for combination harness and saddle horses, Donnybrook Farm's Attention being second.

The hunting and jumping classes furnished good sport, and with but few exceptions the horses performed well. H. L. Haughton's Strongheart received the blue in one class and the Blenheim Farm's Elkridge easily won the honors in the other class.

EIGHT CREWS ON COURSE.

Cornell, Columbia, and Washington on Hudson Together for Practice.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 5.—Coach Hiram Conibear had his Washington oarsmen out for their first row on the Hudson this afternoon, and he announced that his crews would practice only once a day—every afternoon between 4 and 5 o'clock, the time scheduled for the big race on June 21. This is an innovation, as every coach has his crews on the river twice a day, rowing from five to nine miles at each practice.

Late this afternoon the eight crews of Cornell, Columbia, and Washington were on the course together, and, under ideal conditions, the oarsmen had the most satisfactory practice since their arrival. All crews rowed up the river to the head of the course, and then rowed over the four miles to the finish mark.

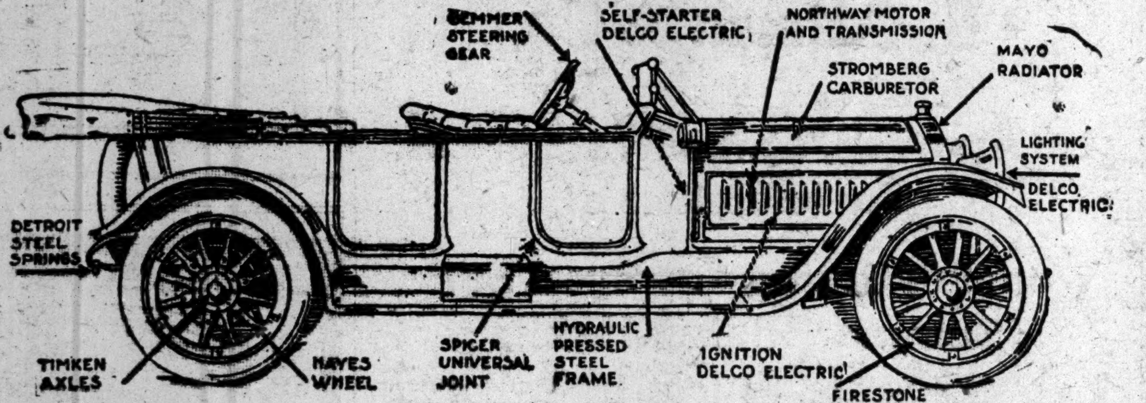
The Wisconsin crews are expected tomorrow.

Light Work for Yale Crews.

GALES FERRY, Conn., June 5.—The Yale crews had only light work on the river tonight. The 'Varsity rowed up to the navy yard, and made a half mile in 2 minutes and 27 seconds, the stroke being at 31. The freshman and four-oar crews paddled up the river for a couple of miles.

COLE

The Standardized Car



The Arrows Above Show Why the Cole is the Standardized Car

Look at this picture. It's a COLE six-cylinder touring car. It's all that any car can be. It isn't skimped anywhere. It has a wheelbase of 132 inches, and comes with the Delco starting, lighting and ignition system, completely equipped at $2,485.

Incidentally, considering its four years of growth, the Cole is regarded as the biggest conservative success in the country. You can prove this by any of our very good competitors—who, by the way, are our best friends. They know that the Cole is a success, and they are glad to see it succeed because the success of the COLE is a personal compliment to every top-notch engineer in the world. Why? Simply because the Cole embodies all the best principles of construction that the top-notch engineers have endorsed.

Among these are such recognized standards as the Mayo radiator, Delco electric system, Timken axles and bearings, Gemmer steering gear, Spicer universal joints, Detroit Steel Products springs, Northway unit power plant, Firestone demountable rims—and so on, throughout the entire car.

You'll find all these standardized parts only in the COLE—All the BEST American cars have SOME of them.

And just another word. People are going to ask you what the new type of car, as typified in the Cole, is.

Tell them this: "A standardized car is any car built entirely of perfectly inter-related standardized parts; a standardized part being any part which has been built so well that it has become the standard whereby all other similar parts are measured."

Incidentally, you may want to know our definitions of the manufactured car and the assembled car. If so, write for our book called "STANDARDIZATION." Better still, see the Cole "60" for yourself. That telephone of yours is handy. Suppose you make an engagement for a demonstration NOW—because there are

YANKEES LOSE AGAIN---SUPERBAS BLANK REDS---PRINCETON STUDENT'S RECORD

SIXTEENTH DEFEAT FOR YANKS AT HOME

Ten Innings Required for Cleveland to Take Third Game in a Row.

The Yankees took their daily dose of medicine at the Polo Grounds yesterday, the only difference being that they put up a more vigorous struggle than usual, carrying the Cleveland Naps into the tenth inning before they accepted defeat. A missed foul tip by Catcher Gossett, which would have retired Terry Turner on strikes for the second out, finally proved the turning point, as Turner followed with a double which chased Ole Olson to third base, and this pair raced across a minute later with the runs which gave the Naps the verdict, 5 to 3.

Two home run drives by Harry Wolter accounted for all three runs picked up by the Yankees in their sixteenth defeat at the Polo Grounds. With one out and the bases empty in the opening inning, Wolter hit on a line to right centre, and the ball rolled to the fence, allowing the Yankee outfielder to make the circuit. In the third inning, with Hartzell on second base as a result of his bunt and Olson's bad throw, Wolter hit into the right field stand, only inches inside the foul line, for his second consecutive circuit clout.

The second homer tied up the game, as the Naps had picked up a run in each of the first three innings. Johnston's triple to right centre and an infield out by Chapman brought in the first Cleveland run. Graney opened the second inning with a double to left, O'Neill fanned, and Graney was safe at third when Midkiff dropped Sweeney's throw on his attempted steal. Steen popped to Zeider for the second out, and Johnston chased Graney home with a solid smash over second base. Chapman's triple as the opener of the third inning and Turner's sacrifice fly to Hartzell gave the Naps their third run in the third inning. Chapman slid under Sweeney as the latter caught Hartzell's fine return from the outfield.

From the third inning until the tenth both teams had numerous opportunities to break the deadlock, but could not come through with the needed hit. In the eighth, with two out and Turner on second, Joe Jackson was purposely passed, as Buddy Ryan was considered easier game. Manager Birmingham then pulled Ryan out of the game and sent Larry Lajoie up to the plate. Larry hit the ball along the line at mile-a-minute speed, but Peckinpaugh made a clean pick-up and forced Jackson at second base for the final out.

The Yankees had two on bases and none out in the fourth, but could not push a run across. They also had runners on first and second with two out in the seventh and could not score. Borton opened the eighth with a double, and was stranded at second after Zeider had been purposely passed. In the ninth Peckinpaugh drew a pass for an opener, and went to second on McConnell's sacrifice, but Daniels lined into Johnston's hands and Peckinpaugh was doubled at second. It was the same story in the tenth, when Wolter led off with a clean single and was left at first base.

With one out in the tenth Olson walked and Turner doubled past third after Gossett had missed the foul tip. Jackson was again walked intentionally, and Lelivelt was sent up as a pinch hitter. Jack fanned for what should have been the third out, and Graney's single over second scored Olson and Turner with the deciding runs.

The Yankees could not hit either Steen or Mitchell with any consistency, their seven hits being scattered through six innings. The score:

Von der Ahe, Baseball Man, Dead.

ST. LOUIS, June 5.—Chris Von Der Ahe, owner of the old St. Louis champion ball team of 1885-88, and years ago one of the best-known baseball men in the country, died at his home here late this afternoon.

Von Der Ahe had been seriously ill for two months. Death was caused by cirrhosis of the liver and dropsy. He was 61 years old, was born in Germany and came to this country in 1870.

The eccentric German sprang into fame in 1881, when he bought a majority of the stock in the St. Louis Baseball Association for $1,800. In the following years he made $500,000 off the investment. When the St. Louis Club joined the old American Association, Von Der Ahe's Browns became the famous four-time pennant winners of 1885, 1886, 1887, and 1888. His luck lasted for eight years, his last winning club being that of 1891, which finished second in the American Association. In 1892 he entered the twelve-club National League, but his teams invariably finished last or next to last until 1899, when Sportsman's Park and club were sold to satisfy the demands of Von Der Ahe's creditors.

The last few years had been lean ones for the once wealthy baseball man. A little saloon he maintained hardly brought in enough to keep him. Old-time baseball friends contributed regularly to his living.

Milliken Captain of Army Nine.

WEST POINT, N. Y., June 5.—Cadet C. M. Milliken, a member of the second class, has been elected Captain of the Army baseball team for the season of 1914, it was announced to-day. Milliken entered the academy in 1909 from Maine. He has played short stop and second base during the past two seasons, but did not get a regular berth on the nine this year. The cadets close the season here Saturday with Syracuse.

REDS GET TWO HITS OFF PITCHER RUCKER

Superbas Shut Out Cincinnati—Pirates Beat Phillies—Boston Wins.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, June 5.—Rucker pitched brilliant ball for Brooklyn to-day, and the visitors easily defeated Cincinnati 4 to 0. Two hits was the total of Cincinnati's hitting ability. Rucker allowed one base on balls. On the other hand, Johnson pitched fair ball, but was poorly supported in the pinches. Two hits, an error and a batsman hit by a pitched ball gave Brooklyn two runs in the first, while a single, an error, and two sacrifices netted them another in the second. The last run was scored on Fisher's single and Miller's double in the ninth. The score:

HARRY SMITH FIRST IN RACE

Bronx Athlete Easy Victor in Coney Island Derby.

Harry Smith of Bronx Church House, the National ten-mile champion, showed more than a dozen of the best middle-distance runners of the metropolitan district the way home in the Coney Island Derby, which was run over a six and a half-mile course on Surf Avenue yesterday afternoon. Smith won as he pleased, finishing nearly 100 yards ahead of John Eke of the Irish-Americans. The champion's time was 33:58.

For more than a mile along the course on Surf Avenue people crowded over the curb to see the runners. At the finish line, near Luna Park, the crowd became so dense that the mounted police had to make a lane for the runners to finish. The race was run over an eight-lap course.

Smith went after the race at the start. He was away on the jump as Hannes Kolehmainen fired the starting gun, and before the other runners got into their stride, Smith was several yards in the lead. The Bronx House athlete carried the field around the first lap at a lively clip, and on the second trip around, George Critchley of the New York A. C. and H. Broderick of Trinity A. C. dropped out, after finding the going on the hard pavement not to their liking at the pace which Smith was setting.

Frank Masterson of the New York A. C. went after Smith on the third lap and began to close up the big gap which separated them. Masterson was steadily gaining, when Smith looked around and saw him coming. The Bronx Church runner let himself out a notch, and Masterson failed to gain any more, although he made several game attempts to make up the lost ground.

Smith continued easily holding his advantage without trouble. He finished as strong as he started. The surprise of the race came on the last lap, when Masterson showed the fatiguing effect of chasing Smith and was beaten for second place by John Eke of the Irish-Americans. Masterson was a bad third, and, plodding behind him in fourth place, came Hugh Monahan of the New York A. C. Billy Rozette of the Irish-Americans dropped out of the race at the third lap. The order of finish:

Name and Club.	Time.
Harry Smith, Bronx Church House	33:58
John Eke, Irish-American A. C.	34:17 2-5
Frank Masterson, New York A. C.	34:25

POLO TEAM RESERVES.

Whitney and the Waterburys Selected by Polo Association.

H. L. Herbert, Chairman of the Polo Association, announced yesterday afternoon that the reserve players for the American polo team had been selected in Harry Payne Whitney, J. M. Waterbury, Jr., and L. Waterbury. This was taken as an indication that the reports to the effect that these three members of the Meadow Brook four had retired from the International Cup play owing to differences with the Selection Committee were without foundation.

Veteran Poloists in Game.

Special to The New York Times.

WESTBURY, L. I., June 5.—A sharp game of polo was played here this afternoon between the Reds and Whites, and resulted in the defeat of the Red team with the score of 10 to 9. The presence of John E. Cowdin, the veteran poloist, backing the White team contributed largely to the supremacy of that side. W. A. Hazard, Secretary of the Polo Association and himself an old player, carried a large share of support for the Reds. They lined up with the Whites, represented by N. L. Tilney, Thomas Leboutellier, H. Phipps, and J. E. Cowdin. The Reds were Bradley Martin, W. A. Hazard, Seward Carey, and Sidney Ripley. Referee—H. H. Holmes.

Washburn Harvard Champion.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., June 5.—W. M. Washburn of New York, a sophomore, retained his title as tennis champion in singles of Harvard University to-day by defeating J. J. Armstrong of St. Paul, 7—5, 6—4, 4—6, 6—3. The doubles championship was won by Armstrong and E. H. Whitney of Brookline, both juniors, who defeated their classmates, J. C. Devereux of Utica, N. Y., and E. R. Hastings, Jr., of Milton, 4—6, 6—3, 6—2, 6—4.

Harvard Second Four Wins Sprint.

RED TOP, Conn., June 5.—A brush between the three four-oared crews in which the 'Varsity second four defeated the freshman and 'Varsity boats by over a length, enlivened the routine of Harvard's training to-night. The race was for half a mile. No time was announced. The 'Varsity and freshman eights paddled for two miles to-night. Both boats show considerable improvement in form.

Columbia Baseball Captain.

For the fifth successive time Columbia's baseball team failed to elect a Captain from the senior class when it chose Paul Friedrich, 1915, as Captain of the nine for next season. Friedrich is only a sophomore, and this is his second season on the Columbia nine. Last year he played regularly at third base, but this season Billy Lauder, after trying him out, shifted him over to short-stop, where he has played in nearly every game. He is a good fielder and is a dependable man at the bat.

The official announcement was not made, but it is believed that Billy Lauder has been re-engaged to coach the Blue and White for the season of 1914.

TRAVERS LEADER IN NEW JERSEY GOLF

National Champion Makes New Record of 73 Strokes Over Baltusrol Course.

Jerome D. Travers of Upper Montclair, the National and Metropolitan golf champion, was the principal performer in the qualifying and first match rounds of the New Jersey State championship tournament yesterday over the links of the Baltusrol Golf Club at Short Hills. He won the medal with a score of 73, which established a new record for the course, and in the afternoon after an indifferent start pulled himself together and defeated E. M. Wild of Cranford by 3 up and 2 to play.

Oswald Kirkby of Englewood, the title-holder, returned a 78, which was the second best of the day, and led Howard Giffin of the home club by a stroke. Kirkby, incidentally, came through his first match round against D. H. McAlpin, 2d, of Morris County, with a margin of 2 up and 1 to play. Giffin, too, was successful, defeating A. D. Swords of Morris County 5 up and 3 to play. Max R. Marston, the Eastern interscholastic champion, played indifferently, and, although he qualified, he was beaten in the afternoon by John Naething of Englewood.

In addition to the qualifying round, in which more than a hundred started, and the first round of match play in the four sixteens, there was a team contest in which combinations of four representing Baltusrol, Morris County, Atlantic City, Plainfield, Princeton, and Englewood took part. Morris County and Englewood tied with totals of 340 each. The scores:

WOMAN'S GOLF FINAL.

Miss Bishop and Miss Hollins to Play for Metropolitan Title To-day.

As the result of the semi-final round of the tournament for the Woman's Metropolitan golf championship over the links of the Nassau Country Club yesterday, Miss Georgianna M. Bishop of Brooklawn, formerly the holder of both the National and metropolitan titles, will play Miss Marion Hollins of Westbrook, runner-up last year, in the decisive match to-day. With Miss Lillian B. Hyde, another former champion, eliminated early in the tournament, Miss Bishop and Miss Hollins immediately were fancied for the final match to decide the title.

Through the defeat of Mrs. A. S. Rossin of the Century Country Club, by 2 up and 1 to play, Miss Bishop advanced. Meanwhile, Miss Hollins handily disposed of the aspirations of Mrs. Howard F. Whitney, one of the best of the home set, the margin being 5 up and 4 to play.

Championship Division, Semi-Final Round.—Miss Georgianna M. Bishop, Brooklawn, beat Mrs. A. S. Rossin, Century, 2 and 1; Miss Marion Hollins, Westbrook, beat Mrs. Howard F. Whitney, Nassau, 5 and 4.

Championship Division, Beaten Eight, Semi-Final Round.—Mrs. A. L. Cahn, Century, beat Mrs. C. W. Rendigs, Midland, 2 up; Mrs. William Chilvers, Dunwoodie, beat Mrs. E. T. Benjamin, Century, 3 and 2.

Second Sixteen, Semi-Final Round.—Mrs. W. I. Seaman, Richmond County, beat Mrs. W. J. Salomon, Century, 2 and 1; Mrs. Percy Ingalls, Essex County, beat Mrs. J. S. Irving, Scarsdale, 1 up, (19 holes.)

Third Sixteen, Semi-Final Round.—Mrs. Irving Brown, Haworth, beat Mrs. W. D. Judson, Apawamis, 6 and 5; Mrs. Frank Enos, Englewood, beat Mrs. H. L. Batterman, Nassau, 1 up, (19 holes.)

SETBACK FOR SHERIFF.

Harburger Wanted to Stop Bout, but Referee Waved Him Aside.

Our Sheriff was "there" last night at Madison Square Garden, but Billy Joh, the referee of the boxing bouts, overruled him and one of the liveliest boxing shows ever seen around here went to an official finish without outside interference.

It was during the ten-round wind-up between Joe Shugrue of Jersey City and Sammy Robideau that Sheriff Harburger proceeded to get busy. Shugrue was giving Robideau the lacing of his career when the doughty little county officer jumped upon the platform and motioned to stop the proceedings. Billy Joh waved him back, and friends of Harburger yelled to him that nothing serious was about to happen, so the Sheriff subsided in some doubt. At this stage the round's regular time was up and nothing happened except to Robideau, who was just about able to stagger to his corner a badly beaten young man.

The Sheriff said afterward that Robideau had plenty, and that if the bout had gone any longer he would have insisted on interfering.

Up to the ninth round the bout was fairly even, with Shugrue landing the harder blows and Robideau showing more skill as a boxer, but in this round the latter got a smashing righ-hand swing on the jaw which laid him low. From this time on he never had a show to get anywhere near the front.

In the fourth round Shugrue had a decided advantage, and drove Robideau all over the ring from the fury of his attack. Robideau came back aggressively after that, and the two boys exchanged blows and called on all the talent of their calling to get an advantage.

Gus Platts of England defeated Young Kurtz in the ten-round semi-final, the Britisher making a very favorable impression. Kurtz drove the foreigner through the ropes in the first round with rights and lefts to the jaw, but Platts stalled through the round safely. Then Platts took the upper hand and showed clever boxing tactics, fast footwork and a defense which Kurtz was unable to offset. The English welterweight was a winner by a good margin.

THOMPSON MAKES ATHLETIC RECORD

Princeton Theological Student Surpasses the Figures of Thorpe and Sheridan.

PRINCETON, N. J., June 5.—F. C. Thompson, a student in the Princeton Theological Seminary, made a new world's record in the all-around championships held here to-day, when he scored a total of 7,499 in the ten events. The previous records were 7,385, made by Martin Sheridan of New York, and 7,476½, made by James Thorpe, subsequently disqualified for professionalism. Thorpe made his record last September at Celtic Park, New York.

To-day's meet was sanctioned by the Amateur Athletic Union, and was open to all registered amateurs, but the only entries were Princeton students. J. P. Simons, M. Hayes, and M. L. Davis competed against Thompson. Simons finished second with 5,266 points.

Thompson failed to equal Thorpe's records in any of the first three events, the 100-yard dash, the shot-put, and the high jump, and when the fourth event, the half-mile walk, was started, he was 361 points behind the record. He did the walk in 3:33, making 847 points, as compared to 527 points made in this event by Thorpe, and also bettered Thorpe's records in all the following events except the broad jump. Thompson made his best showing in the high hurdles, which he ran in 16 seconds flat.

The performances of Thorpe and Thompson are indicated in the following table:

THORPE.

Event.	Time.	Points.

NEW YORK, FRIDAY, JUNE 6, 1913.

THE COURT HOUSE SITE.

There should be as little delay as possible from this time forth in determining the actual site of the new Court House. The easterly end of the building is to be extended somewhat beyond the site originally selected, in order to avoid building the foundations of the western end on marshy land; but the change is also desirable for the sake of the architectural effect of the new civic centre. The mistaken idea has been formed that a vast sum of money is required for this civic centre, but the total cost of the various improvements favored by Mr. McANENY and the Advisory Committee of Architects of the Board of Estimate will not exceed $2,250,000. A year or two from now it will cost another million, if not more, to get title to this property.

The plan is to purchase only a few plots of land south of the Court House site, and to exchange for other plots some of the land the city owns north of that site. The object is, in Mr. McANENY's own words, "to lay down "the lines of the civic centre, so that "there can be no doubt where public "buildings to be erected in the "future will be placed." New streets must be cut through and new routes laid out for the surface cars which run through Centre Street, as that street is to be closed. It is urgent that this preliminary work should be accomplished as soon as possible, before the Summer vacations begin. Much valuable time has already been wasted. There is no likelihood, now, that any radical changes will be made in the accepted design for the Court House by Mr. GUY LOWELL. Plans for the few minor changes required by the Judges will soon be complete. When that work is finished the site should be ready, so that clearing, digging, and building may be pushed forward with expedition.

THE POST OFFICE ACCOUNTS.

Neither Mr. HITCHCOCK's defense of his surplus nor the denial of the existence of the surplus by his successor in the department is convincing. The accounts are kept in such a way that any deduction from them is merely argumentative. The collections and the disbursements do not relate to the same periods, and are incomplete in most important entries. Mr. HITCHCOCK says the Treasury kept the accounts, and that he should not be criticised for them. Nor would he be, if he did not claim something that he is not justified in claiming. The question is not regarding the efficiency of his administration, but whether he made a profit as matter of fact. He claims a profit on the audited accounts, although every dollar of receipts is entered, and there are great omissions of expenses and large underpayments. He insists that anyway there would have been a profit over and above the cost of omitted rentals if the Post Office had not been compelled to carry franked matter free to a total of $20,000,000, which he says is double the cost of free quarters for the Post Offices in the public buildings. It may be so, but a claim of profits based on omitted expense of rent $10,000,000, and uncollected charges for services of twice that considerable sum, is rather against intrusting business affairs to Government accounting than matter of either praise or blame regarding Mr. HITCHCOCK's administration. Nobody has said that it was worse than his predecessors', and the people generally have not been critical regarding the Post Office, in which they take pride, and which serves them well on the whole. To that praise Mr. HITCHCOCK is entitled, and it is not grudged him.

On the same day he made his showing of a profit by his administration the Court of Claims allowed a demand against the Post Office by the Chicago & Alton Railway for $82,604. The decision may add one-seventh to the receipts of all railways for Post Office service, for the Court of Claims finds that the Government allows payment only for the carriage of six-sevenths of the mails transported. That is to say, the Government allows only for business days, and the railways run every day. As the total railway mail pay exceeds fifty millions annually, here are sundry more millions of costs to be entered in the account. The railways also take the view as a matter of business equity that they are underpaid 12 per cent. by the manner in which the Government calculates the weights on which payments are made. A day in November is chosen once in four years. November is not a month fair to the railways, since it contains four Sundays, two holidays, and is a short month. Moreover, the invariable growth of business cumulates for four years before the railways are paid anything on account of it. The Government constantly makes requisitions for gratuitous services from the railways of the greatest value to users of the mails. The railway Post Offices provide for distribution of mails in passage, and facilitate delivery on reaching destination as nothing else could. There is no equivalent space anywhere so expensive as these traveling Post Offices, but the railways are paid by simple weight carried, and at rates which themselves are a grievance.

The Post Office's idea of fairness of treatment of the railways and of calculating costs is shown by a bill which was introduced in the belief that it would be generous to the railways. The Post Office calculated for itself the cost of carriage of the mails, and proposed to pay the railways cost and 6 per cent. Six per cent. on costs as a calculation of profits is a novelty in business. Interest on capital is one thing, but 6 per cent. on costs allows nothing for either capital or depreciation. The calculation is not strange, for capital and depreciation are the items which oftenest wreck private enterprise, and which most seldom enter into calculations of Government profits. The cost and income of the Post Office have increased together, but no increase has been allowed to the railways alone for services which have been ordered and which were worth paying for. The underpayment of the railways is so gross, so unavailable to private enterprise, that no claim of profit can be allowed in any sense of the word generally used in business until this item is corrected.

THE SENATORIAL STANDARD.

Before the Senate Lobby Inquiry Committee some Senators have testified that they have great possessions. Abundant streams of income pour into their pockets from the lumber business, from oil wells, from mines, or from investments in the shares of corporations. Others testified that they are as poor as a church mouse, with no property, with no interests that could be affected by tariff legislation.

Which is the better fitted for the Senatorial office, a man who by ability and toil has accumulated a competence, it may be a goodly fortune, or one who has reached the Senatorial age—most of those testifying are well on in years—without having acquired any property worth mentioning? The experience and the training gained in business pursuits or in the practice of a profession are invaluable. They give a man insight and foresight, caution, prudence, the capacity to distinguish between truth and error, or at least that is their tendency. A man who has borne his part in the business world's struggle for existence, or in matching his abilities against others of equal or greater talent in a profession, is less apt to be reckless and venturesome than one who has not passed those tests. A man who has accumulated a fortune small or large must continually have exercised his judgment; he knows that mistakes react upon those who make them; that blunders bring their penalty; that industry, clear thinking, notably, the ability to think clear through a subject until the other side is brought into view, are apt to bring their reward. Strength and self-reliance, confidence in self are won in the strifes that bring fortune.

Is it really better that a Senator shall have been all his life in public office, that he shall have risen from Selectman or Police Magistrate through the local or State Legislature to a United States Senatorship? Is he a better Senator if, having engaged in business, or, let us say, in the practice of the law, he has failed to win more than a bare subsistence? According to this latter theory incapacity is the prime qualification for a Senator. According to the former, office-holding gives all needed equipment. From the turn this inquiry has taken the impression might spread abroad that property is a real disqualification for the Senatorial office, but we do not believe that any Senator is really so far committed to that view that he would divest himself of even a small fortune before taking the oath.

Ignorant and fanatical Populism has often gone to the length of insisting that a lawyer who has taken fees of a corporation is not fit to sit in a legislative body. This rule naturally excludes the ablest men, for corporations generally pick good lawyers. The Populist or radical assumption is, of course, that a man who has had anything to do with a corporation cannot be honest, and that he will represent a private, not a public interest, if elected to a representative office. Carried further, this singular notion would in fact lead to the election of a House and Senate made up of failures and incapables, of impracticable visionaries, their heads buzzing with fantastic and impossible ideas of political reform. This, though, is the foundation theory of the popular election of Senators. The preachers of that reform have felt that the plain people would pass by in distrust the capable, the forehanded, and the successful, and would choose very plain and very humble citizens to make and execute their laws. Perhaps that is what it will come to, but such a political system would work its own cure through utter breakdown. In all well-governed countries from the beginnings of civilization the business of government has been attended to by men of intelligence. Wealth is not the test of that quality, any more than poverty. But it would be preposterous to act upon the assumption that a Senator with an independent income must for that reason be looked on with suspicion, and that the true test of fitness is the ability to say, "I have never been able to make any money."

THE MAN OF PEACE.

It is significant that in the long array of tributes to the Emperor WILLIAM II., which will be published in THE SUNDAY TIMES day after to-morrow, in celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of his accession to the imperial throne, the Kaiser is hailed as an advocate and promoter of peace. These timely tributes to him were written expressly for THE TIMES, and it is not likely that any other newspaper ever printed such an assemblage of contributions from famous men on any single day. They who testify from knowledge of the worth of the German Emperor and his services to mankind are the King of Italy, THEODORE ROOSEVELT, who declares that the Kaiser was the one man outside of this country from whom he obtained help in bringing about the Peace of Portsmouth; Count VON BERNSTORFF, Ambassador at Washington; ANDREW CARNEGIE, the Duke of ARGYLL, Lord BLYTH, Sir GILBERT PARKER, Herr ARTHUR VON GWINNER, Director of the Deutsche Bank and President of the Bagdad Railway; ALFRED H. FRIED, the peace advocate; Dr. NICHOLAS MURRAY BUTLER, and Prof. HUGO MUENSTERBERG.

The general agreement of men deeply concerned in the world's affairs, but of so different points of view, as to the Kaiser's desire for peace, is of extraordinary interest. This is important testimony relating to a momentous subject. Lord BLYTH, the celebrated English publicist, recognizes that the Emperor's policy is to make Germany so strong that no other Nation will dare to provoke war, but declares that he is the "true "and central factor of the past peace-"ful policy of Germany." Lord BLYTH, like Mr. CARNEGIE, Herr VON GWINNER, who treats of the industrial and financial development of Germany in the quarter century; Mr. FRIED and Mr. MUENSTERBERG, contributes a long article. The expressions of the others are short but right to the point. Perhaps the most effective and comprehensive of all the tributes is that of ex-President TAFT, who recalls the old forebodings about WILLIAM II., the tendency of people to regard him as a possible disturber of the peace of Europe, and says:

> Instead of that, the truth of history requires the verdict that, considering the critically important place which has been his among the nations, he has been, for the last quarter of a century, the greatest single individual force in the practical maintenance of the peace of the world.

This is all gratifying and reassuring. We are confident that this notable feature of THE TIMES next Sunday will be highly prized by hosts of readers.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Significance in His Early Death. It would be hardly fair, of course, to base an indictment of athletics as injurious to health on the death at 53 of MICHAEL C. MURPHY, since he was famous as a trainer and developer of athletes, and not as an athlete himself. Doctors, too, as a class, are far from as long lived or as free from disease as hasty logicians, not taking all the facts into consideration, might expect them to be from their knowledge of the human body and how to keep it in order. Medicine, however, is one of the distinctly dangerous professions, with prolonged mental and physical strains little less severe and probably more frequent than those to which athletes are subjected, and added to these is constant exposure to all sorts of infections, few of which are encountered, and then rarely, by athletes and their trainers. Again, no general conclusion can safely be drawn from a single case.

With all allowance made, however, there remains some significance in MURPHY's death at an age when the man who takes ordinarily good care of himself is often only at the very beginning of his bodily deterioration. Moreover, the great trainer had fallen into chronic invalidism some fifteen years before he died, and he is quoted as speaking of himself, during his last illness, as "old MIKE." It is, therefore, fair to conclude, if not that MURPHY's early senescence was caused by overexertion in his younger days, before he abandoned doing and took up teaching, at least that his athleticism did not give him a store of health and strength on which to draw in later years.

What his history illustrates is the truth, too little realized by the hundreds and thousands of young men, and the smaller but still large number of young women, who see wisdom and virtue in hard athletic sports and games, that these are a dangerous as well as a poor preparation for the more or less sedentary life which most of us must lead after youth is past. To have bigger muscles than the uses of daily work and play require is a disadvantage, not an advantage, from the hygienic point of view, and a hypertrophied heart, while a fine thing with which to win races, is a most perilous possession for the man who takes his exercise with a pen or the woman who never moves faster than a walk except when she rides. Whatever work anybody does is sufficient "exercise"—for the doing of that sort of work. The one justification for more, apart from the pleasure it may give, is that it usually takes the exerciser into the open air—out of bad air into good, that is.

"Stranglers" Doing Good Work. A misguided neighbor of ours is trying, just now, to make a sensation out of the fact that the Carnegie Foundation, by refusing aid in the maintenance of certain medical schools and in the establishment of certain others, has in this indirect way not only prevented their numbers from increasing, but has very efficiently helped in driving not a few of them out of existence.

It is easy enough to describe this as "strangling" the smaller and weaker schools, and when that term is used, especially if the victims of the "strangulation" are somehow connected with a religious sect or denomination, the uninformed can be persuaded that the Foundation's work in this direction is highly reprehensible. The argument, however, like many another, depends for force entirely upon an agile leap by its maker from a false assumption to a conclusion that would be true if the assumption were correct.

The anti-vivisectionists use the same device constantly by asking people if they do not hate and want to stop cruelty to animals and then including in their own ranks everybody who says "Yes!" which of course everybody promptly does. Equally of course, only those remain there who do not stop to think that animal experimentation is not necessarily cruel, and that even for the infliction of pain, upon animals as upon human beings, there may be and often is full justification in motive and results.

The Carnegie Foundation is doubtless inflicting pain, and a lot of it, on some small medical schools, sectarian and others. It has "strangled" some of them, if one chooses to call it that, but of all the Foundation's many and great achievements few, if any, are more creditable, for the effect has been a steady raising of the standard of medical education in the United States, and to it is due in no small measure the gratifying fact that in no country in the world can young doctors now find better teaching in general or special practice than here.

We still have, to be sure, some medical colleges that are none the less poor because they are honest, and some that are mere diploma factories and utterly dishonest, but the wise discrimination with which the Carnegie Foundation allots its favor and money has so strengthened the better schools that their undeserving rivals are at about their last gasp.

Hence the lamentations which are rising from various quarters. They should excite satisfaction, not pity or indignation.

A Warning Worth Our Heed. Those of us not fortunate enough to move in what may be called polo circles have not noticed any marked or general tendency on the part of American men to moisten their clay with multitudinous highballs at the hour when their British cousins develop and satisfy an innocently violent thirst for tea. What we have not seen, however, has been observed, and with deep grief, according to report, by the gallant four who have come over here to regain a lost and lamented cup.

If this be true, of course their positive testimony outweighs all the negative evidence that could be collected.

Also, drinking that impresses British visitors as excessive or untimely, or both, really must be so, since the United Kingdom teaches its sons a more than Rooseveltian tolerance of departures from strict teetotalism, and if they are shocked or even surprised, the situation here must be pretty bad.

The necessity for establishing the afternoon tea habit among American men had not hitherto forced itself upon any large amount of local attention, but unrealized needs are often great, and as a substitute for an afternoon highball habit its superiority would be obvious. Afternoon tea never sharpened a parricidal axe, it never started the widow's or the orphan's tear, and it never made a tenant farmer shoot at his landlord—and miss him. All these things and worse, if worse can be, afternoon highballs conceivably may do and probably have done. Let us, then, putting aside all ancient memories of prison ships and Hessian raids, accept the advice and follow the example of these good friends and sportsmen.

We are not so young, nowadays, that we cannot learn something from the representatives of an older civilization.

THE WOOLWORTH BUILDING.

Its Impressive Architecture Apparently Unnoted by the Artists.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

You gave recently a list of the finest buildings in the country, as decided by a vote of art students and connoisseurs, the awards and voting being in charge of the American Federation of Arts. The selection from the votes of these gentlemen is very large and well chosen, being guided by artistic taste and experience; but I am surprised by the omission of the Woolworth Building from the list as given by THE TIMES. I have had the privilege of seeing almost all of the important and notable edifices in the world, recent and modern, and I feel that, with perhaps a few exceptions, this building stands unrivaled for beauty of design, impressive dignity of height, and artistic combination of color.

It falls but little, if anything, short of the Taj Mahal and the Kutub Tower in India, the Pyramids of Egypt, and the Coliseum at Rome. It is, in fact, the most interesting work of any kind in New York, and the city ought to be proud of its possession. I have never been in the building, do not know its owner nor the architect, so this humble opinion has no personal bias; but I feel it would be an injustice to omit the Woolworth Building from the place it ought to hold in any list of the world's greatest buildings.

New York, June 5, 1913. S. G. BAYNE.

To Him Who Is Houseless.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

How apt and applicable to the present unrest are the words of Abraham Lincoln:

> Property is the fruit of labor; property is desirable; is a positive good to the world. That some should be rich shows that others may become rich, and hence is just encouragement to energy and enterprise. Let not him who is houseless pull down the house of another, but let him labor diligently and build one for himself, thus by example assuring that his own shall be safe from violence when built.

A half century after their utterance would seem to disclose as a fact precisely prevailing conditions, and to satirize economic and social "progress" in that period.

FREDERICK PHILLIPS.

New York, June 5, 1913.

PASTORS FOR EUGENICS.

Drs. Keigwin and Hillis Invite Richard Bennett to Speak in Churches.

The Rev. Dr. A. E. Keigwin announced a platform meeting yesterday in the West End Presbyterian Church, at Amsterdam Avenue and 105th Street, for next Sunday night on the subject of eugenics. One of the speakers will be Richard Bennett, the actor. The Rev. Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis is another pastor who plans to push a eugenics campaign. He arranged with Mr. Bennett yesterday for a meeting early in the Fall in Plymouth Church, Brooklyn, similar to the one to be held next Sunday night in West End Church.

"Much of our public difficulty and more of our public expense to-day are due, in my judgment," said the Rev. Dr. Keigwin yesterday, "to the dense ignorance of young men and women about the weightier physical affairs of human life. I heartily approve of this present movement, and think Christian ministers may well forego vacations to push it. If we will deliver man and women from the shackles of ignorance concerning themselves we shall effect a reform that is vital to the whole human family, and especially to our own country."

The Liberal Ministers' Association of New York, composed of Unitarian and Universalist pastors, and reform rabbis, among them the Rev. Drs. Wise, Magnes, Mendes, and Silverman, has appointed a Eugenics Committee, with the Rev. Edgar S. Weirs of Montclair as Chairman. It is charged to investigate the subject this Summer and report next Fall. The Rev. Dr. John Haynes Holmes, as a member of the association, said yesterday:

"What the recommendations of this committee may be I know not, but for myself I hope and shall urge that the association binds all of its members as a group to perform nothing but health marriages. I believe in the health marriage. Both parties should present certificates, and ministers ought not to marry any who cannot. That is the ideal. The difficulty is to carry the ideal out. Eventually the State will make it a law. While we are waiting for the State to act, what are we to do? I feel it is the business of the Church to show the way because the Church has a moral responsibility. Such an important matter ought not to be left to the individual minister. Acting alone, he can accomplish little. Ministers should act in groups. Dean Sumner and the Chicago Cathedral have shown us the way."

Two pastors of Fifth Avenue churches advocated the plan yesterday. Both are among the ministers who perform the largest number of fashionable marriage ceremonies. Said the Rev. Dr. Charles L. Slattery, rector of Grace Church:

"It is desirable that the personal health of each party to a marriage be certified to, but the requirement for such certificate ought to come from the State, not from the Church, because it is the function of the State to guard the health of its citizens. I am glad to see the Church take steps toward reform, and toward compelling the State to do its part."

The Brick Presbyterian Church, through the decision of its pastor, the Rev. Dr. William P. Merrill, takes its stand with others. "I think the general movement to require proper conditions of health from all men and women contemplating marriage is right. The State ought tto obtain the fulfillment of that condition, and the Church ought to co-operate in every practical way," the pastor said yesterday.

It was said yesterday that the subject of eugenics will come into the Episcopal General Convention in this city in October through the report of a committee on which are Bishop Anderson of Chicago, whose cathedral took an early stand on health marriages; Bishop Spalding of Utah, whose book on the Mormons attracted wide attention; Bishop Williams of Michigan, whose views are known to be radical; Dean Hodges of Cambridge, Dean Sumner of Chicago, Jacob A. Riis, Gifford Pinchot, the Rev. J. Howard Melish of Brooklyn, and Clinton Rogers Woodruff, the head of a social welfare movement.

TIMOTHY COLE HONORED.

His Election to the Academy of Arts Is a Recognition of Engraving.

Timothy Cole, the wood engraver, has been elected a member of the American Academy of Arts and Letters, of which William Dean Howells is President, and in which there now remains but a single vacancy in the membership of fifty.

The selection of Mr. Cole is a recognition of a form of art in which the superiority of American artists has long been acknowledged, though of late it has almost fallen into disuse. For thirty years Mr. Cole has been reproducing on wood for The Century Magazine the old masters of the Italian, Dutch, Flemish, English, Spanish, and French schools. The excellence of Mr. Cole's work has long been recognized by connoisseurs in Europe and America.

CONTENTED MOTHERS

Find Large Scope for Their Abilities in Domestic Management.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Much is said or written by a few of the female sex in advocacy of the enlargement of its sphere, which, by the way, is an ample one when its fields of usefulness are explored and exercised. Opportunities for observation are not as facile in Manhattan by reason of high house values and rentals, and the confinement of families to a large extent to apartments and somewhat contracted and often inconvenient methods of housekeeping. The fairest survey is that of the great middle class. For the present mention is restricted to Brooklyn and its dwellings, to be bought from $6,000 to $10,000, or rented from $35 to $75 a month.

The majority of families occupying such keep no servants, employing outside help for periodical needs, the children and husbands being enlisted by loving artfulness into assistance to mothers in many services. Thousands of such homes in the borough are in view to one who walks, and their administration in a large measure is to be seen owing to the proximity to the pavement. The selection of such houses indicates the possession of children as valuable assets to be cultivated with loving concern. The partially disclosed internals and all externals of such houses animate the wives to the preservation of neatness. Back yards are not neglected, many at present bearing masses of roses and favorite plants, over which much care is expended. These offices entail much labor and some drudgery; but such is also the lot of men in various occupations, where applications resulting in conquests furnish some of the joys of existence.

Then, social intercourse, the household sewing, new work, repairs or embellishment to occupy leisure hours, the purchase of supplies, the preparation of meals, the possibility of assistance to the children in their home lessons—these offices furnish the faithful mother and her daughters, as prospective wives, fields for occupation contributing to the consciousness of usefulness in the enlargement of comfort for the family. A marriage of over thirty years' duration with such a woman, and extensive contact with many others of the same inclination, has convinced the writer that being without tumultuous yearnings for an indefinite something, their lives have been satisfying to themselves and husbands.

It has been said that the average wife has no interest in common with her husband other than that of a domestic character. If so, and she wishes to share those which he entertains, she is privileged to nurture them and will be heartily welcomed in communion. But if she cannot so engage her tastes the field which she accepted at marriage, that of domestic care, is the very one the husband sought by alliance, and if well cultivated by her, and appreciated by him, the ideal marriage is reached, and furnishes an inspiration to his efforts to obtain for the family all that is deserved by faithfulness to accepted duty.

CARMODY HAS HOPE FOR CITIES' POWERS

But Says Home Rule Is Incomplete Without Constitutional Changes.

TELLS OF BILL'S EFFECT

Conference of Mayors Hears Edwards Outline Successful Street Cleaning Methods.

Special to The New York Times.

BINGHAMTON, June 5.—In a lengthy address before the Conference of Mayors of Cities here to-day Thomas Carmody, Attorney General, held the brief that without a constitutional amendment the Legislature was prevented from granting substantial home rule to cities. He said the Legislature, by the recently enacted so-called Home Rule bill, might have "supplemented grants already made and prevented recurring appeals to the Legislature for enabling acts to permit them to do something which the Legislature has full power to give them, (the cities,) and which the Legislature, by general law, has given to some and should give to all of them."

Then Mr. Carmody said:

"In the last Legislature some eighty-five bills were passed affecting, directly or indirectly, the affairs of cities which were vetoed by Gov. Sulzer, while sixty bills affecting the affairs of cities were signed. This shows the enormous tax upon the Legislature made by the different cities, and it also indicates the very imperfect power which cities now possess."

In discussing the Home Rule bill, Mr. Carmody said that Section 20 contained the comprehensive provision: "To exercise all powers necessary and proper for carrying into execution the powers granted to the city," and added:

"Keeping in mind the provision of the law in Section 19, that no enumeration of powers in this or any other law will operate to restrict the meaning of the general grant of powers, or to exclude other powers comprehended within this general grant, the rule of construction in respect to municipal powers seems to be changed.

Construction Reversed.

"Heretofore the rule of construction in respect to powers granted to cities by the Legislature was that all powers not granted are withheld. These provisions are intended to reverse that rule and to provide that all powers not withheld are granted. This, perhaps, is the most important feature of the Home Rule law, and if it stands the test of constitutional and legal construction, it will undoubtedly be the source of greatly enlarged powers in cities, for, if cities are given power to regulate, manage, and control their property and local affairs, and are given all the rights, privileges, and jurisdiction necessary for carrying such powers into execution, then the Legislature has practically placed unlimited home rule in the power of cities, so far as concerns purely municipal affairs."

"Although the Constitution expressly authorizes the Legislature to delegate certain powers to cities and incorporated villages, in respect to their own affairs, that delegation of power is limited in respect to certain specific matters, namely, the power of taxation, assessment, borrowing money, contracting debts, and loaning credits. We must bear in mind that the Legislature derives its authority to grant powers to cities from the Constitution, and the cities derive their powers from the Legislature. Every grant of power, therefore, must be authorized, either in express terms or by implication, by the Constitution of the State.

"In so much as the Constitution has only limited the power of the Legislature in certain respects, with these exceptions, the power of the Legislature to make grants to cities in respect to municipal affairs seems to be unlimited. There must be borne in mind, however, the principle which the courts have never lost sight of—that the legislative power is in the Legislature of the State, and that, in dealing with cities, it can delegate powers of legislation only in respect to those affairs that are purely municipal, that are common to cities and that do not pertain to rights of property or rights of citizens in the broader sense in which they are defined by our laws. In other words, no State function can be delegated by the Legislature to a city.

"Under the specific grant of power in the home rule bill, cities have the right to become indebted for any public or municipal purpose, and to issue the obligations and to pledge the faith and credit of the city for the payment thereof.

"If this is intended as an unlimited grant of power in this respect," said Mr. Carmody, "then it is contrary to this provision of the Constitution. The Legislature is obliged to establish a limit to the powers of cities in matters of taxation, assessment, borrowing money, contracting debts and lending credit.

Fills in the Chinks.

"The present home rule bill, taken as a whole, does not undertake to do more than to fill out imperfect grants of power to cities by the Legislature. Properly speaking, it is an enabling act. Where a city now has a special power, but is limited in the exercise of the power by its charter, the home rule bill undertakes to remove that limitation."

Mr. Carmody commented that the promoters of the home rule bill evidently were of the opinion that the Legislature could not give to cities complete powers of home rule without a constitutional amendment.

In a telegram to the conference Gov. Sulzer said:

> If the general Home Rule law does not go far enough to meet the exigencies of fundamental home rule in its broadest sense, then I am in favor of amending the general law to meet the exigencies, instead of favoring special laws.

William H. Edwards, Commissioner of Street Cleaning, New York City, emphasized the necessity for the head of every Street Cleaning Department to show a human interest in the work of the men if he really wished to raise the standard of efficiency. He advocated the establishment of a pension fund, saying that such a system instilled into the men a keen desire to do better work and to conduct themselves so that they should not be dismissed from the service. He also pointed out that the system permitted the Commissioner to retire men no longer able to do good work and put younger employes in their places.

Commissioner Edwards told the Mayors he had found the co-operation of women a great aid in obtaining cleaner streets.

"In New York the Women's Municipal League and other civic bodies have co-operated with the department to a very great extent," he said. "They have employed Inspectors in different parts of the city to watch the work of the department men, and each year they have offered a medal to the sweeper, driver, and foreman who does the best all-around work. This shows the men that there are people who take a keen interest in them, and it gives them a zest in their work apart from the side of dollars and cents."

Without co-operation between the citizens and the Street Cleaning Department little could be accomplished, Mr. Edwards asserted.

Nelson P. Lewis, chief engineer, New York City Board of Estimate; William P. Capes of New York City, Secretary of the conference, and Mayor Fesler, Secretary of the Ohio Municipal League, also spoke.

SCHWAB FOR TAX REPEAL.

Spreads Propaganda Up-State to Make Secured Debts Law Unpopular

State Tax Commissioner Joseph S. Schwab returned yesterday from a trip up State on which he spread his propaganda for the repeal of the secured debts tax law. He said:

"The propaganda met an excellent reception up-State, as it has here. And I am more than pleased at the prospect of getting some measure of relief from the tax burdens which now, in my judgment, fall inequitably upon taxable property and persons on account of the complicated and patchwork provisions of the tax laws.

"It is only fair to the taxpayers to give them a chance to pass upon the advisability of keeping the secured debts tax law on the statute books in view of the well-known fact that it was not discussed by the general public prior to its passage, and was sprung upon the Legislature by persons representing, as it appears, a very limited class of persons, and these, too, who are hardly in need of assistance."

Mr. Schwab was asked whether his remarks applied to the so-called New York Tax Reform Association, which he had previously attacked, and which replied to an earlier interview with him in THE TIMES, and he replied:

"I do not wish to mention any one by name."

He then continued:

"It may not be generally understood that these same people are wholly out of sympathy with the principles of taxation which are held generally. They are at heart single taxers, and as such would quite naturally lean toward exemptions of personalty. I have no quarrel with those who so zealously defend their faith, but I think that a discussion of the advantages and disadvantages of the single tax would be of no practical assistance at this time. I pointed out in my earlier interview in THE TIMES that some of these people quite frankly propose to do away altogether with any tax on personal property. I suggest this as a reason for the somewhat emphatic, if not vindictive, attacks which have been made by a certain coterie on myself and other members of the State Board of Tax Commissioners.

"The real question at issue now is, do the people of the State want personalty to stand its fair share of the burdens of government or not? If they do, is it not right that they should have something to say about the methods of reaching that personalty? All other questions are for the moment to be dismissed. The main question on the merits of the tax is not as to whether it brings in more revenue than the previous law, or revenues from sources not before reached. The real question is—does it bring in all the revenue it really should bring in from this class of property? I wish it understood that I am by no means seeking to urge an unreasonable tax or to indicate that the owners of personalty are to be considered any less patriotic than owners of realty. I believe it is all a matter of comparative burden, and that with a law which, when rigidly enforced, means confiscation, the common natural instincts lead to its evasion. When, however, persons feel that they are all to be treated alike and subjected to a reasonable tax on personalty, the tendency to evasion is lessened."

Mr. Schwab said that his principal objection to the secured debts tax law was that it meant "total exemption of personal property forever." He added:

"I concede that an attempt to tax all personalty at the full rate, amounting as it does to a burden wholly greater than the same rate on realty, is doomed to failure. I believe that an annual or periodical tax on forms of intangible property would not be burdensome, and would produce greatly increased revenue. Only recently the subject was discussed in a report made by a committee of the National Tax Association, of which Prof. Seligman was Chairman, and the conclusion drawn 'that in the majority of States the recording and registry tax should not be payable once and for all, but should be adjusted either as is now done in Connecticut to some limited period of exemption, or through the imposition of a higher rate to the life of the security.'

"It will thus be seen," said Mr. Schwab, "that it was apparently the unanimous opinion of this committee that the normal use of this sort of a substitute for the general property tax applied to personalty was that it should not be a tax once for all. Nowhere in the report is there any explanation of why the case of New York State was deemed exceptional.

"This tax was a source of embarrassment to the localities in that it removed or tended to remove certain regular sources of revenue from them, contrary to the well-accepted principles that revenue from forms of personal property which have a definite status should go to the localities where it is situated—in this case, the residence of the owner. The tendencies to indirect and impersonal taxation are in my opinion a delusion and a snare in that they tend to remove the direct personal feeling that ought to exist, and in fact prevent the burden of the tax from falling where it should fall, on some specific individual. With uncertain, indefinite, and loosely administered tax laws, there comes a loss of responsibility and an increase of the shifting of the tax from the strong to the weak.

"In no other country in the world is there any such lack of attempt to reach the wealth or ability of the citizen as has existed in this country.

"Here, however, the recent adoption of the Sixteenth Amendment, which will result in an income tax requiring most drastic methods of collection, is an indication of the almost unanimous views of the people at large that the taxation of all property is the only proper rule, as against the false doctrines of exemption and indirect taxation, put forth by a small body of people located here in New York, but living, some of them, in New Jersey or other States."

LAGGING PUPILS GET HELP.

Treatment for Physical Ailments Shows Good Results.

Marked improvement was shown in the work of 176 children at Public School 36 in Manhattan Borough, as the result of treatment they received for physical ailments, according to the report of Dr. M. B. Hopkins, examining physician, which has been submitted to the Board of Health. It covers the period from November, 1912, to May last.

A copy of the report was given to THE NEW YORK TIMES yesterday by Dr. William Martin Richards of 229 West Ninety-seventh Street, an eye specialist, who for the last two years has been urging that more attention be paid to the physical condition of pupils. In a report sent to the Board of Education on Dec. 27 last after he had made an examination of forty pupils from two schools in the Bronx, Dr. Richards said that there were 78,000 children in the public schools with defective vision, and that 80 per cent. of the cases could be helped by proper treatment. In speaking of the good results obtained in School 36, Dr. Richards yesterday pointed out with apparent satisfaction that Dr. Hopkins was instructed by him in the work, although Dr. Richards's interest had at one time been characterized in an official publication as "unwarranted interference."

The first part of the Hopkins report takes up the cases of 236 children who, before the treatment, had received the mark "C" in their school work. Of these cases fifty-one were not treated by the city. The cases examined and treated follow: Teeth defective, 126; treated, 97; malnutrition, 26; treated, 24; vision, 54; treated, 43; tonsils, 10; treated, 9; heart, 2; treated, 2; hearing, 2; treated, 1; St. Vitus dance, 9; treated, 9; nasal, 5; treated, 4; other diseases, 2; treated, 2.

The report says that of the pupils of the school treated for physical defects 161 advanced in their school work from "C" grade to "B," three from "D" to "B," and nine from "B" to "A," three from "B" to "B plus." There were sixty cases where the children showed no advancement or dropped back in their work.

WILL FORCE AUTOS TO STOP FOR CARS

Police Support Plan Which Seeks to Protect Lives of Passengers.

MAGISTRATES WILL HELP

Provision for Eight-Foot Leeway Called Defect in New Ordinance—Traffic Squad Working on Plans.

A serious effort is to be made by the police, it was learned yesterday, to enforce the clause in the new automobile ordinance which forbids automobiles to pass street cars which have stopped to take on or let off passengers, unless there is a clear leeway of eight feet. It is the intention of the police, it was learned at Police Headquarters yesterday, to arrest all chauffeurs who violate this clause of the ordinance. The police, however, have not as yet carried out their purpose.

At the congested corners of Twenty-third, Thirty-fourth, and Forty-second Streets, along Broadway, automobiles could be seen by the score yesterday which kept their course regardless of street cars and whether or not passengers going to and from the cars were directly in their pathway, with less than eight feet between the street cars and the automobiles.

From a high official source within the Traffic Squad it was learned that the automobile drivers who feel that the new ordinance is a thing to deride are going to see their mistake as soon as the Traffic Squad's working plans are perfected, which, it was said, would be within a day or two.

"You can disabuse your mind," said a high official of the Traffic Squad yesterday, "of any notion that we regard this new ordinance as impracticable or worked out by the Aldermen without a clear notion of our traffic needs and possibilities.

"In the Traffic Squad the new plan is considered the best thing we have had to work with since the regulation of automobile traffic became a problem.

"From long experience we have learned that citizens stepping off cars may as likely as not step directly in front of automobiles that are whizzing along utterly regardless of the man who has got off the street car. We have had to see the policemen on post shake their clubs in anger at such reckless automobilists and let it go at that.

Police Will Arrest Offenders.

"Now we can grab them and turn them over to the Magistrates, and that will be a real pleasure to every traffic policeman on Broadway, I am sure. The violators of the ordinance needn't think they will receive the old-time smiles from the Magistrates. We understand that they'll have plenty of things to think about every time one of them comes up for a hearing, and it won't be on a $1 basis, or $10, either."

The question was brought up whether enforcement of the ordinance would lead to traffic blockades. No such trouble is anticipated by the police.

"All the traffic stops together and starts together when it is congested enough to be continuous," the officer of the Traffic Squad said, "and that means that when a policeman's hand goes up it stops street cars and automobiles alike. The halt in the case of south and north bound cars and automobiles is to let east and west bound traffic cross the streets, and it is long enough to permit street cars let off passengers.

The Real Police Problem.

"There is no danger from such a source. The real problem occurs at such a place, say, as Seventh Avenue and Forty-second Street. One automobile proceeding along leisurely gives plenty of room for passengers to step down from a street car and get their bearings before heading for the sidewalk. An automobile driver in a hurry coming up from behind sees the clear space eight or ten feet wide adjoining the stopped street car, and he plunges into it, hoping thereby to gain a few points on the traffic stream at the risk of the lives of all the people on foot. That's the man we are after. We knew about this clause before it was drawn up in the ordinance and it had our approval."

Automobile men took another view of the situation. They quite generally smiled at the new ordinance.

Col. Edward S. Cornell, secretary of the Highways Protective Society, said the ordinance did not appeal to him as enforceable, and that most of the automobilists with whom he had talked about it were of his opinion. He said that the rule calling for a clear leeway of eight feet would cause many disputes.

"If a reckless driver thinks he is eight feet away from the car," said Col. Cornell, "he can go as fast as he likes. He can cut around in front of it, and the only protection the public has is in the general clause about 'reasonable speed. That is bound to make the so-called protective feature a dead letter. I advise all people using street cars never to leave them on the theory that the first eight feet out from the car is territory free from automobile speeders.

"The inadequacy of the State law is the cause of much of the trouble in the city. The State law is very old-fashioned. Every automobile driver knows that when he is going five miles an hour there is very little danger of running anybody down. At such a speed a driver can stop almost instantly—can stop even after brushing against a woman's dress before she is thrown down. At five miles an hour a driver can turn his car quickly to the right or left to avoid a citizen on foot.

"A much better provision than the provision requiring automobiles either to keep eight feet away from a stopped street car or come to a halt would be a provision requiring automobiles to pass stopped street cars at a speed not exceeding five miles an hour.

"Connecticut is protected by such a law, and I believe it works splendidly. A measure killed at the recent legislative session gave New York citizens such protection. It is a great pity that the legislators assemble in Winter, when the danger from reckless automobile drivers is not so keenly felt. We have allowed the automobile drivers to do whatever they desired for so long that out of this very fact grows a danger greater than the lack of legislation. We have made it the second nature of reckless drivers to scorn the public. Such drivers are going to go past street cars just as they always have, until they feel a very heavy hand. A much better provision than merely fining them would be the revoking of their licenses.

"Automobiles have opened vast new field for graft as well as vast new fields for crime. A lobby that is the worst enemy of those it thinks it is defending stands in the way of all progressive legislation. And, because such legislation has failed, on a comprehensive State-wide plan, our local Board of Aldermen has had to tackle a problem which never should have been forced upon it. The one way I can see for citizens to enjoy real protection such as the Aldermanic ordinance is sure to fail to provide is for the Magistrates to join together in united interpretations of the law to the effect that ten miles an hour or fifeen miles an hour decidedly is not the sane and reasonable speed at which to dash past a street car that has stopped to take on or let off passengers. If the Magistrates would agree upon five miles an hour as the reasonable speed for such situations the list of accidents would rapidly dwindle."

The National Highways Protective Society, Col. Cornell said, would press at the next legislative session an amendment to the present automobile law which would supplement the present New York City ordinance by making it a misdemeanor for an automobile to pass a stopped street car anywhere in the State at a rate of speed exceeding six miles an hour.

EAST SIDE WORKER MARRIES MEDALIST

Miss Anna Reeb of the Chrystie Street House Becomes the Wife of V. D. Brenner.

LEAVES SETTLEMENT WORK

Ceremony at the Home of Dr. and Mrs. Wolbarst—Bridegroom Designed the Lincoln Cent.

A romance of the art and settlement colonies on the lower east side resulted yesterday afternoon in the marriage of Miss Anna Reeb, head of the Settlement House at 186 Chrystie Street, and Victor D. Brenner, the sculptor and medalist, who designed the Lincoln penny in 1909 and carved thereon his initials. Before the Treasury Department made an objection to the appearance of the letters "V. D. B.," and caused them to be cut from the dies, a very large number of cents were minted.

The couple were married in the home of a common friend, Dr. Abraham L. Wolbarst, 113 East Nineteenth Street, where they met for the first time two years ago. The bridegroom's gift to the bride was a hand-carved ivory medallion, mounted in gold, representing a shepherdess, every detail of the work having been executed with his own hand.

The bride, who was graduated a few years ago from Clark University, Worcester, Mass., took up settlement work in Pittsburgh at the Irene Kaufman Settlement. She was so successful there that a call was sent to her two years ago to take charge of the Chrystie Street Settlement.

Mr. Brenner has his studio at 30 East Twentieth Street, and is a member of the National Sculpture Society, the Architectural League, the Arts Club, and the Municipal Art Society. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Hyman G. Enelow, assistant pastor of Temple Emanu-El, assisted by the Rev. Dr. M. M. Kaplan of the Jewish Theological Seminary, and immediately afterward Mr. and Mrs. Brenner started to spend a month in the Maine woods.

Mr. Brenner designed seals for the New York Public Library, the Fine Arts Federation, and the Carnegie Institute, and medals for the American Geographical Society, the American Commission to the Paris Exposition, the Typothetae of New York, and to commemorate the visit of Prince Henry.

Mrs. Brenner has resigned from the Settlement House, and Miss Gertrude Martner of Saginaw, Mich., has been appointed in charge there.

WED AMID ROSES.

American Beauties Adorn the Marriage of Miss Maxwell.

In the presence of 1,000 guests, Miss Grace Hurlbut Maxwell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lascelles Chester Maxwell, was married yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock to George Greer in the Presbyterian Church at Rye-on-the-Sound. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Douglas Putnam Birnie, assisted by the Rev. T. Townsend Henshaw. A special train conveyed the New York guests to and from Rye.

American Beauty roses were used profusely in the scheme of the wedding. The gowns of the bride's attendants were embroidered with American Beauties, and the same flowers were used in their hats and bouquets. After the ceremony the couple received the congratulations of their relatives and friends at Cromarty, the Maxwell residence on Grand View Avenue, under a bower of American Beauties.

The bride wore a robe of white moire fleu, with a court train, the bodice being draped with old rose point lace, which also fell in panel effect on the skirt. The veil was of the same lace, being caught up with a coronet of orange blossoms. Her only ornament was a diamond bowknot, the gift of the bridegroom. She carried a bouquet of white orchids and lilies of the valley.

Miss Milicent Crafts of Brooklyn was maid of honor, and the bridesmaids included the Misses Bernice Wolgomat, Helen J. Downs, Louise Higgins, Edith Jackson, and Bremmer Crafts. Miss Katherine H. Maxwell, a sister of the bride, was flower girl, and George Greer, 3d, a nephew of the bridegroom, was page.

John Henry Fulle was best man, and the ushers were John Christopher Meyer, Christopher M. Lowther, Milton J. Whitely, Henry A. Taylor, Walter C. Shoup, and Edward B. Jackson.

Mr. Greer and his bride will sail to-morrow for Europe, to spend the Summer.

MISS WERDENSCHLAG WEDS.

Her Marriage to Jerome A. Kohn Performed at Sherry's.

Miss Hortense Werdenschlag, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Werdenschlag of 303 West 103d Street, was married at Sherry's yesterday to Jerome Arnold Kohn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Kohn of this city. The ceremony was performed at 6:30 o'clock by the Rev. Dr. Schulman.

Miss Ruth Schroeder was maid of honor, and the Misses Diana Horkheimer, Elvira Levy, Jeanne Samper, and Maude Hess were the bridesmaids. Walter Kohn acted as best man for his brother. The ushers included Leon Altmayer, Edward Crone, George Frankenthaler, and S. D. Moss.

Mr. Kohn and his bride are to motor through the Berkshires and will spend some time in the Thousand Islands. They will live in this city.

MISS STREET MARRIES.

She Becomes the Wife of Henry de B. Hooper in St. John's Cathedral.

Miss Martha Street, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clement F. Street of 445 Riverside Drive, married last evening Henry de B. Hooper at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine by the Rev. Arthur H. Judge of St. Matthew's Church.

Miss Louise Hooper was maid of honor, and the bridesmaids were Miss Beatrice Colton and Miss Margaret Berry. Mr. Hooper was attended by Louis Graves as best man, and Alfred W. Haywood, Jr., and John Manning Battle were the ushers.

The bride is a granddaughter of the Rev. David Street, a well-known Presbyterian clergyman. Mr. Hooper is a member of an old North Carolina family, and is a descendant of William Hooper, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence.

MISS HELEN MAY MARRIED.

She Weds Rudolph Brainerd Gring at Her Home in Orange.

Miss Helen May, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson May of 445 Central Avenue, Orange, N. J., married at her home yesterday afternoon Rudolph Brainerd Gring of Santa Barbara, Cal.

The matron of honor was Mrs. Roger Clark of New York. Miss Mary Phillipi, daughter of Mrs. E. Martin Phillipi of New York, and Miss Constance Smith of South Orange were ribbon bearers, and Miss Helen Smith of South Orange was flower girl. The best man was Edward Clark of Philadelphia.

Miss Pennock Now Mrs. Folwell.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, June 5.—The large grounds about the home of Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Pennock, Lansdowne, provided an especially beautiful setting for the wedding of their daughter, Miss Elizabeth Pennock, and Robert C. Folwell, Jr. After the ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. Dr. William Henry Holsington, a reception was held on the tennis court, which was decorated. Mrs. Nathan Pennypacker Stauffer, a sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Miss Edna I. Cook, Miss Pauline H. Field, Miss Louise Murdock, and Miss Rose Wood were bridesmaids. Mr. Folwell had as his best man his cousin, Nathan T. Folwell, 2d.

Miss Coster a Bride on June 13.

The wedding of Miss Helen Coster, daughter of Mrs. Charles H. Coster of 37 East Thirty-seventh Street, and the late Mr. Coster, to Sumner Gerard, is to take place on Friday afternoon, June 13, in Grace Church Chantry. Only the immediate members of the family are to be present. The couple's engagement was announced last month. Mr. Gerard is a brother of Justice James W. Gerard.

Miss Bueb Weds Paul O. Hoerning.

Miss Elsa Bueb, daughter of Otto J. Bueb, was married last evening to Paul O. Hoerning at the Hotel Savoy. The Rev. Father Taylor officiated. Miss Gertrude de Bueb, a sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and the bridesmaids were the Misses Edith Morgan and Julie Ammon. Hans Bernstorff was best man, and the ushers were Ernst Hoerning and Dick Brandes.

A Clogged Bowel means A Clogged Brain

A CONSTIPATED man cannot THINK clearly. The active and successful person needs a clean bowel and a clear Brain. The Brain is naturally influenced because of pressure on the intestinal nervous system which prevents the human telegraph wires from performing their duty. No one organ in the body acts independent from another; in union there is health.

REMOVE THAT PRESSURE NOW. Don't say, I'll take something to-night, and thus spoil your day and your sleep. Take a remedy which acts quickly, surely and gently. Take HUNYADI JANOS WATER, the natural Remedy. The ideal laxative for a business man. ½ tumblerful in the morning, or at any time on an empty stomach, relieves you in an hour or so. Get a bottle at any Drug Store to-day.

Margot	Kathryn Witchie
Nellie	Nellie De Grasse
Nettie	Emily Miles
Poor little rich girl	Pattie Rose

With a Summer show that really sets a standard for this type of entertainment and surroundings that are both comfortable and attractive, the new Lew Fields Roof Garden was opened last night under the most auspicious conditions. And since Mr. Fields must naturally come first in a discussion of the enterprise it may be as well to mention right here that "All Aboard," besides providing a richly diversified entertainment in itself, offers him better opportunities for displaying himself as an actor than any vehicle he has had in years.

In the minds of a good many people whose memories are short, Lew Fields is merely a very clever dialect comedian. But in many different ways last night he proved that he has both the variety and the sincerity which differentiate the real actor from the vaudeville specialist. In a brief monologue early in the entertainment, when the disappointed sailor overcome with the scent of the poppy blossoms dreams that he is the Captain of a ship, Mr. Fields struck a genuinely serious and appealing note. And subsequently, in the suffragette skit, which is that rare thing, a really funny burlesque, and which, in spite of a little too much frankness and length, had the audience shrieking with laughter, he gave an exhibition of the kind of acting that proves how narrow is the line between laughter and tears.

Here, too, Mr. Fields had the cooperation of Miss Zoe Barnett, a surprisingly fine actress for this type of entertainment, and who developed considerable versatility and power in the course of the highly variegated entertainment.

But lest it be imagined that "All Aboard" is serious entertainment—and good intentions forbid that such an idea be conveyed, thereby decreasing the line of tired business men at the box office—let it be mentioned that the piece is a typical song and dance and girl show from the rising of the first curtain to the falling of the last.

Where it differs from some of them is in quality and quantity, in the presence of a number of really clever people, in environment and decoration that are both colorful and pleasing, and in a plentiful supply of really funny lines and situations.

A handsomer, more vivacious, or more charmingly gowned chorus has not been seen this season, and to their seemingly tireless efforts some of the success is due. Indeed, that hardworking chorus suggested the possibility of such loyalty to the workers, as was in evidence when Mr. Fields, as the sailor, protested that he had been laboring sixteen hours a day.

"But," said the Captain, "you belong to the union, and that means only eight hours' work a day."

"I know," was the reply. "But I belong to two unions."

And since one good line suggests another, (sometimes,) it may be as well to allude to the same sailor person's remark when asked if he didn't have any relatives.

"Oh, yes," he answered, "I have a distant sister."

The first big laugh came when one of the crew comes into the salon lugging a grandfather's clock which he is about to put into position. The sailor suddenly looks up.

"You fool," he says, "why don't you carry a watch?"

All of which, as humor, doesn't seem as deep as a well or as broad as a barn door when it gets into cold type, but has a genuine quality of fun as one gets it, apparently ad lib., from clever actors on the scene.

Who, for example, could translate the distinctive humor of a George Monroe into type? And yet where is there any one who in a broad and perfectly innocent way can justify more genuine and hearty laughter? And besides appearing in trousers—you should see them—in the suffragette burlesque where he plays a lady boss and rescues poor betrayed mankind in distress, Mr. Monroe has some new ones about McGurken which would be enough to make a fire horse forget his serious occupation for a moment and hee-haw in the traces.

Among the song numbers which are most pleasing are "Monkey Doodle," with a line-up of chorus girls carrying real simians; "Captain Kidd," which served to introduce Ralph Riggs, a remarkably clever dancer, and who, by the way, has a clever team mate in Kathryn Witchie; "Serafina," which is very colorful and was splendidly sung by Miss Barnett, are first-act features. The finale to this act is novel and interesting up to the moment when it ends in Wild West shooting effects, which are noisy and out of key with the general entertainment.

But the second act with the exception of a few brief moments keeps up the pace. Mr. and Mrs. De Haven in "A Garden of Eden for Two" reveal their neat dancing method and have the assistance of two cunning kiddies, and there is a capital Cubist song number with Mr. Riggs, Miss Witchie, and Miss Holt as principal singers and dancers. Miss Connelly contributes the solo part nicely in "Tokio Rag," which is one of the pleasantest of the numbers and introduces the chorus in soothing color effects.

Lawrance D'Orsay, Stephen Maley, Will Philbrick, and Venita Fitzhugh are others who in one way or another bring something to the general entertainment. And praise is certainly due authors, composer, and stage managers for helping to make "All Aboard" a show which promises to make forgetfulness of hot weather a possibility during torrid Summer nights.

JUSTICE DAVIS IS BETTER.

His Illness Is Believed Due to Conditions in the Court House.

Justice Davis, it was said at his home last night, was feeling much better. At first it was feared that he had typhoid fever, but it has now developed that he is suffering from typhoidal malaria. He is in the care of Dr. R. Van Santvoord of 10 West 122d Street.

The illness of Justice Davis, his brother said last night, was brought about by the unsanitary condition of the Court House.

Guests at Briar Cliff Lodge.

Mrs. George G. Wheelock, Mrs. V. N. Powellson, Mrs. George F. Gregory, and Mrs. H. M. Requa of New York are at the Briar Cliff for the season. Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Isaacs of New York are also at the Lodge for the season.

COCKRAN IN COMIC OPERA.

Tells an Anecdote of Sullivan Between Acts of "Iolanthe" Benefit.

W. Bourke Cockran, former member of Congress, and sometime orator de luxe to Tammany Hall, made his local stage début at the Casino Theatre yesterday afternoon as an added attraction to the special benefit performance of "Iolanthe," the proceeds of which are to form a fund to be given to the New York Public Library for the acquisition of Gilbert and Sullivaniana in memory of those immortal partners in comic opera.

Mr. Cockran, though the chief, was not the only added attraction. Others were John Philip Sousa, the march king; Sydney Rosenfeld, President of the Federation of Theatre Clubs; Edward Fales Coward, the playwright, and William D. Carleton. All had accepted the invitation of the management to aid the cause by talking between the acts.

"Anything I can do to contribute to the success of this happy occasion I am proud and happy to do," Mr. Cockran said. "Everybody else has been getting off reminiscent anecdotes about either Mr. Gilbert or Mr. Sullivan, so I suppose I might as well begin with an anecdote, too.

"Just sixteen years ago Mr. Sullivan and I were among the guests at a house party in Epsom. Our host was an important and imposing feature of the British Empire, one of those persons who never forget the glorious race from which they spring, even when gurgling soup.

"Well, after dinner Sir Arthur sat down at the piano and started to play patriotic Irish airs, and our English host and his guests all were soon joining in the chorus of 'The Wearing of the Green,' showing that this magician-musician could wipe from their minds all memories of the bitter political war then raging over the Irish question."

Mr. Sousa, who told the audience that he would have felt a great deal more comfortable with his band around him, called Sir Arthur Sullivan "the musician-laureate" of England, and in praising his splendid craftsmanship said that before he was 8 years old Sullivan could play every instrument in his father's band.

Mr. Coward characterized Gilbert as the father of the theatrical paradox, and so the godfather of Bernard Shaw, the heir to Sheridan in the kingdom of dramatic wit, and in skill of versification "the Swinburne of the comic opera field."

SOCIAL NOTES.

A large attendance is expected tonight at the fancy dress dance to be given at the Garden City Hotel in aid of the Long Island Nursing Sisters of the Poor. The New York guests are going out on the 8:15 and 9 o'clock trains from the Pennsylvania Station, with a choice of returning at 1 or 2 A. M. Mrs. Reginald Vanderbilt, Mrs. Frederic Neilson, Mrs. Stanley Mortimer, Mrs. J. Herbert Johnston, Miss Annie Leary, and Mrs. A. Butler Duncan are among the patronesses.

BARNARD CLASS DAY GIVES CAT A CHANCE

Small Black Animal the Principal Feature of the Exercises.

HIGHLY NOVEL PROGRAMME

Traditional Addresses Eliminated to be Replaced by Novelties—Graduates Hold Their Farewell Dinner.

The class of 1913, Barnard College, held its class day exercises yesterday in the Columbia gymnasium. They were distinct in that there were no class statistics, no prophecy, and no class history. At 3 o'clock, the Violin Club played the "Aida" March, and the senior class marched to the platform. Gertrude Morris, senior President, gave the salutatory address.

Instead of the class history, Viola Turck spoke on "The Unluckiness of Thirteen." She came to the platform with a little black cat in a basket, and each time she enumerated one of the misfortunes of the class, she picked up the cat and said it had lost a life. Finally, the abolition of fraternities last week was cited as the thirteenth and last life of the black cat, and she picked from the basket a dead, stuffed cat.

Anna Salzman then presented the undergraduates with appropriate knocks. She gave 1915 a mustard plaster to bring out their sisterly affection, so long dormant. Then came the singing of the class song, written by Helen Dana. Priscilla Lockwood read the class poem.

The most interesting of the thirteen numbers on the programme were the knocks distributed in the form of parcel post by Edith Halfpenny, who is to be Alumni President. She began by giving Mollie Stewart, the Class Day Chairman, a big stick, as a gift from our friend, Col. Roosevelt. Then a group of girls were called up and got class numerals, so that in the future they might know what class they really belonged to. Imogene Ireland received a harp as an emblem of her country and a reward for her faithful service as college song leader. Students who had won Phi Beta Kappa received "flunks," in order that they might not end their college career without this treat.

Instead of the class prophecy, an address, "Plans for the New Building," was given by Naomi Harris. This was a humorous fantasy, for no actual plans have yet been presented, but it gave Miss Harris the opportunity of bringing out the foibles of the different instructors and emphasizing some of the needs of the college. The Columbia architect's plan was rejected, to remove the suspicion of co-education. The offer of special clinics at St. Luke's Hospital was accepted, for binding up "cuts" before examinations. Bathing houses are to be established on Riverside to prevent the complications involved in using the regular college tank.

The class gift was presented by Mollie Stewart. It is to be a drinking fountain on the campus, and will be erected this Summer. After more singing the Phi Beta Kappa elections were announced by Miss Latham. They are as follows: Hella Bernays, Marietta Gless, Edith Halfpenny, Ethel Hawkey, Rita Hilborn, Imogene Ireland, Amelia Mumford, Josephine Melsha, Gertrude Morris, Ruth Osterberg, Sallie Pero, Lucy Powell, Harriet Seibert, Mary Voyse, Margaret Watson, and Bertha Weaver.

The exercises closed with a valedictory by Helen Dana, the undergraduate President. As the Violin Club played the Recessional, the graduates marched out to join their friends on the campus.

In the evening, the senior class held its farewell dinner in Barnard College. After dinner they grouped around the flagpole, singing their class songs.

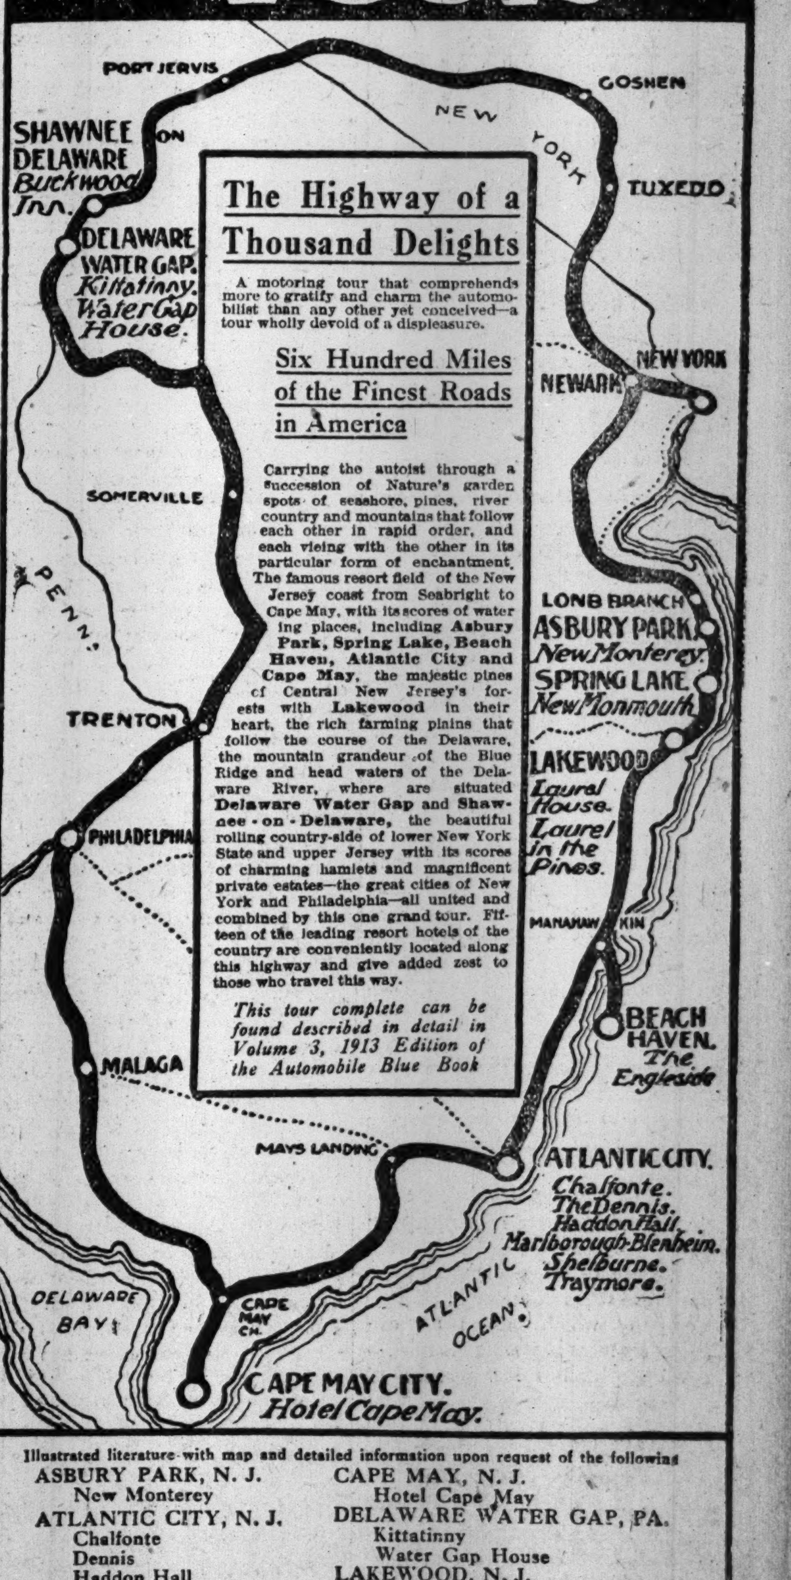
THE NEW JERSEY TOUR



The Highway of a Thousand Delights

A motoring tour that comprehends more to gratify and charm the automobilist than any other yet conceived—a tour wholly devoid of a displeasure.

Six Hundred Miles of the Finest Roads in America

Carrying the autoist through a succession of Nature's garden spots of seashore, pines, river country and mountains that follow each other in rapid order, and each vieing with the other in its particular form of enchantment. The famous resort field of the New Jersey coast from Seabright to Cape May, with its scores of watering places, including Asbury Park, Spring Lake, Beach Haven, Atlantic City and Cape May, the majestic pines of Central New Jersey's forests with Lakewood in their heart, the rich farming plains that follow the course of the Delaware, the mountain grandeur of the Blue Ridge and head waters of the Delaware River, where are situated Delaware Water Gap and Shawnee-on-Delaware, the beautiful rolling country-side of lower New York State and upper Jersey with its scores of charming hamlets and magnificent private estates—the great cities of New York and Philadelphia—all united and combined by this one grand tour. Fifteen of the leading resort hotels of the country are conveniently located along this highway and give added zest to those who travel this way.

This tour complete can be found described in detail in Volume 3, 1913 Edition of the Automobile Blue Book

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Go to New Low Level—Sales Lighter—Renewed Decline at Close.

Opinion was divided on the question whether the renewed weakness in stocks at the close of trading yesterday represented the resumption of large-scale liquidation or pressure from the short interest. However the selling should more properly be diagnosed, its effect was to bring the market at the close to the lowest level of the day in the case of a number of stocks. It was the fourth consecutive day on which new low levels for the year were recorded. Only a few of the more prominent issues escaped some loss, and in many the net declines were again severe. The metal shares, the tobacco group of stocks, and certain of the other industrial issues, were those which were most conspicuously under pressure. Europe was not a very heavy seller, the foreign markets were more composed, and it was selling from home sources, which accounted for most of the further decline which took place. Buying of the sort which helped to stem the decline on Wednesday was again in evidence to some extent yesterday, but it was apparent that the accumulation of stocks had not yet gone far enough to establish so firm a foundation as to enable the list to resist effectively the pressure of continued selling by bear traders or by those who were liquidating long stock. Meanwhile the further declines are adding to the already large yields shown on many standard issues, and the attraction thus offered to those who have money to invest becomes an increasingly important influence in the stock market.

Several of the day's incidents served to keep much to the fore the bearing of the money market and of the investment position upon the price of stocks, but there were other matters which came in for much discussion. Foremost among these was the proposal of the Attorney General that a progressive tax be levied against the large tobacco companies as a means of bettering the position of their competitors. This was more a matter of market concern yesterday than on Wednesday, when the first news of this proposal was received. The further heavy declines in the tobacco shares yesterday, American Tobacco, the weakest of the group, having lost over 28 points in two days, reflected in very tangible form what was thought of this proposal to put a penalty upon large scale success in the tobacco trade. The mere suggestion of such a plan is very far from its actual enactment into law, and still further from the upholding of such a law by the courts, but none the less emphasis was being laid yesterday on the probability that from this repressive taxing of the tobacco trade it would be an easy step to the application of this same doctrine of taxation, not for revenue but for repression of trade, to other lines of production.

This market now rests under the necessity of shortly making payment for the large amount of American stocks recently sold here by Europe. It is partly in reflection of this and partly in response to the rise in London discount rates to above 4 per cent. that sterling exchange again rose yesterday. Spot discounts in London rose to 4 1-16 per cent., and the rates on bills to arrive were quoted as high as 4½ per cent. The English Bank statement, with another small loss in gold, again reported an increase in its percentage of reserve. The Bank of France showed a gain in gold of over $2,000,000. This further improvement in the position of the Bank of France, taken in conjunction with a rise in sterling exchange in Berlin, suggesting the cessation or at least a lessening of the demands which Germany has been making on London for gold, were the two most favorable developments in the international money market. Time money rates here remained very firm, and the conditions which borrowers were encountering made it plain that the banks were disposed to conserve their resources. The commercial paper market is now on a 6 per cent. basis.

Reminders of the present congestion of investment securities were found in the result of the Baltimore City bond offering and in the high rate which the State of New York has had to pay for the $27,000,000 of eight months' notes for which bids were received yesterday. These were oversubscribed, but only at a little under the maximum rate of 5 per cent. which the State is authorized to pay on such short-time loans under the recently enacted law. The result of yesterday's sale gave point to the argument which has been advanced in the financial district that the State was ill-advised in fixing a limit of 5 per cent. for such temporary loans. Had the money market been a little tighter than it actually is, the State would have been unable, judging by yesterday's bids for these eight months' notes, to obtain the money which it needs, and presumably needs badly, inasmuch as it is resorting to what in effect is an emergency measure to obtain it.

The Union Pacific submitted to the United States Circuit Court at St. Paul yesterday its proposals for the sale of its holdings of Southern Pacific stock. The hearing on these proposals has been set for June 12. The action which the court may take in respect to them will be awaited with much interest.

MONEY AND EXCHANGE.

Money on call loaned on Stock Exchange collateral at 2½@3 per cent., with the last loan at 2¾ per cent. The renewal rate was 2¾ per cent.

Time money rates were 3¾@4 per cent. for sixty days, 4¾@4½ per cent. for ninety days, 4½@5 per cent. for four months, 4¾@5 per cent. for five and six months, and 5¼@5½ per cent. for seven months.

Commercial paper was quoted at 6 per cent. for the best names.

Clearing House exchanges, $306,841,808; balances, $14,373,639; Sub-Treasury credit balances, $242,687.

The local banks have lost $4,599,000 on their Sub-Treasury operations since Friday.

FOREIGN RATES.

Discount rates abroad yesterday were: London, 4⅛@4¼ per cent. for short bills and three months' bills; Paris, 3¾ per cent., and Berlin, 5⅛@5¼ per cent. Money was 3¼@3½ per cent. on London and 4½@5 per cent. in Berlin.

The Paris check rate on London was 25f. 22c., and the Berlin check rate on London was 20 marks 42½ pfennigs.

Foreign exchange rates at the points noted were quoted as follows:

CABLE AND SIGHT RATES.

London—Cable, $4.8720; demand, high, $4.8680; low, $4.8670; last, $4.8680.

Paris—Commercial, 60 days, 5.22½ plus 1-16; 90 days, 5.23¾.

Berlin—Commercial, 60 days, 94 3-16; 90 days, 93 13-16.

DOMESTIC EXCHANGE RATES.

Boston, par; Chicago, 15c. premium; St. Louis, 10c. premium; St. Paul, 75c. premium; San Francisco, 60c. premium; Montreal, 15⅝c. premium.

SILVER QUOTATIONS.

Bar silver was unchanged in London, at 27 11-16d, and unchanged in New York, at 60⅝c. per ounce.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Frisco Developments.

No steps have been taken yet to have Judge Sanborn appoint a third receiver for the St. Louis & San Francisco, and it could not be learned yesterday whether the bankers and the Chairman would agree on the compromise suggested. Speyer & Co. are anxious to have a receiver to represent the interests of the general lien bondholders, and it looked earlier in the week as though the Yoakum forces were willing to meet the bankers one-third of the way by agreeing to the appointment of a third receiver, on condition that the two original appointees were undisturbed. There was another suggestion made yesterday, that Thomas H. West, a Director who was named as one of the two receivers, might find it convenient to resign, owing to pressure of other duties. This would make it possible for the bondholders to go before the court with a petition to have his successor chosen to look after the interest of the creditors rather than that of the stockholders. One reason which the court might urge against the appointment of a third receiver is the expense; it is expected that upward of $200,000 a year can be saved in officials' salaries under the receivership, and the addition of another representative would cut a fair-sized hole in the projected economy.

* * *

Committee for the Notes.

In the wild scramble to get protective committees into the field the security issue which precipitated the failure seems to have been overlooked. It was the Frisco's inability to get together the money for meeting the $2,250,000 of two-year notes when they matured on June 1 that led another creditor to ask for the appointment of receivers, but up to this time no committee to look after the interests of the C. & E. I. notes, the first large maturity to be defaulted, has been announced. F. S. Mosely & Co. were busy yesterday in getting together a committee to safeguard the disposition of the collateral behind these notes.

Baltimore's Bond Sale.

Trouble over the way in which city officials of Baltimore handle financial matters, which eventuated about a year ago following a bond sale, was evidently responsible for the failure of a public offering made in that city yesterday. The total bids received for $5,500,000 of 4 per cent. bonds amounted to only $588,000, and some of these were too low to receive consideration, the average price being about 90. The big investment houses refused to bid for any of the bonds because of the Finance Commissioners' practice of following public offerings with private sales to any one who wanted bonds at the price fixed by the successful bidders at the sale. Obviously, if a banker got $1,000,000 at 90 and the Commissioners let it be known that they had more bonds to sell over the counter at the same figure, it left little chance for the successful bidders to market their purchases at a profit.

Improving Methods of Business.

Some Stock Exchange members are finding the supervision exercised by authorities of the board on business methods, both on and off the floor, somewhat irksome, according to rumors circulated in the Wall Street district. Since the Exchange began active measures of reform early in the year, the Governing Committee and the Committee on Business Conduct have been inquiring into various measures made use of in carrying on operations in stocks which had not received much official attention in the past. One department of stock market routine to be especially scrutinized was the soliciting of business. The market letters of a number of commission houses, it is said, have been criticised as tending from their contents to attract the sort of speculation which the guiding powers of the Exchange are opposing, and several members have been cautioned by the Governors to tighten up their requirements as to margins on speculative accounts. This watchfulness on the part of those who are responsible for the business morals of the Exchange, as representatives of the body of brokers, has the hearty approval of the rank and file of the membership, but in some quarters, where the easier conditions of the old days still hold their attractions, the efforts of officers along these lines are viewed with disfavor.

Trading After the Close.

The Stock Exchange has a rule against trading out of the prescribed hours which is violated now and then, even on the floor after the closing gong has sounded. When business is lively brokers occasionally find the rule too rigid to obey to the letter, and shares find new owners under the technical understanding between buyer and seller that the stock was bought or sold at "your office" or "my office." The rule was very nearly broken at the Steel post yesterday afternoon. The only reason that it was not was that there were no buyers for liberal offerings which appeared, largely from wire houses, a few minutes after the close. Members who were not interested in Steel, but took notice of the large supply of stock presented at a fraction below the final bid price, were inclined to be skeptical of the quality of the offerings, labeling them as an artifice of professional bears to create sentiment unfavorable to values at to-day's opening. The fact remained, however, that there was a lot of Steel to be had at 54, while the closing bid was 54⅛. Brokers present with stock to sell at a higher figure left the group puzzled because not a single sale was transacted.

Tobacco Shares Under Pressure.

Tobacco stocks again sold off substantially yesterday on the Stock Exchange, and to a smaller extent on the Curb, as the result of further expressions of opinion by Mr. McReynolds in regard to the dissolution of the old company. American Tobacco showed at the close a decline of nearly 12 points on the day, and stood 123¾ points below the best price it ever reached, on July 1, 1912. Liggett & Myers and Lorillard lost 9 and 4½ points, respectively, while Weyman & Bruton receded 5 points. On the Curb the crowd handling tobacco issues oscillated rapidly between the points when United Cigar Stores and British-American Tobacco were being traded in, but selling pressure was not as insistent against these issues as againt their contemporaries on the Exchange. At low prices the former was down 2¼ points, and the latter no more than a large fraction.

Atlantic Stock Assessed 100%.

PROVIDENCE, June 5.—An assessment of 100 per cent. of the capital stock has been levied by T. P. Kane, Acting Controller of the Currency, on the stockholders of the Atlantic National Bank, which suspended recently. Notices of the assessments were received to-day. The total is $300,000. It will be used to pay the depositors.

OUTSIDE SECURITIES

Curb Trading Is Much More Active, with Many Severe Losses Shown.

Transactions in unlisted stocks yesterday were in large volume with losses general. Recent market leaders showed heavy declines. Tobacco stocks displayed no rallying power, final sales being at the day's low figures. A large number of bond issues were traded in though the sales were small and price movements irregular.

BOURSES OF EUROPE

Stocks in London Show a Better Tendency—Irregularity in Paris and Berlin.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Friday, June 6.—The Times in its City article to-day will say:

"Although there was only a moderate demand for money yesterday the rates for day-to-day advanced and short fixtures were steady. Some July bills were sold to the Bank. The discount market again raised quotations for all maturities, the improbability of a reduction of the Bank rate in the near future being now generally recognized. Berlin checks moved slightly against London.

"After three days of depression and much uneasiness the stock markets opened yesterday with a good deal of hesitation. In several departments liquidation was resumed, though on a smaller scale, and prices gave way for a time, there being little support from any quarter. Before long, however, jobbers began to realize that there was no heavy selling, and a hopeful feeling began to assert itself, which became quite marked in the afternoon on its being made known that a large proportion of the foreign (chiefly South American) railway securities held by the firm which had been hammered Tuesday had been placed in strong hands. Such prompt success in the efforts to find a home for these stocks had hardly been expected, even by the most sanguine, and all concerned felt much relieved. During the last half hour there was what might almost be called a rally in a number of stocks, especially Canadian Pacific shares.

"As a rule prices left off lower for the day; but Indian stocks, a few home railways, and some American issues showed slight rises."

PARIS, June 5.—Prices moved irregularly on the Bourse to-day.

Three per cent. rentes 85 francs 57½ centimes for the account.

BERLIN, June 5.—A calmer tone prevailed on the Boerse to-day, although selling was continued by the public. Prices were steadier, as professional operators willingly bought all the securities offered. Canadian Pacific at first advanced, but the price weakened later, when selling pressure was renewed.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

It was a very nervous market on the Consolidated Stock Exchange, with the tone changing frequently, but the trend was generally downward. Throughout the day covering of short contracts was conducted on a heavy scale and the demand from that source brought about a forenooon rally in prices, following a lower opening. The session started with heavy dealings on the 9:30 o'clock opening call, the transactions in the half hour before business began elsewhere in Wall Street totaling 7,760 shares, with twenty-three different stocks represented.

First Sales of 1913 Wool Clip.

SHANIKO, Oregon, June 5.—The first sales of the 1913 wool clip occurred here to-day. The sale amounted to 200,000 pounds at prices ranging from 13 to 14 cents. The buyers were representatives of Boston, New York, and Chicago concerns. The next sale will be June 21.

Investors want to know not only the records of those companies the securities of which they hold, but how the records compare with those of other companies.
Our "Railroad Statistics" permits of a ready comparison of fifty companies in every essential particular and it is sent free.

Vote to Increase Oil Capital.

Stockholders of the Standard Oil Company of New York have assented to the increase of the capital stock from $15,000,000 to $75,000,000. The Directors will meet on Friday to authorize the distribution of the new shares as a 400 per cent. stock dividend. The dividend, it is expected, will be paid on June 30 to shareowners of record on June 13.

NOT AGREED WITH GARY.

Roberts Says Trade Paper Quotations on Steel Are Not Real Prices.

Percival Roberts, Jr., a Director of the United States Steel Corporation, continued his testimony yesterday for the defense in the suit for the dissolution of the combination, and surprised his auditors by expounding a different view of the market prices published in trade papers from that expressed by E. H. Gary and President James A. Farrell. Both of them testified that prices made by the Steel Corporation were announced in the trade papers and were not departed from in the ordinary course of business.

Mr. Roberts said that the prices published in trade papers represented nothing more than the result of inquiries by reporters, who obtained in some cases specific prices on certain contracts and in others a consensus of the trade as to prevailing rates.

This testimony was given in connection with a contention of the Government that prices had been maintained at fixed levels during certain periods, as the result of pools or understandings among manufacturers. The prices on which it based this theory were taken from trade papers over a series of years.

"The information in those papers," said Mr. Roberts, "is simply hearsay. It represents market prices to some extent, but it does not mean that purchases and sales were actually made at exactly those prices. They are like a thermometer. It shows the temperature, but you may feel warmer or colder than it indicates you should."

"Then the published prices of the Steel Corporation didn't indicate the prices it actually sold at?" asked Judge J. M. Dickinson, counsel for the Government.

"I didn't know they had a published price," answered Mr. Roberts.

"Didn't you know that Judge Gary and Mr. Farrell gave such prices to these papers?"

"No, I did not."

Mr. Roberts said buyers and sellers were governed in making prices by considerations of credit, time of delivery, and other factors, and not by prices reported in the trade press.

Questioned about the Hill ore leases, Mr. Roberts said he was not a Director at the time they were made, but was when they were canceled. The reasons for cancellation, he said, were that the ore had not maintained its original quality and that the Government had criticised the amount of the Steel Corporation's holdings.

Mr. Roberts's cross-examination will be continued to-day.

WAY TO REACH TRUSTS.

Not by Taxing Them, Says Mr. Reed, but Excluding Their Commerce.

Robert R. Reed, whose proposal of a Federal law restricting corporations engaged in commerce is embodied in the John Sharp Williams bill, and was indorsed in the Baltimore platform, in discussing yesterday the McReynolds plan for a progressive internal revenue tax on production of manufactured tobacco, said:

"Whatever may be said for or against the use of the taxing power at this time for such a purpose, I am sure the Attorney General has been misunderstood on one point. The Government has ample power to reach a continuing restraint of trade, such as is alleged to exist under the Tobacco Trust decree. The court did not and could not make its decree a license to violate the law. But if there is any doubt anywhere on this point it could be readily remedied by a declaratory act of Congress to that effect. The tax plan is not necessary for this purpose. The real difficulty with the dissolved trusts is the community of ownership between the constituent companies.

"Every continuing evil in the trust situation can be met by a restrictive law excluding from commerce all corporations and associations which do not meet conditions prescribed by Congress, including the condition of absolute freedom from common control or ownership with competing interests.

"All Democrats in and out of Congress are opposed to the use of the taxing power for non-revenue purposes, and it can, I think, hardly be justified except in an emergency such as does not seem to exist in the present instance. The resort to an indirect method seems to be a confession of the failure of the direct method.

"I am sure that the real attitude of Mr. McReynolds has been misunderstood in the published statements."

BOXBOARD MEN PLEAD.

Their Demurrer in Sherman Law Conspiracy Suit Overruled.

Judge Mayer has overruled the demurrers in the Sherman law suit against the Eastern Boxboard Club, and yesterday eight of the defendants appeared in the Federal District Court and entered pleas of not guilty. They were William C. Geer, Emmons Bryant, Henry L. Paddock, Samuel A. Short, Jr., Charles E. Williams, Louis Newman, William Howard Richardson, and Henry Schleciter. They were paroled in the custody of their counsel.

Judge Mayer ruled that the words "combination and conspiracy" did not charge separate crimes, but were used to describe a conspiracy to impair competition to such an extent as to restrain competition.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

Having sold three-quarters of an issue of $2,150,000 American Refrigerator Transit Company guaranteed 5 per cent. equipment gold notes, Potter, Choate & Prentice and the First Trust and Savings Bank of Chicago are offering the remaining notes to yield from 5.5 per cent. to 5.65 per cent. The principal and interest of the notes are guaranteed by the American Car and Foundry Company.

Still another Protective Committee to spring from the St. Louis & San Francisco receivership was announced yesterday to act for holders of the first mortgage 5 per cent. bonds of the Ozark & Cherokee Central Railway Company. The members are: E. S. Page, Chairman; Robert C. Drayton, Howard Bayne, and Robert L. Montgomery, and they propose to allow holders to withdraw their deposited bonds on Nov. 1 should the committee not be able to get par and interest for the issue within fifteen days after maturity on Oct. 1.

Yielding 5½% to 5.65%

This issue is secured by 2,000 new 30-ton capacity steel underframe refrigerator cars, title to which is vested in the Trustee for the benefit of the holders of these Notes.

The purchase price of this equipment is the sum of $482,500 in cash and the $2,150,000 equipment notes now offered.

The American Refrigerator Transit Company operates a refrigerator car line, and has favorable contracts for the use of its cars with the St. Louis, Iron Mountain & Southern Railway Company.

Missouri Pacific Railway Company.
Wabash Railroad Company.

The last report of the Company shows, including the above 2,000 cars, a total ownership of 5,483 cars, of which 3,500 cars are under trust indenture amounting to $3,635,000, and the remaining 1,983 cars are free of lien. The Company's statement shows a surplus of $2,130,943 as of January 31, 1913, and net earnings for the seven months ended that date of $308,000, while interest and maturing instalments of equipment notes for a like period amounted to about $150,000.

The prompt payment of these Notes, both principal and interest, is guaranteed by the AMERICAN CAR & FOUNDRY COMPANY, which has no bonded indebtedness, and whose average net earnings according to the published reports for the past six years have been over $5,000,000 annually. The total surplus of this Company on April 30, 1912, amounted to $24,876,576.

The Trust Agreement contains stringent provisions in regard to the maintenance of the property, prompt payment of all taxes levied thereon, and also provides that the same shall be insured in good and reliable companies for sixty per cent. of the outstanding notes against loss by fire and all customary risks, which is ample provision, as the cars will be widely scattered.

The issuance of these Notes has been approved by the Public Service Commission of Missouri.

OF THE
Ozark & Cherokee Central Ry. Co.
(St. Louis & San Francisco R. R. System.)

Owing to the appointment of Receivers for the St. Louis & San Francisco R. R. Co., the undersigned, representing a large number of the outstanding FIRST MORTGAGE 5% GOLD BONDS of the OZARK & CHEROKEE CENTRAL RY. CO., have consented to act as a committee for the protection of the holders of these bonds.

The issue matures on October 1st next. As the mortgage securing this issue covers a part of the St. Louis & San Francisco R. R. System, concerted action on the part of all the bondholders is necessary to protect the security and to enforce the rights of the holders of these bonds at maturity.

All bondholders are requested to deposit their bonds immediately either with the GIRARD TRUST COMPANY, Broad and Chestnut Streets, Philadelphia, or the COLUMBIA-KNICKERBOCKER TRUST COMPANY, 60 Broadway, New York, the depositaries of the Committee, which will issue transferable certificates of deposit therefor. If the efforts of the Committee are not successful in obtaining par and interest for the bonds by October 15th next, bondholders desiring to do so may withdraw their bonds prior to November 1st. Copies of the protective agreement can be obtained from either of the depositaries or from members of the Committee.

38 PARK ROW, NEW YORK CITY

STATE NOTES SOLD AT 4.86 AVERAGE

Oversubscription of $9,430,000 on an Issue of $27,000,000.

ONE BID OF $10,000,000

Morgans Take $2,000,000, Guaranty Trust More—Marconi President Buys $300,000.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, June 5.—Considering the condition of the bond market, the sale to-day by State Controller Sohmer of $27,000,000 of State 4½ per cent. notes to expire on Feb. 2 next was successful, being oversubscribed $9,430,000. There were sixty-two separate bids, and the notes were sold at the average interest rate of about 4.86 per cent.

J. W. Griggs, President of the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Company of New York, bought $100,000 of the notes at 4.7 per cent. interest, $100,000 at 4.8 and $100,000 at 4.87. The Chase National Bank of the same city also got three lots—$500,000 each at 4.84, 4.89, and 4.94. Other banks and several trust companies bought the notes, some of them taking as small amounts as $5,000 each.

J. P. Morgan & Co. purchased $2,000,000 at 4.975.

The biggest purchase was $10,000,000 at 4.85. It was made by Albert L. Judson of Albany. The smallest two bids accepted were those of Edmond and Charles Randolph of New York and Gene C. Rogers of Albany—$1,000 each, the first at 4.75, the second at 4.9.

The Morgan bid was exceeded by that of the Guaranty Trust Company, which was $2,568,000 at 4.985. Another purchase in seven figures was made by Eyer & Co. of New York. It was $1,000,000 at 4.98.

The bids which were accepted and the rate of interest to be paid by the State for the use of the money until February follow:

The proceeds of the notes will be used to meet highway and canal construction obligations. The issue of short-term notes by the State was made necessary by reason of the conodition of the bond market.

TENNESSEE GOVERNOR HERE

Comes to Place $10,500,000 Refunding State Bonds.

Gov. Ben W. Hooper, the Republican Chief Executive of Tennessee, who is serving his second term after thirty years of Democratic rule in that State, arrived in this city yesterday with members of the Funding Board to attend to the preliminaries of selling $10,500,000 of Tennessee bonds. His colleagues are State Treasurer W. P. Nickerson, Secretary of State R. R. Sneed, and T. N. Greer, counsel of the board.

"The bonds we are arranging to sell are not for the purpose of adding to our indebtedness," Gov. Hooper said. "They are securities with which we will refund all of the outstanding indebtedness of the State, which amounts to $10,500,000. This debt was originally $16,000,000. They are forty-year bonds drawing 4 per cent., and bids are to be opened in Nashville June 17. There is no stipulation that they must be sold at par. The percentage of our State's indebtedness as compared with our taxable wealth was six and four-tenths in 1883, when the original bonds were issued. It is now one and one-tenths per cent."

Several social courtesies were extended to the distinguished visitors, but Gov. Hooper said he had to decline all invitations, as the trip was solely a business one. He expects to return to-morrow or Saturday. The party is stopping at the Hotel McAlpin.

Railroad Indicted for Rebating.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, June 5.—Twenty indictments, charging rebating, were returned by the Grand Jury in the United States District Court here this afternoon against the Grand Trunk Western Railway Company. It was alleged that the company made illegal concessions on freight shipments between Adrian, Mich., and Newark, Ohio.

SHOE MACHINE THREATS.

Trust Would Not Let Rival "Make a Dollar," Officers Testify.

BOSTON, June 5.—"Nothing but the blue sky," was the description Sidney W. Winslow, President of the United Shoe Machinery Company, gave of what was in store for Frank W. Merrick and Clarence S. Luitweiler after they had refused to sell out to him, according to the testimony to-day of Mr. Luitweiler in the Government's dissolution proceedings against the United.

Mr. Luitweiler is Treasurer and Mr. Merrick President of the Union Lock Stitch Company of East Boston, which is manufacturing stitching machines in competition with the United. Both testified that they met Mr. Winslow at a hotel in Boston in 1905 and were told by him after they had refused to sell: "I'll see that you will never make a dollar."

Merrick testified that he regarded it as a business bluff, a threat. He said Mr. Winslow asked him how much money he had. When told that he had enough to get along on, Winslow, according to the witness, said he would make Merrick's machines.

"You know what happened to Parsons of Marlboro, don't you?" asked Winslow, according to Merrick's testimony. "Well, we tried to buy him, but he refused, and we made his machines and put them out at a less price than he could build them."

Luitweiler testified that Mr. Winslow then walked over to the window and, looking out, said to him and his companion:

"Do you see what you have before you? Nothing but the blue sky. This is like a game of roulette. Your proposition will stop before me some day."

When asked in cross-examination by Charles F. Choate, counsel for the defense, if he had any feeling in the matter, Merrick replied:

"Possibly. There are a few things that stick in my memory, as they would in yours, Mr. Choate, if some one had throttled you."

Merrick testified that he had had difficulty in getting his machines installed in factories and specified the factory of the Excelsior Shoe Company of Portsmouth, Ohio. William S Gregg, special assistant to the United States Attorney General, said he wanted to show that the reason was a demand for a payment of about $7,000 made by the United Company for additional royalties and installation charges when it became known that the stitching machines of the witness were going to be installed side by side with the United machines. The court refused to allow the evidence on that point to go in except through the owners of the factory.

It was a physical impossibility last year to equip a factory in this country with a full line of shoe machinery other than the United, according to the testimony of Warren F. McElroy, a shoe manufacturer of St. Louis and Milwaukee.

George R. Harsh, President and general manager of the Harsh & Edmonds Shoe Company of Milwaukee, testified to what James A. Fowler, assistant to the United States Attorney General, sought to show was in the nature of a threat by General Manager Sydney W. Wilson of the United.

"I was trying to get some tricking machines from other sources than the United," said Harsh. "Mr. Wilson told me it would be better for me if I ceased my activity."

Regarding the bill of particulars requested by the defense as to threats and other unlawful acts, Judge Putnam ruled to-day that the Government would have to specify instances where it charged the defendant had threatened to exercise its power over banks and trust companies to ruin shoe manufacturers.

TO ENTERTAIN DR. MULLER.

Manufacturer's Export Association to Receive Brazilian Minister.

The American Manufacturers' Export Association, of which Secretary of Commerce Redfield was President until a short time ago, will be the only New York trade organization to entertain Dr. Lauro Muller, the Brazilian Minister of Foreign Affairs, who is coming to this country as the guest of the Government. Dr. M. de Moreira, President of the association and Chairman of the committee, announced these plans for Dr. Muller's reception:

"On the day of Dr. Muller's arrival in New York City we will take him and his party on an automobile ride through the business and residential sections of New York. This will be followed by a luncheon at the Hotel Plaza. At this luncheon we will present him with a gold memento of the occasion. Just what this will be it is impossible to say at this time. The Brazilian Ambassador and officers of State, Gov. Sulzer, and Mayor Gaynor will be among the guests. Dr. Muller will stay in New York but three days, and on the other days the Government's programme for his entertainment will be followed."

The Reception Committee of the association consists of Dr. M. de Moreira, Chairman; W. L. Green of the American Bank Note Company; J. Claudet, American Bank Note Company; W. H. Marshall, American Locomotive Company; C. M. Muchnic, American Locomotive Company; Alva B. Johnson, Baltimore Locomotive Company; William de Kraft, Baltimore Locomotive Company; F. R. Thorns, John Boyle Company; M. A. Baldwin, Otis Elevator Company; R. J. Easton, A. & F. Brown Company; O. W. Smith, Parke, Davis & Co.; W. J. Marsden, Yale & Towne Manufacturing Company; J. F. Burt, Standard Varnish Works; James A. Farrell, the United States Steel Corporation; C. W. Crause, J. A. Roebling Sons' Company; A. N. Hargrave, J. G. Brill Company; L. B. Albin, the Ingersoll-Rand Company; W. E. Leigh, the Western Electric Company; Myron C. Taylor, the International Cotton Mills Corporation; M. A. Oudin, General Electric Company; J. Ma Mennendez, the H. B. Claflin Company, and E. J. Buckner and W. Landis of the E. I. Du Pont de Nemours Powder Company.

RECORD DRY GOODS TRADE.

Chicago Wholesale Houses Report Largest Business in Their History.

CHICAGO, June 5.—Wholesale dry goods houses in Chicago have done the largest business in their history during the last week. Hundreds of out-of-town merchants are here, and all the big wholesale concerns say that buying is so heavy that it has been impossible to fill orders promptly. One of the large wholesale houses sent this notice to customers:

"If you have not received your purchases promptly, please bear with us. The largest number of merchants buying and the greatest number of transactions in our history have made it impossible to serve you as we would like."

SIDELIGHTS ON SELLING.

To keep the blacking from coming off on the hands of the operator and to prevent streaked and soiled copies, a carbon sheet with a white border has been put on the market here. It is said to be a distinct improvement over the ordinary copying paper.

American women are beginning to imitate the French to a certain extent in the matter of monocles. Several women were seen in Fifth Avenue yesterday wearing monocles suspended from the neck by a broad silk ribbon.

Among the novelties introduced for women this season is a corset steel contrived so as to permit all the books of that garment to be unfastened at once. A small lever arrangement does the work.

Low heels and long receding toes will be worn on pumps for women in the Fall.

CONSULAR TRADE NOTES.

Chinese engineers under the direction of Jick G. Wong, an American trained engineer, have been in Hongkong for some time making arrangements for commencing the survey of an automobile truck road in Kwangtung Province, which is designated as a feeder for the Kwangtung section of the Canton-Hankow Railway.

Exports of frozen meat from Uruguay so far this season include: Quarters frozen beef, 90,509; quarters chilled beef, 315; carcasses mutton, 125,464; carcasses lamb, 11,239. Thirteen thousand boxes of apples were recently received at Montevideo from Australia on one steamer.

The Italian Government has ordered the construction of two more sections of the complementary narrow-guage railroads provided for by the royal decree of July 12, 1906. One six-mile section, to run from San Carlo to Caltabellotta via Burgio, in Province of Girgenti, will cost $225,000.

IN THE BUSINESS WORLD

Trade Publishers to Meet Here.

The eighth annual convention of the Federation of Trade Press Associations in the United States will be held here in the Hotel Astor on Sept. 18, 19, and 20. Journals of more than seventy-five trades, industries, and professions will be represented at the meeting. Their united capital is some $35,000,000. The Committee on Arrangements consists of W. H. Ukers, Chairman; J. C. Oswald, E. A. Simmons, E. R. Shaw, P. H. Litchfield, H. G. Lord, Grant Wright, M. C. Robbins, R. H. McCready, F. D. Porter, A. W. Clark, F. F. Cutler, and W. W. Gale. The annual dinner of the federation will be given in the north ballroom of the Astor on Sept. 19.

⁂

An Efficient Wheelbarrow.

One of the latest implements to eliminate waste motion is a forward-dumping wheelbarrow, according to The Engineering News. It was made primarily for concrete work and similar purposes.

⁂

A New Letter Opener.

A new letter opener about the size of an ordinary typewriter and operated by electricity from an ordinary light socket is now on sale. One inexperienced girl can open as many letters with this machine as ten skilled girls can open by hand. The average rate is 200 or more envelopes a minute. The feed rolls grip the letter as it leaves the hands of the operator, pass it on in proper position to rapidly revolving circular knives, which are so arranged that they will cut only a shaving of 1-100 of an inch from the folded edge of the envelope.

Raw Silk Tendency Upward.

Japanese raw silks have again advanced at Yokohama. This time the rise is confined principally to the lower and medium grades, which have gone up 15 to 20 yen. Some good business has been done at the new rates, and there is a belief that further advances are not far off. Stocks there are now reduced to 1,250 bales; sales for the week totaled 5,200 bales. There has been little change at Milan, Shanghai, and Canton in the last week. Local buying is now waiting only for the settlement of the operatives' strike.

BUSINESS NOTES.

R. J. Rendall & Co., commission merchants and importers, will take new quarters at 248 Fourth Avenue on June 23. They now have offices at 469 Broome Street.

Beginning Tuesday, the wash goods department of the H. B. Claflin Company will hold a clearance sale of these goods. Both specially bought and regular merchandise will be offered.

Webster, Aaron & Co., makers of waists and dresses, 121 West Seventeenth Street, will move about July 1 to new quarters in the building at 1 East Thirty-third Street. In its new home the firm will occupy about twice the space of its present quarters.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the National Credit Office has been postponed until June 30. The offices of the concern are at 50 Union Square.

The Dayton Chamber of Commerce is sending out notices to similar bodies and trade associations in other cities warning them of fake sales of goods supposed to be salvaged from the recent Miami Valley floods. They ask, also, for information regarding the parties holding the sales, the amount mentioned and the name of the Dayton firm whose goods are supposed to be on sale.

BUSINESS TROUBLES.

EDWARD T. DANGLER.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Edward T. Dangler, a tailor at 4 Barclay Street, by these creditors: Joseph Abrahams, $247; Beckermann & Co., $188, and F. H. Calcott & Co., $233. It is alleged that he was insolvent and made preferential payments. Liabilities are $2,200 and assets $1,000. He began this business in July, 1912, and had to contend with building operations on the opposite side of the street and alteration of the show window to put it within the house line.

CHARLES LEDIARD.—Charles Lediard of 1 Broadway has filed a petition in bankruptcy with liabilities $1,505 and assets $385 in a judgment. He was, it is said, an officer in the Twenty-third Regiment of Brooklyn, has three military uniforms, cape, and sword valued at $100, which are exempt. Among the creditors are the Wright & Cobb Lighterage Company, $440, and Julia L. Jentz, $500.

MARKUS LESSIN.—Markus Lessin of 2,089 Vyse Avenue, Bronx, formerly a grocer, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities $2,324 and no assets.

MAX J. HANCEL.—Max J. Hancel, an insurance agent of 1,384 Boston Road, the Bronx, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities $761 and no assets. He owes the Bronx Borough Bank $20 and the Northern Bank $6.

TUCKER FEEDER COMPANY.—Schedules in bankruptcy of the Tucker Feeder Company, automatic press feeders of 61 Park Row, show liabilities $75,128, and assets $44,018, consisting of stock, $22,750; bills receivable, $9,927; accounts, $211; office furniture, $87; cash in banks, $43; machinery, $1,000, which cost $28,647, and patents, $10,000, which cost $129,120. Among the creditors are John Cunningham of Galloway, Tenn., President of the company, $11,588; E. U. Holder, Memphis, Tenn., $13,595; J. A. Crisler, Memphis, $13,312; T. E. Cooper, Jackson, Miss., $8,132, and also the above four men together $15,000 for money loaned on Jan. 24, 1913, and the Rosemark Bank and Trust Company of Brunswick, Tenn., $1,459, secured.

JOSEPH HAAG,
Secretary, Board of Estimate and Apportionment.

AN UNUSUALLY CAPABLE HOUSEWIFE and mother suffered a breakdown through the strain of maintaining and caring for her family during a period of unemployment on the part of the father. He is again at work, but earning too little to properly support his wife and five children. The physicians insist that she must have a complete rest, with peace of mind, for some weeks, or there will be a complete breakdown, with danger of the breaking up of the family. Provision must be made for some one in the home to care for the five children during the mother's absence, as well as for her board while in the country. The New York Section of the Council of Jewish Women appeals for $100 to keep this home and family on the plane in which the mother has so far maintained it. The money will be applied to country board for the mother and provision for the children during her absence. Contributions should be sent to the New York Section of the Council of Jewish Women, 448 Central Park West.

COMMODITIES MARKETS

Wheat met heavy selling pressure late in the session and final prices were ¼c higher to ⅛c lower. Corn closed ¼c net higher while oats final prices were ⅛ to ⅜c net lower. Cotton closing prices were steady and 26 to 28 points net higher on the old crop and 9 to 13 points net higher on new crop positions.

⁂

WHEAT.

The opening tendency of the wheat market was somewhat lower, owing to reports of heavy rains in Canada and showers in Kansas, but after selling off ¼@⅜c under the previous night, the market turned strong and advanced practically a cent a bushel. This was in response to a renewal of bullish Kansas reports including a private estimate of only 70 millions for Kansas and 15 millions for Oklahoma. The Winnipeg and Minneapolis markets showed considerable weakness early on the rain news, but rallied later. Late in the day heavy selling occurred, based on a belief that crop damage news had been exaggerated and prices worked off about ⅝ from top, closing ¼c higher to ⅛c lower. It was reported that upward of 600,000 bushels had been taken by exporters in the last ten days, most of it Winter wheat for Portugal, taking advantage of a reduction in duty. Fresh sales for the day were reported of 12½ loads Winter at Chicago, and 18¼ loads at Duluth. The Southwestern forecast was for showers. The first hedging sales against new crop wheat were made in July yesterday. Advices from Minneapolis were to the effect that country receipts were good, especially through Southern Minnesota with prospects that they will increase at Minneapolis shortly. Duluth reported a much better demand for cash wheat, and sales at Chicago for prompt shipment were between 400 and 500 thousand bushels. European markets were generally lower, although some of the crop reports from Russia and Hungary were unfavorable. No. 1 Northern Duluth in the local market was quoted at $1.00½, free on board, afloat.

CORN.

Corn had an easier opening but quickly rallied, and during the forenoon sold up ⅝c above the previous night. The crop news was generally favorable, but country offerings were not so large as expected and were being absorbed by fairly active cash demand. The market held very firm up to the last hour, when realizing caused a moderate setback, the close being ¼c net higher. The estimate for Argentine shipments was 5,525,000 bushels, compared with 5,899,000 bushels the previous week, which accounted for a decline of ⅛ to ¼d at Liverpool. Export corn in the local market was still entirely nominal at about 66¾c, free on board, afloat.

OATS.

After an early decline of ⅛ to ¼c, the oats market became weak and sold off ⅝ to ⅞c under the previous night, from which it recovered sharply. Receipts continued heavy, and stocks are accumulating. Cash oats locally were quoted as follows: Standard white, 46¾c; No. 2 white, 47¼c; No. 3 white, 46¼c; No. 4 white, 45¼c; ordinary clipped white, 45¼@46¾c; fancy clipped white, 47¼@47¾c, all elevator.

PROVISIONS.

The provision list showed early weakness under continued liberal hog receipts, but in the afternoon was firmer on support from commission houses and covering of shorts. Receipts at Chicago were 30,000 hogs, with 19,000 expected on Friday. Kansas City had 8,000, Omaha 8,800, and all Western points about 107,000.

COTTON.

The cotton market was more active yesterday, particularly in the old crop months, and the feature was the strength of July contracts, which increased their premium over October from 40 points at the close on Wednesday to about 58 points, as shown at one time in yesterday's late trading. The final tone was steady and last prices were 26 to 28 points net higher on the old crop and 9 to 13 points net higher on new crop positions.

One of the local brokers bought fully 15,000 bales of July during the first hour against sales of new crop months, and there was also an active demand for July from foreign and local houses who were supposed to be selling against it in Liverpool. This demand, combined with continued shipments from the local stock, seemed to alarm the scattering short interest, which had probably been increased last week, and July advanced rapidly. New crop positions responded rather slowly to the old crop strength. There were reports of insect damage from the cut worm in Arkansas, and from grasshoppers in South Texas, and there were also scattering reports that lower temperatures and showers would be beneficial in the Western belt. No very important offerings were encountered, however, until July contracts reached 11.79 and October 11.21 and the general list showed gains of from 11 to 32 points. Above 11.75 for July there was some Eastern belt selling, supposed to be against low-grade cotton, while there were increased offerings of the new crop around 11.20 for October. Southern spot markets officially reported were unchanged to ⅛c higher, and Norfolk reported rather heavy sales for this season of the year. The local stock of certificated cotton has now been reduced to about 50,000 bales, and some operators think that a continuation of the outward movement will lead to a readjustment of the parity between New York and Liverpool.

The local market for spot cotton was quiet and 20 points higher, at 11.90 for middling upland; sales nil; delivered on contract, 100 bales.

The range of contract prices in the local market was as follows:

	High.	Low.	Close.	Prev. Close.
June	11.70	11.45	11.66@11.67	11.38

COTTONSEED OIL.

A good demand for July by refiners steadied up near positions during the day, helped by the strength in lard and cotton, but late positions had very little support, and were inclined to sell off. Final prices were 2 points higher to 3 points net lower.

The range of contract prices in the local market was as follows:

	High.	Low.	Close.	Prev. Close.

COFFEE.

Coffee opened steady at 15 to 18 points up, but around midday declined rapidly to 3 to 5 points below the previous close. Havre also sagged at the close. A moderate rally set in, and the close was 3 to 5 points higher on total sales of 86,000 bags. The demand for cost and freight coffee was very inactive, and on the spot trading was dull and easy, with 10⅝c for Rio 7. Contract prices follow:

MISCELLANEOUS MARKETS.

BEEF.—There were no local changes yesterday in the prices of Western beef cuts.

SUGAR.—The local refined sugar market was quiet, with buying scattered and prices unchanged. The raw sugar market was more active than on Wednesday, but prices were not varied. London reported the beet sugar market lower at 9s. 3d. for June, 9s. 4½d. for July, and 9s. 6½d. for August.

MOLASSES AND SYRUPS.—This market was generally featureless yesterday.

RICE.—Buying was inactive in the rice market, but prices showed no change.

FLOUR AND MEAL.—There was little feature to this market yesterday. Buyers continued to refuse the prices asked by the mills.

OILS.—American linseed oil was reported slightly weaker; otherwise this market showed nothing that was new.

NAVAL STORES.—Turpentine again dropped a half cent, this time to 39 cents. Resin and tar, however, showed no change.

Green Turtle Soup Ingredient Comes In Free—Other Decisions.

The Board of United States General Appraisers yesterday overruled a protest by Fensterer & Ruhe and others against the assessment by Collector Loeb on gas or lamp burners for inverted lights. Duty was taken at 45 per cent. ad valorem under Paragraph 199, Tariff act of 1909, as manufactures in chief value of metal. The importers asked 40 per cent. under Paragraph 158, which provides for hollow ware. The board held that as the burners have such diverse parts as magnesia tips, brass tubes, regulating devices, &c., they belong for dutiable purposes under the metal schedule.

It was decided by the board that merchandise invoiced as dried turtle skins, imported by Walter C. T. Smith, used in the preparation of green turtle soup, was properly free of duty, as contended by the importers under Paragraph 512, which provides for integuments of fish. The skins were taxed 25 per cent. ad valorem under Paragraph 286, act of 1909, as prepared meats not specially provided for.

C. H. Wyman & Co. of St. Louis lost on granite lanterns and frogs, taxed 50 per cent. ad valorem under Paragraph 114 of the present law, as manufactures of granite. The importers asked to pay 20 per cent. on unenumerated manufactured goods, or at 10 or 20 per cent. under Paragraph 481.

Jamaica—Panama Canal
Our low Summer rates to Jamaica and the Panama Canal are in effect until Oct. 1.
They offer a splendid opportunity of seeing the wonders of the great enterprise at Panama at little expense.
Summer climate there is delightfully cool and even—from 74° to 84°. Our big, cool steamers are the only ones sailing from any American port designed and constructed specially for service in the tropics.
The staterooms are all outside, unusually large, bright and comfortable, and many have connecting private baths.
Powerful blowers on the promenade decks force the cool, invigorating air from the sea into all staterooms, social halls and dining rooms.

5,000 ORPHANS HAVE HAPPY AUTO DAY

Parade to Glen Island in 344 Machines and Enjoy Outing—Newark Routes.

Some 5,000 orphans, inmates of all the twenty-five institutions in this city, enjoyed their annual automobile outing yesterday under the auspices of the Orphans' Automobile Day Association. It required 344 motor vehicles of all kinds and descriptions to transport the children from the lower end of Central Park up Broadway and over to Glen Island, where they had luncheon and also visited all the various amusement places at that resort, returning to town, tired but happy, in time for supper.

In the long column of vehicles filled almost to overflowing with shouting and singing boys and girls, both black and white, were automobile trucks loaned by business houses, sight-seeing automobiles, taxicabs, touring cars furnished by owners, and dozens of vehicles of various kinds which represented the generosity of "Automobile Row." Every child in every conveyance along the solid line from Seventy-second to Fifty-ninth Streets on the West Drive of the Park waved a little American flag with energetic enthusiasm before the start. From the time it got under way about 10 o'clock until Glen Island was reached the parade was one continual "joy ride" in the better sense. The general jubilation was increased by a big steam calliope which preceded the procession on a truck.

The luncheon was donated, and after games and music, the waiting motors brought the youngsters back.

Yesterday's outing was the eighth annual affair which the association has managed, and was considerably the largest in point of numbers, both of children and cars. The time and effort which had been expended in making it possible by S. A. Miles, the association's President; "Senator" W. J. Morgan, W. S. Silver, Frank J. Griffin, John J. Korbel, R. H. Smith, H. A. Bonnell, Paul B. Pugh, and others of its officers and Directors, was more than repaid, however, by the delight which the day in the country under perfect June skies brought to the thousands of orphaned "kiddies."

By far the most frequent question asked of Robert Bruce, manager of the A. A. A. touring bureau, is about comparative road conditions on the two principal connections from New York to Newark, used by a majority of tourists from the Metropolis, New England, and Long Island, to the South and West. Up to this time work on the Plank Road, now being made into a wide boulevard, has been so far from complete that most of the travel has crossed the meadows by the Turnpike, but the middle section of the first-named route is now finished and gives such excellent surface the greater part of the way that it will average the better of the two.

However, neither the east nor the west approach is complete, and both should be taken cautiously, especially on the Newark end, where a considerable stretch of old planks must still be driven over, at the risk of injury to tires. Much travel still follows the old Turnpike, despite its worn surface, especially en route to the Oranges, through Central Avenue, Newark. The building of a new bridge across the Passaic River from Harrison into Bridge Street, Newark, requires traffic to use an inconveniently placed temporary bridge. Both bridges on the Plank Road, over the Passaic and Hackensack Rivers, are comparatively new and in excellent shape, with wide driveways and smooth block pavement.

KESNER PRICES HIGH.

Between 75 and 80 Cents on the Dollar of Cost Realized by Auctioneer.

Prices ranging around 75 and 80 cents on the dollar of cost were realized yesterday at the auction of the stock of the J. L. Kesner Company, according to the auctioneer, Charles Shongood, and a general high level of prices was maintained. In the case of a sale of a large lot of buttons, for example, the auctioneer said, the prices realized were so high that one local merchant proposed in all seriousness to furnish a duplicate stock from his own store for the auctioneer to sell.

Real laces brought 75 cents on the dollar of cost. Lace coats which had cost $40 wholesale and which retailed at some $60, were sold for $27.50. In the glove sale Kayser kid gloves which cost $8.50 a dozen wholesale and retailed at $1 a pair brought 60 cents a pair at the auction, or about 80 cents on the dollar of cost. Yesterday 1,250 pairs of these gloves were sold at 60 cents a pair. One bidder offered $5,200 for the entire stock of gloves, but when the stock was auctioned off in lots it brought $8,331. Gloves that retailed at $2 a pair brought $1.15 a pair. Woolen gloves that retailed at 50 and 75 cents brought 35 cents a pair. Several lots of woolen gloves were sold as low as 5 and 6 cents a pair, but these, it was explained, were misfits and odd lots.

Laces that cost $3 a yard wholesale and retailed at from $4.50 to $5 a yard brought $1.75 to $2 a yard at the auction.

To show the level of prices brought at the previous day's sales, it was said that hosiery that retailed at 50 cents a pair and cost $4 a dozen wholesale was sold at the auction at 22 cents a pair; $1.50 and $2 hose, which retailed at $12 and $15 a dozen, brought 80 cents a pair. Umbrellas that cost $36 a dozen and retailed at $4.95 brought $2.50. Leather bags brought 50 cents on the dollar of cost. Pittsburgh typewriters that cost $15 wholesale brought $11. The lowest prices, according to the auctioneer, were fetched by crockery, which brought about 40 cents on the dollar of cost on Monday.

Although only the laces, embroideries, gloves, and some of the handkerchiefs were sold up to a late hour yesterday afternoon, the auctioneer said he hoped to sell all or most of the goods on the first floor before the day was over. The auction will continue for the rest of this week and most of next week.

Among the buyers represented at yesterday's sale were the Globe Merchandise Company of Indianapolis, the Maddix Company, Batterman Brothers of Brooklyn, the Boston Store of Chicago, Edwards & Sons of Syracuse, Rosenblum & Son of Syracuse, Furst & Co. of Newark, the Houghton-Dutton Company of Boston, and the Greenhut-Siegel Cooper Company.

ASKS MORE FOR CONSULS

And Chamber of Commerce Favors Better Embassy Dwellings.

The Chamber of Commerce at its regular monthly meeting yesterday, the last to be held until October, adopted a resolution presented by the Committee on Foreign Commerce urging Congress to pass legislation permitting the purchase or erection of proper dwellings for embassies abroad and to provide suitable salaries for consuls for the purpose of placing the United States on an equal footing with other nations. It was resolved, further, that efforts be made to place the consular service under Civil Service rules.

A resolution was also adopted that Congress be asked to take steps toward an adequate regulation of inland waters for the prevention of floods like that which devasted the Middle West last March.

President John Claflin announced this committee to arrange for the 145th annual banquet of the Chamber on Nov. 20 next: William A. Nash, Robert Bacon, John Sinclair, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and Mortimer Schiff. A letter from the Chamber of Commerce of Tokio was read in which thanks were expressed to the local Chamber for its attitude toward the Land bill in question in California.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Pressure is now considerably above the normal over the west portion of the Atlantic Ocean and the east portion of the United States, and it is low over the Plains States and the Southwest. This pressure distribution is causing a continuance of warm weather in the Mississippi Valley, the Plains States, and the South, while moderate temperatures for the season prevail in the Northeastern States and over the Rocky Mountain and Plateau regions. There were light rains within the last twenty-four hours in the South Atlantic and East Gulf States, the Upper Mississippi Valley, the Plains States, and the Rocky Mountain region.

In all other parts of the country the weather remained fair.

A disturbance that now covers the Plains States will advance eastward and be attended by unsettled weather and thunder showers Friday in the Mississippi and Ohio Valleys and the South, and Saturday or Saturday night in the Middle Atlantic States and New England.

Over the Plains States and the Rocky Mountain region the weather will be generally fair Friday and Saturday.

The weather will be somewhat warmer in the North Atlantic States, the Ohio Valley Friday, while cooler weather will overspread the northwest and the Upper Mississippi Valley Friday and the Middle Plains States, the Middle Mississippi Valley, and the upper lake region Saturday.

No important temperature changes are indicated for the Southern States and the region west of the Rocky Mountains during the next forty-eight hours.

Winds along the New England Coast will be light south and southwest; Middle Atlantic Coast moderate south; South Atlantic Coast, light to modrate east and southeast.

Steamships departing Friday for European ports will have moderate south and southwest winds and fair weather to the Grand Banks.

FORECASTS FOR TO-DAY AND SATURDAY.

Eastern New York and Southern New England—Fair Friday. Saturday, unsettled, probably followed by showers; moderate south winds.

New Jersey and Eastern Pennsylvania—Fair Friday. Saturday, increasing cloudiness, probably showers; light to moderate south winds.

Western New York—Increasing cloudiness and warmer Friday, probably followed by showers by night and on Saturday; moderate south winds.

Northern New England—Fair and somewhat warmer Friday. Saturday, increasing cloudiness followed by showers; light to moderate south and southwest winds.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at midnight, taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

	1912.	1913.		1912.	1913.
3 A. M.	66	60	4 P. M.	74	72
6 A. M.	68	57	6 P. M.	72	66
9 A. M.	64	65	9 P. M.	66	60
12 M.	67	70	11 P. M.	65	60

This thermometer is 414 feet above the street level. The average temperature yesterday was 66; for the corresponding date last year it was 68; average on the corresponding date for the last thirty-three years, 66.

The temperature at 8 A. M. yesterday was 60; at 8 P. M. it was 61. Maximum temperature, 76 degrees at 3:15 P. M.; minimum, 57 degrees at 6 A. M. Humidity, 52 per cent. at 8 A. M.; 72 per cent. at 8 P. M.

The barometer at 8 A. M. yesterday registered 30.18 inches; at 8 P. M. it stood at 30.21 inches.

THE MORRIS PARK SALE.

Half the Lots Disposed Of—Total Amount Received, $1,631,000.

More than half of the 3,019 lots comprising the Morris Park tract, have been sold. Yesterday 250 lots were sold for $228,900, an average of $915 each. The sales brought the grand total for five days up to 1,556 lots. For these $1,631,000 has been received, an average of $1,048. The half way mark was reached when Isaac Epstein bought in two lots in Paulding Avenue, south of Van Nest Avenue. The announcement was greeted with a cheer.

The crowd last night was the largest since the opening of the auction sale on Saturday. At one time fully 1,000 persons were at the grounds. The evening session, as a result, was continued until nearly 10:30 o'clock. There were no exceptionally large sales to individuals yesterday. J. C. Tomlinson, a lawyer of 15 Broad Street, was one of the heaviest investors. He bid in ten lots, forming the block front on the south side of Neil Avenue, between Williamsbridge Road and Munroe Avenue, for $10,900. John C. Schofield purchased two lots on Williamsbridge Road just south of Neil Avenue at $1,075 each. J. Romaine Brown & Co. are his agents.

It was announced last night that the old Morris Park clubhouse and the lots on which it stands would be offered for sale on Saturday. An interesting feature of the afternoon session yesterday was the sale of the lot which marked the finish line of the old race track. It was at the southeast corner of Van Nest and Bogart Avenues. After lively bidding it went to Frederick Schnaufer of the Bronx for $1,700.

THE CIVIL SERVICE.

City.

The Municipal Civil Service Commission has made public the competitive eligible list for firemen. There are 1,404 names on it. The first 200 eligibles will be appointed at once. The examination was held on Jan. 29. There were 1,681 applicants. The letters "N. Q." after a name signify that although on the eligible list, for some technical reason the applicant has "not qualified." The first 200 in the list are as follows, with their ratings:

United States.

The United States Civil Service Commission announces an open competitive examination for interpreter, for men only, to be held in this city on June 18 and 19, to fill a vacancy in the place of interpreter of Finnish and Swedish, or Dano-Norwegian, at $1,200 per annum, in the immigration service at Ellis Island, and vacancies as they may occur in places requiring similar qualifications. It is desired to obtain persons qualified in Finnish and one of the other above-named languages to fill the vacancy in the place for which this examination is held, but persons who qualify in a smaller number of the languages will have their names entered on the register for consideration in connection with other vacancies in the service as they may occur. The language tests will be given on the first day and the remaining subjects on the second day.

Competitors will be examined in language, spelling, arithmetic, letter writing, penmanship, and copying from plain copy. Age, 18 years or over on the date of the examination.

Further particulars may be obtained from the United States Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Private Dwellings a Feature of the Market—Manhattan Avenue Flat Traded—Archer M. Huntington to Build a $100,000 Addition to the St. George Hotel in Brooklyn.

The realty market produced few transactions of general interest yesterday. On the west side several private dwellings were disposed of to investors, while in the Grand Central Station section one old house was leased to protect the light and air of the big twenty-story structure at the southwest corner of Forty-second Street and Madison Avenue, owned by the Johnson Billings Brady syndicate.

The property leased is a four-story structure on a lot 26 by 49.4, known as 23 East Forty-first Street, and owned by Mrs. Maud Marshall of Orange, Va. The lease is for a term of twenty-one years, at an aggregate rental of $125,000. Recently the syndicate leased 306 to 310 Madison Avenue to protect its building.

The Private Dwelling Market.

Samuel A. Herzog has purchased from Adam K. Luke 338 West Eighty-eighth Street, a four-story and basement dwelling, on a lot 21 by 100.8.

Julius H. Seymour, who owns the three dwellings at 304 to 308 West Eighty-sixth Street, between Riverside Drive and West End Avenue, is reported to have enlarged his holdings at that point by the purchase of 310, adjoining, a four-story dwelling on lot 20 by 102.2. He is also understood to have negotiations well advanced for the purchase of 312. No. 310 is owned by F. Lebowitz, and 312 by Mrs. E. Martin.

A client of the Douglas Robinson, Charles S. Brown Company has purchased from George M. Stumpp 65 East Ninety-first Street, a three-story dwelling on lot 19 by 100.8, and from Philip Voss the adjoining and similar house at 67. The buyer plans to alter the houses for his own occupancy.

John J. O'Keefe sold 7 East 124th Street, a three-story and basement dwelling, on lot 20x100.11. O'Keefe bought the property at the auction sale of the estate of Thomas T. Newman.

John J. Kavanagh has resold for William E. Finn to a client for occupancy 1,134 Madison Avenue, between Eighty-fourth and Eighty-fifth Streets, a four-story and basement dwelling on a lot 20 by 70.

Manhattan Avenue Flat Traded.

The six-story elevator apartment 27 and 29 Manhattan Avenue has been sold by E. P. Crisman to Mrs. Pauline Valentine. In part payment the buyer gave a dwelling and two acres of ground at Glen Head, L. I. The deal involves about $65,000. Burton Thompson negotiated the transaction.

Bronx Borough Sales.

Ernst & Cahn have resold to the Taxpayers' Realty Company the northwest corner of 169th Street and Webster Avenue, a plot 97 by 100. The new purchaser will improve same with two five-story new law apartments with stores.

A builder has purchased from Edward Palmer the northeast corner of Southern Boulevard and Willis Avenue, a plot 85 by 100 by irregular.

Brooklyn.

Wood, Harmon & Co. have sold at Kingsboro one lot on East Twenty-fourth Street, between Avenues P and Q, to George H. Leonard, and two lots on Ocean Avenue, between Avenues R and S, to Mrs. Maud McGuire; at Rugby, one lot on East Fifty-third Street, between Clarkson Avenue and Lenox Road, to Dr. W. W. Reynolds, and at Kensington Park, one lot on East Second Street, near Franklin Avenue, to W. Jay Russell.

$200,000 Brooklyn Apartments.

Shampan & Shampan are preparing plans for three five-story high-class apartment houses to be erected on a plot of 125 by 125, on the northwest corner of Lee Avenue and Hewes Street, for I. Haft of Manhattan. The cost of the buildings is estimated at $200,000. This will be the largest operation in the Bedford section.

Long Island City.

The Cross & Brown Company has sold for Hannah J. Woolley a plot on the south side of Henry Street, 120 feet west of William Street, Long Island City. The buyer, Charles B. Lambert, it is understood, will hold same for investment.

Long Island.

The Windsor Land and Improvement Company sold at Floral Park to C. P. McDermott and W. R. Chapman each a plot 40 by 100 feet on Iris Avenue; to P. C. Crean a plot 40 by 100 on Geranium Avenue; to D. Kelly a plot 45 by 100 on Violet Avenue; to D. J. Johnson a plot 40 by 100 on Crocus Avenue; to N. B. Johnson a plot 40 by 100 on Primrose Avenue; to F. Wille a plot 40 by 100 on Oak Street; to H. J. Flanagan a plot 40 by 100 on Belmont Street; to W. S. O'Brien a plot 190 by 110 by 74 by 100 on Aspen Street and Floral Parkway. The same company sold at Oceanside to H. Klie a plot 20 by 97 feet on Lawson Avenue; to E. Heider a plot 40 by 100 on Hoke Avenue; to E. Hastetter a plot 60 by 100 on Ebert and Messick Avenues; to R. Armstrong a plot 40 by 100 on Perkins Avenue; to G. Kumerle a plot 60 by 100 on Hallman Avenue; to L. Heid a plot 40 by 100 on Anchor Avenue; to G. Cassett a plot 40 by 100 on Merrifield Avenue.

$100,000 Addition to St. George Hotel.

An eight-story addition is to be built to the St. George Hotel, at the corner of Pineapple and Henry Streets, Brooklyn. It will cost about $100,000 and occupy three lots, which were the site of three old dwellings recently razed to make room for the improvement.

The building will have a frontage of seventy-five feet and a depth of 100 feet. There will be over 200 rooms in the new building, which will give the St. George Hotel a total of 2,000 rooms.

New Jersey.

William B. Young has sold for cash to a client of Frederick Zittel & Sons a very large acreage property, with colonial dwelling, barns, etc., at Northvale, Bergen County, N. J. The property adjoins a thousand-acre modern dairy and poultry plant known as the Cedarvale Farms, a large part of which was recently purchased through the same broker, for a New York banker.

Steven B. Ayres has sold for the Wheeler Corporation to Edgar C. Long of Florida four plots on Greenbrook Road, in Plainfield. The plots will be improved by the erection of a residence.

Taendler & Scholz sold a ten-acre farm near Red Bank, N. J., known as "The Swimming River Poultry Farm," for Frank Abe of Eatontown to Joseph Senetra of New York.

Recent Buyers.

Leopold Hellinger is the buyer of the dwelling at 7 East 124th Street, resold by John J. O'Keefe.

Mary M. Ehlers is the buyer of the dwelling at 507 West 149th Street, sold reecntly by Lowenfeld & Prager. The flat at 241 West 125th Street was given in exchange.

To Cut Up Bonner Estate.

A syndicate has purchased from Andrew J. Connick, Max Marx, George R. Read, and others the former estate of Frederick Bonner, known as Oakhurst, at Mamaroneck, on Long Island Sound.

The property consists of about 125 acres of land, and was held at $350,000. The buyers will cut the property up into villa plots.

Archer M. Huntington to Build.

A six-story private dwelling is to be erected on the vacant plot, 40 by 100, on the north side of Eighty-ninth Street, 102.2 feet east of Fifth Avenue, for Archer M. Huntington.

The dwelling has been designed by Ogden Codman, who estimates the cost at $90,000. It will be fireproof, with a façade of brick and limestone, and equipped with an elevator. Mr. Huntington's residence is at 1,083 Fifth Avenue, abutting the lot to be improved.

$500,000 Washington Square Apartment.

Plans have been filed with the Bureau of Buildings for the construction of two elevator apartment houses for the Elena Realty Corporation, Dominick Abbate, President. One will be located on the southeast corner of Thompson Street and Washington Square South, having a frontage of 154 feet and a depth of 71 feet, and accommodation for 113 families, and will be twelve stories high, and cost $500,000.

The other will be located on the northeast corner of Thompson Street and West Third Street, having a frontage of 66.11 feet and a depth of 45.7 feet, seven stories high, with accommodations for thirty families, and to cost $95,000. Both buildings will be fireproof and equipped with elevators. Ogden, Pryor & Day are the architects.

Leases.

A. W. Miller & Co. have leased for the City Real Estate Improvement Company the twenty-five-foot store at 977 Eighth Avenue for a term of years to the Silver Lunch Company. This property, which is part of the 100-foot plot at the northwest corner of Fifty-seventh Street and Eighth Avenue, was recently purchased by the City Real Estate Improvement Company, and after extensive alterations will be occupied as an apartment hotel. The rental for the term in the above lease is $75,000.

Nicholas F. Walsh has leased the store, basement, first and second lofts of 19 and 21 Roosevelt Street for the Garrick estate to Lekas & Drivas, importers, for a term of about ten years.

Realty Notes.

There will be a meeting of the House and Real Estate Owners' Association this evening at the Turn Hall, Eighty-fifth Street and Lexington Avenue.

Morris Park Race Track Auction Sale

Authorized by State of New York Banking Department

that have got to be sold.

No matter what price they bring

They have got to be sold absolutely without reserve or protection.

To Investors:

These lots will make a splendid investment. Directly in the line of the City's Northward Growth. Two Rapid Transit lines with Stations on the property. Two subways being built with a five-cent fare at each side of the property.

It must build up quickly and rise rapidly in value, particularly at the prices for which it is selling. All past experience bears out this conclusion. You cannot possibly lose money.

It is a safe investment. No Board of Directors or new issues of securities to put down the prices. You control it yourself!

There will be no Tariff changes on these Lots!

No legislation can prevent this district from growing. In 1920, 1,000,000 people will live in the Bronx.

This is the time and place to buy.

Don't You See the Opportunity?

Go today! This is the Psychological Time to Get Bargains and Make Money!

ARE YOU GOING TO BE A RENTER AS LONG AS YOU LIVE?

Are you going to bring your children up in congested New York? No, we don't believe you would pay another month's rent if you knew our plan of selling. We want you to see the house we have nearly completed. It has 7 large rooms and bath, and is built on the most modern plan. Stands on plot, 60x116; all City improvements; 5 minutes' walk to 2 railroads; 3 minutes to trolley; commutation $4.85. A beautiful view, good neighborhood; fine surroundings; all one could ask for as a place for a home. We are going to sell this house for $4,800, and we will leave it to your judgment if it isn't more house for the money than you have ever seen. Compare this house with what others are asking $6,000 for.

RICHARD K. FOX HAS EMPLOYES INDICTED

Manager and Cashier of The Police Gazette Are Accused of Theft.

SAID TO COVER SEVEN YEARS

While Specific Complaints Are Small, Assistant District Attorney Puts Sum at $60,000 to $70,000.

George A. Oxx of 448 Seventy-ninth Street, Brooklyn, who, twenty-three years ago, went to work on The Police Gazette as an office boy, and held one position after another until he became manager, was arraigned yesterday before Judge Foster in General Sessions on the charge of robbing his employer, Richard K. Fox, of nine tons of coal. Adolph Chuboda of 412 East Fifth Street, Brooklyn, who has been cashier of The Police Gazette for seven years, was also arraigned on three indictments charging larceny.

Mr. Fox said yesterday that these two employes, whom he trusted implicitly for many years, had together robbed him of a sum which he estimates between $70,000 and $80,000. As manager of the weekly, Oxx has had the supervision of the books kept by Chuboda. The frauds which are alleged to have taken about $80,000 from the business in seven years appear on almost every page of the firm's books, according to Mr. Fox, and could hardly have been missed by the manager when he checked up the cashier's accounts. The specific indictment charges that last November he caused eight or nine tons of coal to be sent to his private residence and charged it to The Police Gazette.

Last month Mr. Fox decided that his system of bookkeeping was behind the times and he engaged Lewis Lubin, an expert accountant of 31 Liberty Street, to install a new system. Mr. Chuboda sent in word that he was sick as soon as Mr. Lubin began to look into his books. Mr. Lubin said yesterday that the irregularities appeared at a glance. After going over the books for the first five months of this year, he reported to Mr. Fox that $7,000 had been stolen in that time.

"Mr. Fox kept two sets of accounts," said Mr. Lubin yesterday. "One was for The Police Gazette and one for his private affairs. The books show that the cashier regularly took out a part of the cash which came in to Mr. Fox from rents and other private affairs. To cover this up he deposited checks payable to The Police Gazette in the private account. Mr. Fox thus received the full amount of his income from his outside interests. Of course he knew approximately how large this part of his income should be and would take notice if it began to fall short. On the other hand, he paid little attention to the bookkeeping for The Police Gazette, leaving that entirely in the hands of Mr. Oxx.

"The frauds in the bookkeeping go back seven years, just when Mr. Chuboda joined the firm. At any time within this period a checking up of the books would have uncovered them."

The three indictments against Chuboda charge that he misappropriated $240.21 on April 15, 1913; $140.99 on April 18, and $90.69 on April 23.

Assistant District Attorney Samuel Koenig told Judge Foster in court that the peculations of the two men would amount to between $60,000 and $70,000. He recommended that in the case of Chuboda bail be fixed at $50,000.

Robert W. May of 44 Court Street, Brooklyn, counsel for Chuboda, argued that such an amount would be prohibitive, and said that, since the amounts which Chuboda was charged with stealing did not total $500, bail of $5,000 should be sufficient. Judge Foster fixed Chuboda's bail at $7,500 and Oxx's at $2,500.

HILL ON NEWELL'S TRAIL.

Says Head of Reclamation Service Is an Incompetent Official.

Special to The New York Times.

ONTARIO, Ore., June 5.—Charging F. H. Newell, head of the Reclamation Service, with being extravagant and incompetent, Louis W. Hill, who is on his way East on a special train, said to-night:

"If the things I say of him are not true I want Mr. Newell to sue me for libel. I have the evidence against him and am ready and willing to present in anay court at any time."

Mr. Hill, after explaining how he had seen hundreds of settlers on reclamation project in Oregon waiting wearily for work to be resumed on irrigation, said that it was a disgrace to the Government.

"The Government owes the people it has invited to go on reclamation lands in Oregon as bonus, and I think it ought to be paid to them. The reclamation service has been slow. There is no hope of reform in this as long as men like Newell are at its head. Engineers employed by the service are as competent as any other engineers, but if things do not go his way he 'cans' the engineer who disagrees with him. They had L. C. Sill picked out to succeed Newell. Now Newell is investigating that man trying to drive him out of the service."

IN COURT ON STRETCHER.

Schoolboy Victim of Gang Is Probably Injured for Life.

A handsome boy with curly black hair and dark eyes was carried in a private ambulance to the Children's Court yesterday afternoon and borne on a stretcher into the private chambers of Justice Hoyt as the complaining witness against three other boys, who, it was charged, had attacked him on March 10, probably maiming him for life.

The boy was 12-year-old Sidney Trilling, who lived with his parents at 447 East Eighty-eighth Street. According to his testimony, he and his brother Louis, 14 years old, were returning home from Public School 77, on East Eighty-first Street, near First Avenue, when, at First Avenue and Eighty-sixth Street, a gang of boys from Public School 66, on East Eighty-eighth Street, near First Avenue, pounced upon them. Louis tried to defend his younger brother, but was knocked down. Three of the gang then struck down Sidney, according to his story, and thereupon kicked him in the groin and side and beat him in the face.

Sidney was so badly injured that he had to be removed to the Sydenham Hospital, on East 116th Street, where he has been since. Dr. M. I. Blank of the hospital staff testified that three operations had been performed in a futile effor to cure the boy, and that an X-ray examination showed his spine was injured and that he must be put in a plaster cast. He is partly paralyzed.

Under the guidance of Louis Trilling, Detective McIntosh of the East Eighty-eighth Street Station went to Public School 66 and there picked out three boys whom Louis charged with attacking him and his brother. The three boys, who were in court yesterday, were John Callahan, 13 years old, of 1,739 Avenue A; Timothy Murphy, 14 years old, of 536 East Eighty-eighth Street, and Albert Ulmer, 13 years old, of 508 East Eighty-seventh Street.

All admitted that they had struck the Trilling boy, but denied that they had kicked him. That, they said, had been done by a fourth boy, whose name they gave, but in whose existence the police have no faith.

Justice Hoyt remanded the three defendants to the care of the Children's Society until June 10. According to officials of the Children's Society the boys have been in custody before as a result of minor offenses.

E. C. Page, Principal of Public School 77, testified in court yesterday that the Trilling boy was one of the mildest and best-behaved in his school.

The mother of the Trilling boy, with a nurse who is attending him, were in the courtroom, as were the mothers of the three young offenders, all four in tears.

MAY BE CLUE TO MURDER.

Bloody Fingerprints on Wall Will Tell if Keys Killed Himself.

Finger prints of a bloody hand on the wall of the furnished room at 585 Third Avenue in which Joseph Keys, 45 years old, was found dead in bed yesterday will determine whether he committed suicide or was slain. Keys's boy was found by a fellow lodger. His throat was slashed from ear to ear, the arteries of both wrists were severed and there were twenty stab wounds in his chest. Beside him was a blood-stained jack knife.

Keys had occupied the room for almost three years, but was a mystery to his landlady, Mrs. Michael Toohey, and to his fellow lodgers. He never divulged his occupation, but always appeared to be plentifully supplied with money. He was eccentric and had a habit of picking up manila paper bags in the streets and preserving them for some unknown purpose.

Recently he told his landlady that he was separater from his family and that he had experienced much trouble. Among his effects were found a number of much thumbed volumes, including Marie Corelli's "Romance of Two Worlds" and "The Life of Samuel Johnson." eH once stated that he had a sum of money on deposit at the Title Guarantee and Trust Company. Only four cents were found in his pocket.

Michael Toohey told the police that early yesterday morning he was aroused by a noise, and upon investigation found a stranger asleep in the hallway outside of the room occupied by Keys. The man's head was pillowed upon a number of newspapers. Toohey ejected him and thought no more of the occurrence until he found Keys dead in his room.

FRIEDMANN AID TO SUE.

Dr. Benjamin Says German Doctor Came Here for Personal Gain.

Dr. Harry Benjamin, who at one time was chief assistant to Dr. Friedrich Franz Friedmann, who came to the United States from Germany with a turtle vaccine as a remedy for tuberculosis, announced yesterday that he was taking steps to sue Dr. Friedmann for an accounting of the profits of the sale to the drug house of Eisner & Mendelsohn of the American rights to the remedy.

Dr. Benjamin states that he entered the employ of Dr. Friedmann in Germany. Before starting for America, he says, Dr. Friedmann told him that he was coming to this country not only "to help suffering humanity," but for personal gain and profit. Dr. Benjamin said he worked for Dr. Friedmann for two months in this country without receiving an accounting.

The Friedmann Institute sent out word yesterday that it had been "specially notified" that the Board of Health was prepared to receive full and complete data regarding the method of use of the Friedman vaccine, including a specimen of the culture and other agents employed therewith, and a full account of the details of preparation, dosage, and administration.

CONFESSES MURDER, ROBS VICTIM'S HEIRS

Slayer Turns State's Evidence When Heirs of Dead Detective Seek Damages.

ONCE ACQUITTED OF CRIME

Iron Molder Testifies in Civil Suit That He Killed Reardon of Pittsburgh in 1910.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, June 5.—Lee Cage, a member of the Iron Molders' Union of Wheeling, W. Va., confessed in the United States District Court here to-day that he killed Detective John J. Reardon of Pittsburgh at Steubenville, Ohio, in 1910. The killing occurred during a period of labor trouble. Cage was tried at Steubenville for the murder and was acquitted.

The confession was made in connection with a civil hearing before Judge Sater and resulted in a speedy dismissal of the proceedings. The case involved the disposition of $3,000 reward money offered by the Commissioners of Jefferson County and another suit by Reardon's administrator to collect $5,000 damages from the county because of Reardon's death. Following the iron molder's admission that he fired the shots which killed the detective a judgment of $1,500 was entered in favor of Reardon's heirs.

The appearance of Cage on the witness stand came as a surprise to attorneys for Reardon's estate. He said he had come into court voluntarily.

"So you were not satisfied with having killed Reardon, but now come into court and confess to that crime so that you may help to defraud the little daughter of your victim out of what rightfully belongs to her?" asked Attorney Lewis.

"Oh, I don't know as I am," retorted Cage.

Judge Sater was stunned by Cage's unexpected confession and exclaimed:

"You really mean to tell this court that you assassinated that man?"

"They buried him, didn't they?" replied Cage.

After the settlement of the case Cage left the courtroom hurriedly. His acquittal gives him immunity from another trial for the crime.

AUTO AND TRUCK CRASH.

Horse Killed by Motor Said to be Owned by William McCombs.

An automobile which, according to the police, was owned by William McCombs, who lives at the Hotel Plaza, ran into a truck owned and driven by Charles Emery at College Point Causeway and Ninth Avenue, Flushing, last night. Walter Connell, of 15 Jagger Avenue, Flushing, the chauffeur, escaped without injury. His companion, Ernest McIntosh, was cut about the head, and Emery suffered bruises on the left leg. One of the horses attached to the truck was killed.

Emery and McIntosh were attended by a physician from the Flushing Hospital and were taken to their homes. Connell was arrested and ordered to appear in court this morning.

At the Plaza Hotel it was said that no William McCombs lived there. William F. McCombs, former Chairman of the National Democratic Committee, had lived at the hotel from time to time, it was said, and had an automobile. Mr. McCombs sailed for Europe early in May and has not returned.

FARMERS OUT FOR BURGLARS

But Columbus, N. J., Post Office Robbers Have Five-Hour Start.

Special to The New York Times.

BURLINGTON, N. J., June 5.—Burglars dynamited the safe in the village Post Office at Columbus shortly after 1 o'clock this morning. They got $1,000 in stamps and $50 in cash.

A few residents near the Post Office, it is true, heard the report of the explosion that wrecked the heavy safe, but took it for an extra loud report from an automobile motor.

Every country road leading in and out from Columbus was guarded early this morning by farmers with shotguns, who made the occupants of every strange vehicle give an account of themselves. With a start of nearly five hours the detectives believe the robbers were well over the line into Pennsylvania before their crime was discovered.

BROKER FALLS UNDER TRAIN

John B. Kettell Loses a Leg in an Accident at Rutherford, N. J.

Special to The New York Times.

PASSAIC, N. J., June 5.—Stepping off a westbound Erie train at Rutherford station at noon to-day before the train came to a full stop, John B. Kettell, a New York broker, slipped and rolled under the truck of the car. The wheels passed over his left leg. He was rushed to the St. Mary's Hospital here, where the leg was amputated below the knee.

Mr. Kettell lives at 142 Francisco Avenue, Rutherford, and is 41 years old. His fall was due to the fact that his arms were full of bundles.

LEIPZIG IS VINDICATED.

Mrs. Weinreb Had the Wrong Man Arrested for Taking $100.

Abraham Leipzig, a retired merchant living with his family in the Manhattan Square Hotel, was freed yesterday in Harlem Court of a charge made by Mrs. Pearl Weinreb, who accused him of having taken $100 from her. When Mr. Leipzig heard on Wednesday of the woman's complaint, he went to her husband's tailoring shop at 2,135 Broadway and sought an explanation. He was arrested there.

Mrs. Leipzig's story was that on May 14 she was walking in 118th Street, near Seventh Avenue, when a man stopped her and asked about directions to take a trolley. While she was talking another man, whom she says she believed to be Leipzig, approached. The two men spoke about jewelry. Mrs. Leipzig displayed $100, which she says one of the men seized after thrusting a watch and a pair of cheap earrings into her hand.

Before Magistrate Barlow yesterday Mr. Leipzig proved he was in the office of his lawyer, Samuel J. Jacobs, at 133 Nassau Street, at the time Mrs. Weinreb accused him of taking the money. Mrs. Weinreb, who lives at 43 West 112th Street, told the court that when the man took her money she did not make an outcry because she thought she recognized Mr. Leipzig and could find him when she wanted to.

GOT SOUP INSTEAD OF SOAP.

Hotel Guests Now Warned to Speak Distinctly When Telephoning.

When new girls are being broken in at a telephone exchange, a man who does not speak distinctly when he gives an order for his breakfast or luncheon over the telephone, heed not be surprised at the result.

Indistinct utterance was given as the reason why the man at the McAlpin in 631, who ordered "soap and towels" yesterday, was served a few minutes later with soup and rolls. For the same reason a man in 913 had to explain to the waiter who came to his door asking what an order which the operator had taken down as "chicken broth, steamed dry," meant, that he had called for chicken broth with steamed rice.

Sulzer Sends Regrets.

Gen. George W. Wingate has received a letter from Gov. Sulzer expressing his regret that an engagement to speak at Catskill will prevent his attendance at the Public Schools Athletic League's meet in Central Park this afternoon.

DEATH FORESTALLS POLICE.

Inspector Daly's Raiders Arrive as Resort Keeper Expires.

Inspector John Daly started out at 10 o'clock last night at the head of a squad of detectives to clean up Brooklyn's Tenderloin. Armed with warrants, he entered four resorts, and at three arrested the proprietors. At the fourth place, at 236 Sand Street, the Inspector found that he was too late. Just as his detectives were climbing out of the patrol wagon to fight their way through a jeering crowd, an ambulance from the Holy Family Hospital dashed up. Inspector Daly ordered his men to open a lane in the crowd for Dr. Cotter, the physician. In an upper room the Inspector and physician found Proprietor Lawrence De Ambrose unconscious. He had been seized by a hemorrhage just before the police arrived and died a few minutes later.

Inspector Daly was transferred to Brooklyn not long ago by Commissioner Waldo. He has ben obtaining evidence for several days.

FALLEN HORSE TIES UP CARS

West Side Lines Blocked While He Is Pulled from a Trench.

A horse which fell into an excavation at Canal Street and West Broadway yesterday evening, tied up traffic in the rush hour on four lines of surface cars which come together at that point; the Canal Street crosstown, and the Sixth, Amsterdam, and Eighth Avenue cars. The delay lasted for three-quarters of an hour. The horse was attached to a truck driven by John McCarthy of 319 East Thirty-ninth Street. In trying to avoid a car he drove into an excavation between the tracks, which had been opened to put in a switch. There was a drop of seven feet.

The right foreleg of the horse was found to be within two inches of the feed rail, and the power was turned off. The animal was breathing heavily, and to save it from suffocation Patrolman Ryan of the Leonard Street station lowered himself at some risk into the hole and held its head in a position that made breathing easier until the horse was released.

Immigration Bill Reintroduced.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Senator Smith of South Carolina to-day introduced an immigration bill which is practically a duplicate of the Burnett-Dillingham bill passed by Congress at the late session and vetoed by President Taft.

That Friday Night Dinner

Of Hungarian Specialties, with wine, at one dollar, is the result of years of study. It has attained a reputation among good livers. No less famed is the jolly genial atmosphere that permeates the Boulevard.

The Cabaret and Hungarian orchestra entertain with modern European and popular American melodies. For almost twenty years the Boulevard has been the only resort of its kind in America.

The Home of Hart, Schaffner & Marx Clothes

$25—And Clothes Efficiency

WHETHER you pay $18 or $50, we believe we are giving you more real clothes value than you will find otherwise in New York.

We especially urge the man who is looking for the most in both economy and quality to come and see our Hart, Schaffner & Marx Clothes at $25.00.

A good many men who are clothes-wise have found this out.

So at $25.00 Hart, Schaffner & Marx make extra effort—and the result is very great variety and really extraordinary values.

The Hart, Schaffner & Marx Suits we are offering here these days at $25.00 have set a new standard for what $25.00 ought to buy.

Clothes from Maker to Wearer

Some $30 Suits $15
—Moe Levy

"Bad Weather—too late. Don't ship balance of our Spring Order." Thus read a telegram received from one of my wholesale customers in Grand Rapids.

A combination of cold, wet weather and a delay on this end caused this cancellation of eight hundred $30 Spring Suits. We couldn't help the delay, because the labor troubles in January and February put us behind for our Retail Department and we had to sidetrack everything else to catch up.

We are left with these 800 Suits and must dispose of them in some way. We could have sold them at Wholesale and taken a loss,—but rather than do this decided to put them on sale in our Retail Store. The whole lot is priced at $15, and this means a saving of at least 50%. Remember, not a Suit in this lot was made to retail at less than $30, and they're all worth it. This is one of the greatest opportunities I've ever offered my customers.

Blue Serges and Pencil Stripes

Besides these two fabrics, there are over twenty other beautiful light weight materials—some Club Checks and Plain Checks—some Shadow Stripes, Chalk Lines and Shepherd Plaids, in both Cassimeres and Worsteds. They are all tailored in the most fashionable modes—some are London cut with graceful curves and the soft rolling lapels—others are swagger with accentuated lines of style—then again there are the more conservative models for the men of retiring disposition. However, no matter the style, they're all in perfect accord with good taste, and are beautifully made and trimmed. All a $30.00 value at $15.00.
